CITY'S MILLIONS GO FOR HIGHWAY IT CAN'T BUILD

War Halts Project for Duration.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The city of Chicago is pouring more than 5½ million dollars into land acquisitions for the proposed 42 million dollar Congress street superhighway, altho construction work cannot be started during the war and no plan for financing the entire project has been worked out, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, said yesterday.

Under the city's theoretical program for financing the Congress street widening, local officials are counting on the state of Illinois and the federal government to contribute $20,592,000, or nearly half the total estimated cost. The state has been asked by the city to use motor fuel tax funds and federal money is being sought from the Federal Roads administration. Neither government, however, has committed itself to advance any funds, Harrington conceded.

Federal Allotment Drops.

Prospects of obtaining state and federal funds, moreover, are admittedly growing dimmer. The state's receipts of motor fuel taxes are currently running 15 per cent below the 1941 level. The FRA allotment for Illinois roads for the year ending July 1, 1943, was reduced to $4,600,000, compared with 6 to 9 millions in recent years, and state officials do not anticipate any further federal allotments for roads during the war.

In spite of these uncertainties, the city already has agreed to buy nine parcels of real estate for the Congress street project at a cost of $570,500, and is negotiating for other parcels which Harrington estimated will cost $5,002,500. The locations of the nine parcels, prices the city has agreed to pay, and the present owners, are:

477 South Plymouth court [seven story building], $70,000; owned ¼ by trustees for the California Institute of Technology, ¼ by Marjorie F. Lloyd Smith c/o Meyer Handleman, New York City, and ½ by Kate Merle-Smith, Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

504 South Plymouth court [vacant], $71,500; owned by trustees under trust of Philip Mathiessen Chancellor, Berkeley Hills, Cal.

440-502 South Clark street [three parcels improved with six and four story buildings], $76,500; owned by Northern Trust company as trustee under will of Sidney A. Kent, deceased.

507-09 South Wells street [vacant], $25,000; owned by First National Bank of Chicago as trustee.

513-15 South Wells street [eight story building], $56,000; owned ½ by trustees under will of Calvin De Wolf, deceased, and ½ by trustees under will of Mary Frances Kellogg, deceased.

512-20 South Wells street [four story building], $101,500; owned by First National bank as trustee under will of Otto Young, deceased.

512-30 South Franklin street [vacant], $170,000; owned by Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company.

The city's money for these land purchases is being taken from its share of state motor fuel taxes [the city gets 1 cent of each 3 cents collected in Chicago].

The total estimated cost of rights of way for the proposed eight lane highway, which would run from Leif Erickson drive to Austin boulevard [the city limits], is $21,915,000, according to Harrington. This is more than the prospective cost for actual highway construction, which is $19,900,000.

The program has been assailed by critics as a "pressure" project which would result in profits to real estate speculators running into millions of dollars.

Use Subway as Lever.

Aldermen and pressure groups on the west side have recently been clamoring for the city to start buying the Congress street right of way with the argument that such acquisitions will clear the way for immediate construction of the extension of the Dearborn street subway under Congress street to the river.

This argument was exploded by

TRIBUNE ADDS FANS' $111,600 TO ARMY RELIEF

Sum Contributed in All-Star Drive.

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the ninth annual All-Star football game between the College All-Americans and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field tomorrow night, yesterday presented a check to the Army Emergency relief fund for $111,600. This sum represents the total contributions to the special campaign for Army Emergency relief conducted by the sports department of THE TRIBUNE.

In addition to the check for $111,600, Army Emergency relief will receive half the profits of the game. The other half will go to the Navy Relief society. The entire donation to war charities will approximate $160,000, the largest amount raised by any sports event since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

[Stories from the camps of the All-Stars and Bears will be found in the sports section.]

"Magnificent Job," Says Officer.

Lieut. Col. Walter Jeffrey, executive director of Army Emergency relief in the 6th service command, in accepting the check yesterday said: "This voluntary contribution of $111,600 from sportsmen of the middle west is accepted with deep appreciation and with a great sense of responsibility. The sports department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has put over a magnificent job of coöperation with a wholly unselfish and patriotic motive. Maj. Gen. George Grunert of the 6th service command; Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles, chief of the war department's bureau of public relations, who approved the All-Star game, and Maj. Gen. Irving J. Phillipson, executive director of the Army Emergency relief in Washington, want me to extend their personal thanks to the people of this community for their interest in this important military activity."

362 Contribute to Fund.

Contributions to the Army Emergency relief fund came from 362 individuals and business firms. Chicago Tribune Charities awarded a seat on the 50 yard line for every $100 donation. No high pressure solicitation entered in the campaign. Much of the money was raised by personal friends of the Tribune sports department. While most of the contributions came from the area in which THE TRIBUNE has a heavy circulation, several donations were from cities as far away as New York and Washington.

The game will attract 101,200 from more than 30 states. A few thousand seats still are available at $2.20 and $1.10. Ceremonies will begin at 8:15 p. m.

BRITISH LIFT BAN ON DAILY WORKER, RED NEWSPAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—After resisting petitions and appeals from the house of commons, the press and public meetings for more than 19 months, Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison tonight relented and lifted the ban on the Communist organ, the Daily Worker.

The sanction to resume publication also applies to the extreme left wing news sheet "The Week," which with the Worker was suppressed in January, 1941, on the ground that it systematically published matter calculated to foment opposition to prosecution of the war.

Morrison's action comes on the heels of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's return from Moscow and is hailed by William Rust, Daily Worker editor, as "a victory for national unity."

"I do not think there can be any connection between lifting of the Daily Worker ban and the Churchill-Stalin talks, however," he told the Tribune correspondent, "because the suppression of the Worker is an internal matter which I cannot think Churchill would discuss with another government."

The British government recently began publication of its own newspaper in Moscow.

34 Tons in War Share Honors with Old Jan

Old Jan Ton was proud when he saved the church bell money from the robbers, proud when he saw his stalwart family spreading westward to the Pacific.

But old Jan Ton would be prouder still if he could sit today at the 47th annual reunion of the Ton Family, Inc., in the Thornton forest preserve.

The Tons may not talk about old Jan Ton and his wooden shoes. They may not mention his fabulous exploits in the strange land to which he came from his native Holland. Old Jan Ton would not want them to. There are more important matters now, and young men who overshadow even the founder of the family in the United States.

Honor 34 in Services.

They are the 34 descendants of Jan Ton who are fighting for Uncle Sam in the army, the navy, the marines, and the coast guard. The honors of the nation's largest incorporated family this year will go to them.

Hundreds of the Ton family, which numbers 1,472, will sign a letter to the Tons in the armed services.

Not all of the Tons can attend the reunion here. Hundreds more will go to the simultaneous reunion of the Pacific coast branch of the family at Los Angeles. Tons in almost every state will send greetings.

It was in 1847 that Jan Ton gave up his wooden shoes for shoes of leather and boarded a schooner for the United States. Seventeen aboard died of cholera on the 40 day trip. But Jan Ton was 21, and strong. He survived. So did Aggie Van der Syde.

Sends for Kin.

Jan Ton married Aggie and brought her to the district that is now Roseland, on Chicago's south side. He worked as a farmer. Soon he sent for his seven brothers and sisters.

Jan led the little group that built the first Dutch Reformed church there, and collected $300 for a bell. His wife was nursing a daughter 4 days old when robbers came to take the money. They beat Jan with clubs, but he would not tell them where the money was hidden.

Jan later ordered the bell and drove an ox team to Chicago to get it. On the way back the bell fell into a swamp. He guarded it three days and nights until it was recovered.

Old Jan Ton can share his honors.

ROME REPORTS ALLIED FORCE AT GIBRALTAR; FEARS RAID ON TUNISIA

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Rome correspondent of the Tribune de Geneve said today that reports of allied concentrations of transports and warships at Gibraltar and west African ports were current in Italy, where they were interpreted as possible preparations for opening a second front.

The correspondent said that "these considerable concentrations," according to views held in Rome, might be intended as reënforcements for Atlantic convoys, "but it is also thought possible that they are destined for use in a surprise attack in the Mediterranean basin similar to that at Dieppe."

The correspondent said Italians are pointing to French Tunisia as "the most exposed point" in the Mediterranean. The writer said an allied attack on Tunisia would put allied forces at the back of the axis armies in Egypt.

COUPLE AND NINE OF 25 CHILDREN PICKET CITY HALL

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 26 [Special].—Stanley Kinski; his wife, Pauline, and nine of their 25 children picketed the city hall here this afternoon after they were evicted from their home at 1565 West Washington street earlier in the day. The children range from Bernice, 17 years, to Joseph, 2 years. Kinski said his wife was the mother of 19 children and that six others were children of an earlier marriage. He said one son, Henry, 26, is serving with the United States army in Australia.

The children carried signs lettered "Help us find a home."

Frank L. Greenya, assistant superintendent of public aid, said his office was trying to find a home, but could not locate one large enough to take care of the entire family.

The Kinskis were served with a notice in May that they would have to vacate their home. The place had been rented thru the relief department for $42.50 a month. Kinski said he was evicted because he demanded some remodeling and repainting.

The relief department found a job for Kinski in a Milwaukee defense plant, but he turned it down, Greenya said.

"It's my feet," Kinski complained, "they can't stand the strain."

An Oft Scorned Weed Finds a Friend in Need

W. J. Smith is satisfied. If the ragweed is growing 8 feet high in the north section of the county, let it.

That wasn't his state of mind on July 24 when Mr. Smith of 422 North avenue, Waukegan, wrote to THE TRIBUNE complaining of acres of ragweed in the Skokie lagoons section of the forest preserves.

His letter was referred to Robert Mann, superintendent for the preserve district. It mentioned the 250,000 hay fever victims in Chicago and the suburbs and described the connection between ragweed pollen and hay fever.

Mr. Smith Gets Answer.

Yesterday Mr. Smith had his answer. Mr. Mann's letter said:

"Dear sir: If you will take the trouble to investigate and observe you will find that all along the Skokie river or ditch in the unimproved, original portion in Cook county there are great quantities of giant ragweed.

"It naturally grows in low, rich flood plains. It always did."

Mr. Mann's letter explained that the district operates more than 35,000 acres and said that when CCC and WPA labor was available a large force was kept busy cutting giant ragweed and thistle, but that now the CCC has been abolished, the WPA is dwindling, and all available men are busy cutting thistles. Then he said:

"Common ragweeds belong on high meadows. They are an important source of food for upland birds. Giant ragweed, or 'horseweed,' belongs in stream valleys such as that of the Skokie river. You never saw a natural stream without it.

Ah, Lovely Nature!

"The forest preserves are what they were intended to be: Native landscape kept in or restored to its natural condition. The villagers near by benefit greatly because these preserves are unspoiled and wild.

"Their property values are increased accordingly. Their youngsters roam these woods and meadows and the banks of the rivers and creeks. They learn thereby of nature and all its wild things. They absorb its philosophies and come to recognize its network of ecological relationships."

As far as Mr. Smith is concerned, he said yesterday, that ends it. Far be it from him to have nature spoiled. Besides, Mr. Smith doesn't have hay fever.

HIT BY M'ARTHUR PLANES; SOVIETS GAIN 25 MILES

U. S. Navy Repulses Enemy Ships in Solomons.

(Maps on pages 6 and 10.)

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 27 [Thursday]—(AP).—Japanese shock troops have landed on the southeastern tip of New Guinea, less than 500 miles from the Australian mainland, despite heavy allied air action which destroyed one enemy transport, six landing barges, and probably a cruiser, it was announced officially today.

The Japanese marines landed from a small convoy at Milne Bay, 180 miles down the New Guinea coast from Buna, where the Japanese have established an air base, and about 240 miles from Port Moresby.

Ground Forces Engaged.

"Our ground forces anticipated this movement and are in contact with the enemy," a spokesman said.

The Japanese convoy was the same which allied airmen had attacked two days ago south of the Trobriand Islands, he disclosed. In those attacks one enemy gunboat was sunk and an undetermined number of casualties were inflicted on two transports which were machine gunned by allied fighter bombers.

This ominous development is only 600 miles west of the United States naval air action in the Solomon Islands. The communique said:

"Milne Bay: In the face of strong air opposition the enemy landed ground forces from a small convoy during the night.

"Allied heavy bombers, under the most adverse flying conditions, attacked from a low altitude and sank a transport, heavily damaged and probably sank a cruiser, and damaged a destroyer.

"One of our bombers was shot down.

Shore Troops Bombed.

"Our medium bombers and fighters heavily bombed and strafed enemy barges, supplies, and enemy personnel on shore. Many fires were started and six landing barges were destroyed."

Allied airmen also attacked Buna, the apparent Japanese springboard for the advance to Milne Bay. They were reported officially to have destroyed six Japanese fighters and damaged two. Two surprise attacks on the same base Tuesday were said to have destroyed 13 enemy fighters. One allied plane was lost in this newest raid.

The little settlement of Gabo is at the head of Milne Bay. Gabo is only 40 miles northwest of Samara, another Australian native settlement on the tip of New Guinea. Cape York in northeastern Australia is less than 500 miles from Milne Bay.

Japanese ground forces driving inland from Buna are stopped at Kokoda, 60 miles from Port Moresby. But the towering Owen Stanley range hampers any overland assault against the allied base. Hence the Japanese movement to Milne Bay.

Japanese planes were reported to have dropped a few bombs on Broome in western Australia early this morning, but no damage was caused and there were no casualties.

Batter 14 Divisions; Nazi Drives Near Stalingrad.

Gen. Gregory Zhukov.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 [Thursday]—(AP).—A soviet counterattack northwest of Moscow to relieve pressure on imperiled Stalingrad was reported officially early today to have killed 45,000 Germans in a 15 day push that recaptured 610 localities and regained from 25 to 30 miles of territory.

Soviet troops under Gen. Gregory Zhukov, who turned the Germans back from Moscow last fall, were reported fighting at the gates of Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of the Red capital, after retaking the towns of Karmanovo, Pogoreloye-Gorodishche and Zubstov, a German stronghold 20 miles east of Rzhev.

Five German divisions were reported to have suffered heavy losses and nine others were routed by the Red army.

Two-Way Drive on Stalingrad.

It still was too early to determine the effects that this huge drive may have in relieving the critical Stalingrad front, where a million man Nazi army was assaulting the approaches to that vital Volga city from two directions.

A midnight communique issued after the special announcement telling of the drive on the Kalinin and western fronts, said:

"In the area northwest of Stalingrad intense battles continue. The enemy has concentrated large forces of tanks and infantry and under cover of his air force is continuously attacking our positions.

"Our troops are repelling enemy attacks, as well as launching counterattacks upon the German Fascist troops."

Nazis Gain in Caucasus.

Deep in the Caucasus, the Germans were acknowledged to have reached Mozdok, only about 55 miles west of the rich oil city of Grozny. The advance to Mozdok represented a 30 mile Nazi gain from the Prokhladnaya sector in the west, but the Russians said fighting was continuing in the latter area.

Soviet troops still were hanging on the German flanks northwest of Stalingrad inside the Don river loop itself at Kletskaya, but the main Nazi drive had passed that city to cross the Don for a descent on Stalingrad.

The Red army also was battling stoutly southwest of Stalingrad in the Kotelnikovo sector, where the communique said "Soviet forces are holding the enemy onslaught and wearing down his man power by repeated counterattacks."

Reds' Drive No Surprise.

Sixty-two Nazi tanks were reported hit by one Soviet unit in this sector. A second unit destroyed 13 others and killed 500 Germans, while a detachment fighting northwest of Stalingrad destroyed at least 29 German tanks.

Between the Don and Volga rivers, hundreds of German bodies littered the approaches to Stalingrad. The Germans were believed to be only 30 miles from the city. Scores of tanks became funeral pyres for their crews, but the Nazis continued to roll big reserves forward.

The big Russian counter drive against the Nazi defenses in the Rzhev, Ghatsk, Vyazma triangle west and northwest of Moscow did not come as a surprise here. There have been rumors of this great struggle for days.

Other Russian Successes.

The Germans held this strongly fortified area thruout the winter despite Russian gains to the north and south.

Besides battering 14 Nazi divisions and retaking 610 inhabited places in the Rzhev offensive, the Russians claim they have:

Destroyed 324 tanks; captured 250 tanks, 757 guns, 1,615 machine guns, 11,100 rifles, and many vehicles, and destroyed 250 German planes in the air and 296 on the ground.

Far to the southeast, thousands of workers from the factories of Stalingrad sprang to its defense.

The Nazi armored machines which cracked the Russian defenses on the east bank of the Don last week smashed ahead for a second time, fighting a running battle with Red army tanks. Finally, the attacking phalanx was checked, at least temporarily, and the Russian lines reformed on the northwest approaches to Stalingrad.

Russians Counterattack.

Meanwhile the first Russian flank counterattack east of the Don, aimed at breaking off the enemy salient, made some progress, but failed to halt the headlong German drive.

Below Stalingrad, the Red army's position did not appear so hazardous as northwest of the city. Yesterday's communique said no further withdrawal "northeast of Kotelnikovo," its designation for the battle sector some 40 miles southwest of Stalingrad. It said soviet mortar crews had shelled a column of German tanks and trucks, destroying four tanks and 16 trucks.

A dispatch from Stalingrad to the newspaper Izvestia told of the civilian reserves which the army has trained to fill the ranks in final defense of the Volga gateway, just as the workers of Leningrad fought a year ago.

From such factories as the Stalingrad tractor plant and the Red October metal works, the laborers have been drilled under battle conditions in the use of rifles, automatic guns, machine guns, and mortars. Now, said Izvestia, all these fighters are ready to stand with the active army.

A Ray of Hope Seen.

Red Star, the army organ, urged: "Show no fear, no panic, in the struggle with the enemy! Defend our cities!"

Amid the generally black picture painted by military dispatches from the south was one flicker of hope—a Red Star report that the battles in the Caucasus mountains to the south had entered a new phase now that the Germans have reached the main barrier of the Caucasus range.

Until recently the campaign has been fought on the broad plains of of the north Caucasus and in the foothills of the mountains, which stretch from the Black sea to the Caspian.

Grozny, the oil field center now within 55 miles of the battle zone, lies on the northern slopes of the mountains, but only a few passes lead thru the towering range to the other oil fields at Baku, Tiflis, and Batum.

"Natural conditions of the rough terrain have greatly changed the position on this sector of the front," said Red Star. It pointed out that the mountains had blocked German tanks and motorized infantry and that the enemy was forced to operate in separate columns.

Report Great Fires in Stalingrad.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The Russians in violent fighting have been thrown back farther eastward toward Stalingrad, where great fires are raging as a result of continuing night and day attacks by the German air force, the German high command reported today.

German mountain troops are pressing ahead in the Caucasus, having captured several high mountain passes despite stubborn soviet resistance, a communique said.

On the Volga river, German planes sank a large ship, set a tanker afire, and damaged three freighters, the announcement added.

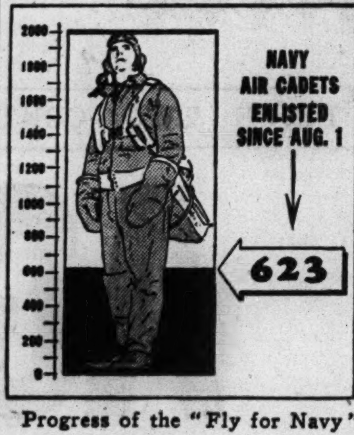
Admit Heavy Red Attacks.

Southwest of Kaluga and on the Rzhev front, south and west of Moscow, continued strong attacks by tank supported soviet forces were acknowledged, but all were declared to have collapsed in the face of "unshakable" German resistance that destroyed 85 Russian tanks.

Several soviet attacks outside Leningrad were reported repelled in hand to hand fighting.

Russian plane losses from Aug. 1 to 23 were set at 2,505, compared with 140 for the Germans.

Fly for Navy!



Progress of the "Fly for Navy" recruiting campaign.

Six of the Quiz Kids took the army's aviation cadet screening test yesterday and passed with flying colors.

The test was given the youngsters in room 283 of the federal courthouse, where during the past months applicants for the army air forces have been scratching their heads. The test is designed for high school graduates from 18 to 26 years of age. A passing grade is 80 out of 150 possible points. A grade of 65 or over qualifies the applicant for civilian pilot training. The six children's ages ranged from 11 to 15. Their grades ranged from 65 to 131.

The naval aviation cadet selection board in the Board of Trade building reported that 56 cadets were accepted in the 24 hours ended at noon yesterday. This brought the total enlisted thru the office since Aug. 1 in the "Fly for Navy" drive to 623.

Pledges Egypt Will Give All Possible Aid to the Allies

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP).—Premier Nahas Pasha, broadcasting on the sixth anniversary of the signing of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, today said "the cause of the democracies is Egypt's cause." "We have given and shall continue to give the democracies all the aid in our power," he said.

CHARGES RACING NEWS BOTTLES UP WAR TELEGRAMS

CIO Chief Demands Probe of Telegraph Industry.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special]. —Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, today charged that because the telegraph industry is giving priorities to horse racing results, brewery orders and other such nonessential messages, instead of to those dealing with military operations, America's war effort is being seriously retarded.

Delays of 24 hours have occurred in telegrams affecting munitions manufacture, medical supplies for our fighting men abroad, domestic troop movements and even in messages sent to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, Murray declared.

Quotes Federal Authority.

Citing the board of war communications headed by James L. Fly as his authority, Murray asserted:

"When messages to Gen. MacArthur are delayed and messages relating to troop movements are left undelivered until the next day while horse racing reports get extra special handling, it is time to do something about the telegraph industry."

Both the Western Union and Postal companies were included in Murray's charges. He listed delays in handling air raid warnings and orders to interceptor commands of the army air forces, whose job it would be to protect the seaboard in the event of an enemy air attack.

Demands Congress Act.

Action in congress is expected to follow Murray's blast, as his organization has demanded that a searching inquiry be conducted by the Truman senate investigating committee. Specific charges to be lodged with the committee include;

That in the city of New York, a message from the secretary of state was delayed 7½ hours, and that in the same city messages from the 1st interceptor command have been delayed. That nevertheless, until very recently, employés had orders to handle the business of a prominent insurance company before all other messages.

Brewery Gets Right of Way.

That in St. Louis, Mo., production in the Scullin Steel company and the National Cartridge company has been held up appreciably because of serious delays in the delivery of telegrams. In the same city there are constant delays in messages relating to orders for medical supplies for our armed forces all over the world. Yet, in the city of St. Louis, this same company gives the messages of the Anheuser Brewing company priority over messages from all other sources.

That in the cities of Augusta, Ga., Dallas, Tex., and Chicago, Ill., messages from important war production plants constantly are delayed. Yet, in these same cities, messages announcing horse racing results get priority service.

"The communications industry threatens to become a serious bottleneck in our war production and the public should know about it," Murray stated.

INCUMBENTS VICTORS IN PRIMARY VOTING HELD IN 3 STATES

Following are the results of the more important Tuesday primaries:

CALIFORNIA — Six congressmen who had been under fire for their stands on defense and foreign policies were renominated. Earl Warren, state G. O. P. leader, polled nearly twice as many votes as Democratic Gov. Culbert L. Olson to win the gubernatorial nomination of his party and nearly win the Democratic nomination.

MISSISSIPPI — Rep. John E. Rankin, bitter foe of communism and of Marshall Field's New York paper PM, won renomination by a 2 to 1 vote despite efforts to have him "purged." Four other incumbent members of the house of representatives were renominated. A run-off primary will decide the Democratic senatorial nomination.

SOUTH CAROLINA – Sen. Burnet R. Maybank apparently was renominated over Eugene S. Blease, 65 years old, former chief justice of the state Supreme court. Former Gov. Olin D. Johnston, was nominated for governor, defeating Wyndham M. Manning. Three representatives who had opposition were renominated by big majorities.

Negro Shot and Killed; Another Critically Hurt

Morris Johnson, colored, 18 years old, 127 East 48th street, was shot and killed last night and another Negro was wounded critically in front of 4706 Calumet avenue. Police said they apparently were bystanders during a fight reportedly started by Charles Crawford, 17, also colored, who was said by witnesses to have fired several shots into a crowd. The injured man is Ernest Moreland, 45, 119 East 49th street.

REVEALS BRITAIN SENT PLANES AND GUNS TO AID U.S.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—British aid for America in the form of planes, antiaircraft guns and balloons for barrages to reënforce United States air defenses were dispatched across the Atlantic immediately on America's entry into the war, Oliver Lyttelton, British production minister, said in a radio talk to the United States tonight. In addition, Lyttelton said, submarine chasers also were sent to battle against U-boats off American coasts in the Carribean sea.

Lyttelton said that British pursuit planes were the fastest and most efficient in the world and that her antiaircraft, field and anti-tank guns were at least equal to any weapon produced anywhere.

He admitted that early models of British tanks to meet the invasion had some defects but said the latest types have at the least no superiors.

Lend-lease, said Lyttelton, was not entirely one way traffic; rather, he said, it was reciprocal aid as some things for which the United States was in urgent need are being supplied by Britain. Reciprocal aid, he said, is the outcome of reciprocal aims and reciprocal thoughts.

"Don't let either these aims or these thoughts wither, for upon their flowering depends the future of mankind," the production chief cautioned.

Comparing production efforts of the two countries, Lyttelton said that Britain was going all-out.

"I am going to blow the trumpet because I believe the extent of British war production is not even now fully known in the United States," he declared.

Allowing for differences of population, Lyttelton said that in the second quarter of this year United States output had grown immensely but Britain was producing about twice the weight in combat aircraft and one and a half times as much army munitions compared with the United States.

AIR POWER COMES INTO ITS OWN IN HIGH ARMY POSTS

Most Top Commanders Are Flying Officers.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—The rising importance of air power in modern warfare is demonstrated in the high command of the American army by the fact that seven of the 14 generals who are running the war at home and overseas are air corps officers. Four of the 12 officers are infantrymen. The tank, artillery, and the engineer corps contribute one each.

All except two of the 12 are graduates of West Point, which indicates that the military academy is in the saddle in time of war as well as in time of peace.

One of the exceptions is no less a figure than Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army. He is a graduate of what is considered the nation's second military school, Virginia Military institute.

Half Saw World War Service.

Half of the leading general officers saw active service during the World war. One came close to war service by serving with the army of occupation in Germany. The percentage who saw active service during the World war is lowered by the fact that pioneer army aviators were kept at home as instructors, thus missing active service.

A list of the dozen leading generals, with pertinent statistics on age, nativity, schooling and efforts for which they are distinguished, follows:

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff. Born in Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 31, 1880, and educated at Virginia Military institute. Commissioned in the infantry in 1907. Saw active service in the Philippine insurrection campaign and the World war. Attached to the general staff of the 1st division; chief of operations of the 1st army; chief of staff of the 8th army corps. Participated in the battles of Cantigny, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, and the Meuse-Argonne. Awarded the distinguished service medal and the French croix de guerre with palm. Following the war he served in China as an instructor at the Army War college, as chief of the war plans division, with troops, and as deputy chief of staff of the army. He was promoted from deputy chief of staff to his present post in 1939.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the Australian area. Born in Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 26, 1880, the son of Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur. Educated at West Point. Has the most distinguished military record of any living officer and one of the most impressive in American military history. Saw active service in the Philippine insurrection, at the Mexican border in 1916, in the World war and at Bataan. Holds all American medals for bravery and distinguished service and innumerable foreign decorations. Regarded as the outstanding allied officer of the war.

Maj. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff. Born in Emporium, Pa., Aug. 28, 1893. Educated at West Point, graduating in 1915. Served overseas, commanding corps observation groups. Pioneer army air man. Has served as an air instructor, commander of a flying field and on air staff.

Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commander of the army ground forces. Born at Verndale, Minn., May 25, 1883. Graduated from West Point in 1904. Served with the Vera Cruz expedition in 1914, at the Mexican border in 1916, and in the World war, winning the distinguished service medal as senior artillery officer in the training section.

Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of ground staff. Born in New York May 1, 1896. Graduated from West Point in 1917. Saw no active service in the World war. Promoted thru the grades in the infantry.

Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of army air forces. Born in Gladwyne, Pa., July 25, 1886. Graduated from West Point in 1907. Pioneer army flyer, but saw no action. Early advocate of the value of air craft in modern war.

Maj. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, chief of air staff. Born in San Francisco, Jan. 19, 1888. Graduated from West Point in 1912 and from signal corps aviation school in 1916. Served in air combat during the World war and in various air commands since the war.

Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commander services of supply. Born in Little Rock, Ark., May 9, 1892. Graduated from West Point in 1914. Served with engineer corps in France during World war. Held various engineering posts since war, including that of WPA administrator for New York City from 1936 to 1940, where he became close friend of Harry Hopkins, White House intimate.

Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commander of Panama Canal area. Born in Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 3, 1884. Graduated from West Point in 1906. Went into aviation section of signal corps. After the World war was with the American occupation forces in Germany. Contributed greatly to the development of the heavy bomber in the American army.

Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander air forces in Britain. Born in Boyertown, Pa., June 28, 1891. Graduated from West Point in 1912. Served with the aero squadron at the Mexican border in 1918. During the World war saw active combat service, bringing down two planes in St. Mihiel offensive. Pioneer fighting army airman.

Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, commander of American forces in European theater. Born in Dennison, Tex., Oct. 14, 1890. Graduated from West Point in 1915. Saw no active service during World war, being on duty with tank school, winning distinguished service medal. Credited with large part in development of mechanization in American army. Served as chief of staff with MacArthur in Philippines before present war.

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, commander of American forces in Ireland. Born in Maryland, June 26, 1889. Graduated from University of Maryland and commissioned in the infantry in 1910. Saw no active service during World war.

Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of army forces at Hawaii. Born at Huntington, Va., Jan. 17, 1888. Graduated from West Point in 1909. Switched to air service in 1920. Saw no active war service. Acknowledged to be one of greatest contributors to development of army air arm.

Maj. Gen. Simeon B. Buckner Jr., commander of army forces in Alaska. Born in Munfordville, Ky., July 18, 1886, son of the Confederate general. Graduated from West Point in infantry in 1908. Served in aviation section of signal corps and in tanks corps, as well as in infantry. Has commanded Alaska defenses since 1940.

American Ship Lost in Gulf of Mexico.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 [Special].—The navy announced today that two more merchant vessels have been torpedoed and sunk by enemy submarines near our coasts.

442

One was a medium sized United States ship and the other a small Dutch ship which went down in the Caribbean area in mid-August, the announcement said.

All Safe on U. S. Ship.

The United States merchant ship was torpedoed and shelled by a submarine in the Gulf of Mexico during the early part of August with no loss of life among the crew, seamen said on arrival at a gulf coast port.

While the blacked-out vessel was proceeding at about 10 knots, the 8th naval district reported, two torpedoes struck amidships almost simultaneously, flooding part of the ship and buckling the deck. The vessel was abandoned.

A fishing vessel picked up the crewmen the same day.

Total Rises to 442.

One member of the crew of the Dutch ship was killed, 4 were missing, and 23 were rescued, many of the survivors suffering serious burns.

The new sinkings bring to 442 the Associated Press total of announced sinkings of United Nations and neutral ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor. In these sinkings, 2,389 persons have been reported killed, 1,660 missing, and 13,237 rescued.

REFINERY STRIKE IN EAST CHICAGO PLANTS ENDED

An unauthorized strike which had interrupted production in the East Chicago plants of four oil refining companies since Tuesday afternoon was ended last night. Officials of the International Oil Workers union [CIO], to which the 2,200 strikers belonged, said they would go back to work at once, at the request of department of labor conciliators.

The companies affected are Socony-Vacuum, Sinclair, Cities Service, and Shell. The union men walked out, their leaders declared, because the companies were delaying action on a demand for a 10 cents an hour increase in wages. Both sides said that the old wage scale would prevail for the present and that negotiations for a new one would be resumed tomorrow afternoon.

Among the products of the plants is aviation gasoline, and the unionists said they were heeding the call of patriotism in going back on the job. Present wage scales are from 50 cents to $1.45 an hour.

HOW HOSPITAL AT TOBRUK HELD OUT UNDER FIRE TOLD

Doctors Worked Amid Terrific Heat.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 26.—Army Minister Francis M. Forde has released the story of the functioning of the Australian General Hospital at Tobruk while the Australians withstood the Nazi siege from April 12, 1941, until they were relieved eight months later, on Dec. 10. He said it was one of the major achievements of allied defense.

The hospital had a remarkable percentage of recoveries. When 50 nurses were evacuated two days before the beginning of the siege, they were replaced by inexperienced orderlies. They showed great aptitude, and within a week were able to take their places in the operating rooms. Two of the best were an engine hand and a plumber.

Work in Terrific Heat.

The operating theaters were hot as boiler rooms. Surgeons discarded sweat-soaked gowns and worked in shorts with waterproof apons and gloves. Night conditions were especially bad, the surgeons operating under electric lights with all windows blacked out. On the beach, a section of the hospital consisted of tents dug to a depth of 5 feet in the sand in groups of three, 100 yards apart, making a 96 bed ward.

In the town itself, the hospital was set up in a former Italian barracks whose thick walls provided a measure of protection from bombs but was near many targets such as anti-aircraft posts, which were repeatedly attacked. In the first Nazi air raid two doctors, two orderlies and nearly 100 patients were killed.

Destroyers maintained a ferry service, berthing alongside the flimsiest jetty or an old wreck, unloading stores and evacuating the wounded night after night.

Americans Drive in Desert.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Aug. 26.—American field service ambulances covered some thousands of miles of desert in the Libyan battles since May, and have since been continuously active along the El Alamein and Ruweisat fronts, it was disclosed today.

These American volunteer drivers have earned high praise for their devotion to duty while under fire. By supplementing regular army ambulance units, they have enabled quicker handling of casualties and helped save many lives.

In western desert battles, 25 per cent of all American ambulances were hit, captured or destroyed by enemy action, but many have been put back on the roads by the field service's own workshops.

The American drivers are mostly college men who provided their own clothes and kit and paid the bulk of transportation expenses.

STRIKE BOUND DUTCH VESSELS READY TO SAIL

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Dutch ships, tied up in American ports since Aug. 18 by a labor dispute, are ready to sail again.

The International Transport Workers' federation said today that an agreement on working conditions and postwar security for officers and seamen had been reached in London. After being informed of the agreement, federation spokesmen said, the men involved had voted to sail "as usual."

The union representatives asserted that negotiations were between the Netherlands government in exile, shipowners, a merchant marine organization, and the Dutch Central Transport Workers' union.

The agreement called for the establishment of a Dutch merchant marine postwar reserve fund as proposed by the unions and abolishment of "spread over" working hours, the federation said. Wage demands and other points were to be considered at an early conference.

CHURCHILL BALKS AT FURTHER HIGH COMMAND SHIFTS

Meets U. S. Army Chief; 2d Front Rumors Fly.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—The British Press association said tonight that Prime Minister Churchill had decided against further changes in the British high command and was determined that the military machine "must now be given an opportunity to settle down and show what it can do without any further reshuffling for the present."

There had been persistent rumors that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell would be recalled from India to London to become a member of the war cabinet, with Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck succeeding him in India.

"Important new duties may be found" for Auchinleck, who recently retired as commander in chief in the middle east, said the press association, "but for the time being it is recognized that he has had an exhausting time and deserves rest."

U. S. Chief Meets Churchill.

A meeting between Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Churchill on his return from Moscow via the middle east again stirred speculation on the opening of a second front and selection of a generalissimo to command it.

The comparatively rare meeting of Churchill and the chief of American forces in the European theater, which occurred last night, was authoritatively described as a "visit by Gen. Eisenhower to pay his respects," but it was considered certain that the prime minister gave the general a full picture of the critical Russian military position and the second front possibilities.

Press Demands Assurances.

Meanwhile, portions of the British press frankly told Churchill today that Britain needs concrete evidence that his trip to Moscow and the middle east has produced results and warned that he must bolster home morale.

The Daily Herald, mouthpiece of the potent Trades Union congress, declared: "The British public's taste for trivial gossip about the prime minister's missions is flagging and its appetite for real news—news of results — is approaching the famine point."

The editorial was considered significant because the trade union congress is to consider a resolution demanding an immediate second front at its conference opening Sept. 7.

The Herald said Churchill's trips to Moscow, the middle east, and Washington "will become mere curios of history unless there emerges from them a coherent plan and common strategy for conduct of the war."

Warn of Deadly Apathy.

The Daily Mail, asserting that "among free people, apathy may become a deadly menace," proposed that Churchill now visit British cities to give the people guidance and thus "deal with the apathy before it begins to spread."

The Times remarked that neither the Dieppe raid nor the bombing of Germany "has relieved the continuing sense of inadequacy in British military achievement at a time when our allies face a supreme crisis—a sense which translates itself in a demand not for premature or ill-considered action but for strengthening our military organization and its better adaptation to meet the present emergencies."

Political sources have asserted that Churchill probably will report to the house of commons within two weeks on his trip to Moscow and the middle east.

Woman Faces Court Today in Stabbing of Her Husband

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon was filed by police last night against Mrs. Mildred Tyson, 23 years old, in the stabbing of her husband, Roy, 26, in their basement apartment at 14 North Elizabeth street. She will be arraigned in Women's court today. Her husband was taken to the County hospital, where physicians said his condition was critical.

Discover Poison in Body of Woman Found at Lake

Lee, Mass., Aug. 26 (AP).—Lieut. John Horgan of the state police said today that an autopsy disclosed poison in the body of Miss Hanna Sujeff Graf, 36 years old, Austrian refugee and music teacher, which was found yesterday near the shore of Laurel lake. No water was found in the lungs. He added that the organs of the woman had been sent to Boston for further examination. The sister of Dr. Herbert Graf, stage manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, Miss Graf had not been seen since she left Boston Saturday.

KICKED RIFLE WOUNDS OWNER.

Richard Srodulski, 20 years old, 2438 Augusta boulevard, was shot and wounded in his left hand last night when a rifle in the closet of his home was discharged by accident. Srodulski said he was looking for an article of clothing when he kicked the rifle and it was discharged.

BRITISH IN EGYPT RIP AXIS TROOPS MOVING TO FRONT

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 26 (AP).—Hundreds of axis troops were killed or disabled in long-range royal air force fighter raids on enemy transport columns west of El Alamein yesterday, it was reported tonight amid indications that a big new battle is developing in Egypt.

Twenty vehicles were destroyed, many of them loaded with troops apparently bound for the Alamein front 80 miles west of Alexandria. The column was attacked while moving along the coastal road between Matruh and Sidi Barrani.

[The British news agency Exchange Telegraph reported in London that New Zealand troops using bayonets had routed an Italian detachment at one point on the El Alamein front. A number of Italians were taken prisoner. The agency described the action as a reconnaissance raid and said it was made in the moonlight Tuesday night.]

U. S. Flyers Raid 3 Airfields.

Enemy aircraft on three landing fields near El Daba also were attacked last night by United States army medium bombers flying alongside South African and RAF medium bombers and naval aircraft.

The attack on this coastal point 30 miles west of the main Egyptian battlefield marked the first time in this theater of the war that members of the four forces had flown together on such an operation.

In another attack, the leader of a South African squadron, Lieut. Col. Brookenhagen, deliberately flew into telephone wires beside an enemy landing field near Sidi Barrani, 200 miles west of the main battlefield at Alamein, thereby breaking up vital communications at this important stronghold. Brookenhagen not only flew his plane home safely after this daring exploit, but he also led in his entire force unscathed.

LONDON HAILS "2D FRONT"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Thursday].—On the eve of what is expected to be a major and possibly decisive Egyptian battle for which correspondents on the spot emphasize that Gen. Sir Harold Alexander has his own plans for victory, British newspapers this morning described this front as equal in importance to Stalingrad.

From this it can be deduced that a second front, as already asserted by the London Times, has actually developed in Egypt now that Americans are playing an increasingly important part there both in the air and on the ground.

Could "Close In."

Smashing Marshal Erwin Rommel's army, it is contended here, would restore the command of the Mediterranean to the united nations, whose forces, according to the Daily Mail, "could then begin the gigantic and essential task of closing in on the enemy."

"The coming battle in Egypt may in the end reverse the fortunes of war in Russia," the Daily Mail says.

55,668 CIVILIANS GIVEN NAVY RANK, CONGRESS TOLD

Only 2,966 Regulars Rise in Same Period.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. C. L. McNary.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—The navy department has handed out 55,668 commissions to civilians since Sept. 16, 1940, or more than five times the total number of officers in the entire navy in peacetime, according to figures published in the Congressional Record today. In the same period commissions of equal rank have been granted to only 2,966 men of experience in the regular navy.

Many of the civilians were without previous training or knowledge of naval tactics and procedure. The staggering number of these commissions has aroused bitter criticism in and out of congress with complaints from various quarters that society playboys, movie stars, and others with White House or navy department connections are the chief beneficiaries.

Occupy Swivel Chairs.

Before getting their officers' bars and gold braid, they faced a call to the colors in the draft as buck privates in the army. Now the bulk of them are occupying swivel chairs, issuing orders to navy men who have been years in the service. In uniform they are in evidence undergoing the rigors of war in cocktail lounges and at social functions where their hostesses regard them as prize attractions.

Many of the newly commissioned civilians have been assigned to public relations or press agentry duties. A total of 57 officers are doing this work in the capital, inquiry at the navy department revealed, and 185 have similar duties in the naval districts, at outlying posts and with battle fleets.

The figures did not disclose how many of the commissioned civilians are in the medical corps.

No Comment on Figures.

The figures were inserted in the Congressional Record without comment by Sen. David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, in response to the request of Minority Leader Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], who had objected last week to the rapidity with which senate confirmation is being given to army and navy promotions.

Civilians receiving commissions are placed in the naval reserve on duty for the duration of the war. The ranks range from ensign to lieutenant commander. The commissions of regular navy men to the same ranks are designated as either permanent or of temporary wartime duration.

Following is a table showing the number of commissions in each category—regular navy and naval reserve—for the various ranks:

RANK—	REG. NAVY.	Civilians in naval reserve.
Lieutenant commander....	3	1,411
Lieutenant	41	4,878
Lieut. Jr. grade & ensign	2,922	49,379
Totals	2,966	55,668

It is the contention of those criticizing the present policies of the department with regard to the granting of commissions that seamen trained in the service should have received first consideration rather than the inexperienced civilians. These critics point out that many of the swivel chair officers soon are to be replaced by women and sent to sea. Placed in command of men on fighting ships, it is feared that their lack of knowledge will result in the loss of men and equipment in emergencies.

Promotion Is Quicker.

Other figures introduced by Sen. Walsh showed that promotions for civilians in the naval reserves occur with greater frequency than for the regulars. Since Sept. 16, 1940, the date of the enactment of the draft law, a total of 18,098 promotions have been dealt out to reservists while the total for the regular navy in the corresponding period is 11,826.

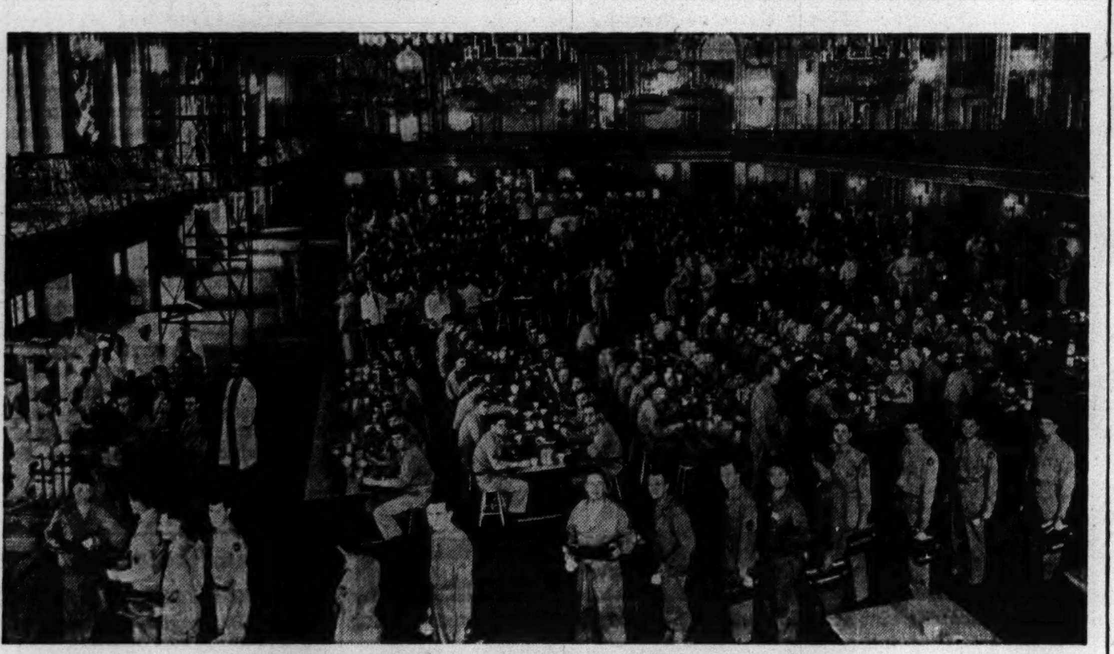
The following table shows the promotions for the various ranks for regulars, reservists, and former navy men who had retired and were recalled to duty:

	Regulars.	Reserve.	Retired.
Rear admiral	72	2	3
Captain	422	9	80
Commander	671	174	251
Lieut. commander...	2,052	2,248	266
Lieutenant	3,688	6,846	102
Lieut. [Jr. grade]...	1,802	8,622	6
Ensign [warrant to ensign]	3,099	197	...
Total	11,826	18,098	708

For comparison, other tables were introduced showing that in the marines, famous in tradition for rigorous requirements, a total of 1,640 regulars have received permanent or temporary commissions in the same period as against 4,283 civilians commissioned in the active reserves. This is a proportion of less than 3 to 1 compared with more than 18 to 1 for the navy.

It was also shown that while those commissioned from civilian life in the navy were favored over regulars in the matter of promotions, the opposite was true in the marines. A total of 2,458 marine regulars have been raised to higher ranks in the last 23 months, or nearly twice as many as the 1,315 promotions received by members of the marine reserves.

Soldiers Get Their First Meal in Hotel Ballroom



Scene yesterday in what was the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel and now is the B-19 room of unit 1 of the army air force technical school. Hundreds of soldiers, students in the school, are serving themselves cafeteria style and dining in what is probably the world's finest mess hall. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Ornate Furnishings

Hundreds of soldiers sat down yesterday for their first meal in what was the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel and is now the B-19 room of unit 1.

The soldiers are students at the army air force technical school now quartered in the building and they pitched into the food with a will. While they served themselves cafeteria style, ate at mess tables and for the most part dispensed with the niceties of table technique, the soldiers were undoubtedly eating in the finest mess hall in the world.

Col. Sheldon B. Edwards, who is mess officer, said 5,000 soldiers will be fed in the room three times a day.

Army officers said last night that young men trying to enlist in the radio technical services should not apply at either the Congress or Stevens hotels. They must go to the Aviation Cadet Selection board at 225 South Clark street or to the regular army recruiting office at 515 South Franklin street.

DEMANDS POLICY TO FIX WHO WILL WORK, WHO FIGHT

Reynolds Asks Agencies to Get Together.

Reclassification Due

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP).—State selective service headquarters announced today that a general reclassification of men in disability and conscientious objector groups would be started by draft boards next month. Col. Paul C. Armstrong, state selective service director, said a new list would be used, designed to utilize men who are able to relieve others being transferred to combat forces.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. R. R. Reynolds.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee, today called upon government agencies to eliminate public confusion regarding a definite policy apportioning the nation's man power between war industries and the armed forces.

"We have to eliminate confusion," Sen. Reynolds said. "Nobody knows what to expect. I think the selective service system and the War Man Power commission ought to get together to see if they have sufficient powers to work out a definite plan to apportion men between the armed services and war industries. If they haven't the powers they need, they should come to congress immediately. We've got to eliminate confusion. We've got to have some rule as to who is going into the army and navy, and who is going to do the war work."

Sen. Reynolds' remarks reflected increasing apprehension in congress and among industrial leaders that war industries will be seriously disrupted unless there is some coördination between the program of the selective service system to draft war workers and the efforts of the man power commission to keep skilled men on the production lines. Public confusion also has been increased by the conflicting policies of some 6,500 local boards regarding the drafting of married men and those with dependents. There is a feeling in many quarters that the man power situation could be greatly improved by the immediate drafting of 18 and 19 year old men, of which there are some 1,400,000 physically fit.

It is well understood and acknowledged officially that congress will be asked to authorize the drafting of men 18 and 19 years old immediately after the November election. The Roosevelt administration, however, has no intention of proposing such legislation before the election, according to administration leaders in congress.

While the drafting of these 1,400,000 young men is to be postponed because of political considerations, men with secondary dependents and married men with wives only will be drafted by Christmas, according to Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director.

JAP WEAKNESSES EXPOSED BY U. S. ISLANDS SEIZURE

New Zealand Regards Hold on Sea Lost.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 25 [Delayed].—As the Solomons operations entered the third week its full significance for the south Pacific defense became apparent.

The Japs have been halted for the first time in their dangerous drive toward the Australian east coast and heading for New Caledonia, threatening not only the American-Australian supply line but the sea route between Australia and New Zealand as well.

They have failed to mobilize sufficient sea and air strength despite the fact that their "Pearl Harbor" at Truk Island in the Carolines group is only 600 miles away from the still raging battle.

They have been proved to have too light forces in the Solomons to repel or even hold the first thrust made by Uncle Sam's army. Their apparent failure to send big ships against the allied fleet is seen as proving that Midway and the Coral sea pioneered a new era in the Pacific sea war in which Jap admirals will prove cagey in handling their remaining battleships.

Air Command Lost.

The fact that the major Jap effort against the invasion fleet was made in darkness is read as proving that the air command has slipped from Tokio. Hence possibilities around the Solomons are at present wide.

Japanese investment of the Solomon Islands plus their pushing an active base development program could only mean that their leaders planned to tie up the whole New Guinea-New Britain-Solomons region as a single air and land unit. Thereafter they were splendidly placed for extension of their southward move in the New Hebrides, after which blows against New Caledonia and Fiji would have been possible with land based plane support. The Solomons invasion may prove a ten strike in that the whole region south of the Carolines may disappear from the Japanese alley.

For antipodeans, success in the Solomons will mean that the Japs are checked on the perimeter of their defense zone. It is as if the Nazis had been held on the Meuse river in Belgium two years ago.

Japs Spread Too Thinly.

Moreover, if the gains are consolidated, the Solomons will unleash great striking power against the Japs. The armies of the southwest and south Pacific not needed for home defense will be able to concentrate on offensive rôles, and the Japs will have expended much blood and material in an effort to hold their flimsy empire. The push has given backing to those claiming that Tokio has already spread its forces too thinly.

The latest unofficial opinion here indicates that the Solomons operations are now directed toward a triple objective:

First, the hunt for remaining Japs will continue in the island jungles so all links with the northern Solomons still held by the Japs will be snapped.

Second, consolidation of the protective ring around the island for drives ahead.

Third, the new conquest is being organized as an allied base in which intensive work is involved.

CHINESE BATTLE JAPS FOR BIGGEST AIR FIELD IN LAND

Seek Chuhsien as Base for Tokio Bombing.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 26 (AP).—Chuhsien, site of the biggest air field in China and a potential Shangri-la from which to bomb Japan, is under concerted attack by Chinese forces rapidly prosecuting their counter-drives against the Japanese invaders in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces, it was reported tonight.

The Chinese have taken a point four and one-half miles south of the strategic city in western Chekiang and also are attacking Japanese forces directly to the westward, the Chinese high command said.

Second Air Base Also Sought.

Some quarters in Chungking expressed confidence that the Chinese soon would recapture both Chuhsien, with its vast air base built by 200,000 coolies, and Lishui, second-best site from which to launch air attacks against Japan's home islands.

The Chinese, who already have reported they have Lishui under siege, added tonight that Japanese troops who tried to push south from Sungyang in Chekiang province had been defeated and were fleeing back toward Lishui, 25 miles to the east.

Still other Japanese forces were declared by the Chinese command to have been crushed 15 miles northwest of Sungyang five days ago.

[Suggesting Japanese nervousness, the German radio said Japanese-held Shanghai, which has been out of the range of allied planes, had its first black-out from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, while Japanese planes surveyed the results.]

Japs Reported Burning City.

Chinese soldiers who reached the southwestern suburbs of Chuhsien by the railway from Kiangshaw could see flames in the city, a front line dispatch to the Central Daily News reported. It added that the fires set by the Japanese indicated their withdrawal was imminent.

Another Chinese column striking eastward across the country from Changshan occupied Chaohsien, about 15 miles west of Chuhsien, Monday and continued its advance toward the city, Chinese reports said.

The Japanese also were reported to be still drawing in their forces toward Nanchang, the big invasion base in Kiangsi province, as the Chinese anounced the recapture Monday of Tungsiang, 50 miles to the southeast.

MRS. CHURCHILL AIDS IN DEDICATION OF U. S. ARMY NURSES' CLUB

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Forty United States army nurses, including Jane Walker of Mishawaka, Ind., and other midwesterners, tonight took possession of the first of seven buildings which will ultimately house 300 nurses, American Red Cross, and welfare workers and WAACs. Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. and his wife and Mrs. Winston Churchill were among those participating in the dedication of the club under the operation of the Red Cross.

The nurses' midnight blue uniforms with overseas caps drew envious glances from the ATS [auxiliary territorial service], WRNS [women's royal naval service], and the WAAF [women's auxiliary air force] whose outfits are not nearly so modish. The nurses all have army commissions and their pay scale is far above that of British service girls.

"Here is a rare opportunity for the women of two countries to know and understand one another," Mrs. Churchill said. "Let us in the furnace of war forge such strong links of friendship and confidence that they will endure from generation to generation."

Lady Jersey, formerly Virginia Cherrill, Illinois born film star, will assist Mrs. Biddle in directing the club.

REMINDS BRITAIN COMMANDO RAID IS NOT 2D FRONT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Thursday].—The Dieppe expedition failed to impress the British public that the best use is being made of soldiers and equipment or that commando tactics are the most effective means of aiding Russia, this morning's Daily Express asserted. The paper advocated "planning on a large scale by developing a larger conception than that of a one day raid," which, it pointed out, concentrates into a few hours a "little second front and a little Dunkirk." Editorially the paper urged, "Let's go to France, Norway, or elsewhere, not for a brief visit but for a long stay. Let's start out not with the intention of leaving lightly but with the resolve to hold on grimly."

M'ARTHUR FIGHTS NEW JAP LANDING IN NEW GUINEA

Sinks Transport, Blasts Cruiser, Destroyer.

Islands and has wreaked havoc among attacking Japanese planes, the navy disclosed today.

The results to date of the terrific new struggle for strategic islands are "encouraging," a communique said, but it made plain that a large scale sea battle still was raging north of the Solomons, and that the outcome could not yet be estimated.

However, as an indication of the blows dealt the enemy the navy disclosed that at least 13 Japanese ships have been damaged. Six of these, including two destroyers, were left burning fiercely after American bombers plunged upon enemy transports, cruisers, and destroyers approaching Guadalcanal Island Monday. Other vessels in this fleet withdrew.

Two Jap Fleets Engaged.

Indications were that this invasion force was one of two fleets the enemy had thrown into the struggle. The other has been operating to the northeastward in a major sea battle. That fleet, which includes airplane carriers and warships, has been engaged by United States forces for two days.

"It is still too early to estimate the outcome of the battle at sea being fought off the Solomon Islands," the navy's communique reported. At least half a dozen enemy vessels previously had been reported damaged in that battle.

As for the situation at Guadalcanal, the navy said the marines "are holding their positions in the face of strong enemy thrusts and in each action have inflicted heavy damage on the attacking Japanese forces."

Praise Fighter Planes.

The reference to "strong enemy thrusts" was interpreted as covering the scene of the Japanese attempt to move back into the Solomon Islands, key spot in the Pacific which could control approaches to New Zealand and Australia.

High praise came from the navy for the work of United States fighter planes based on Guadalcanal. The communique declared "the performance of our fighting aircraft based on Guadalcanal has been outstanding."

Even warmer words came from a naval spokesman who said that "noteworthy in the battle thus far is the magnificent performance of fighter aircraft based on Guadalcanal."

As previously reported, those fighters shot down 21 Japanese planes in a strong enemy attack on Guadalcanal Sunday. Three American planes were downed.

Seven Bombers Downed.

On Tuesday the United States fighters went into the air to meet an attack by 16 two motored bombers escorted by 12 Zero fighters. They defeated the enemy, shooting down seven bombers and five of the swift Zeros. One United States plane was shot down.

Of the 13 enemy vessels damaged, seven were hit off Guadalcanal. One of these was a transport, which was abandoned. The navy has reported that at least half a dozen other Jap ships were hit in the sea battle northeast of the islands. Two were aircraft carriers and one a battleship. In addition, the score showed 33 enemy planes have been shot out of the air, while United States losses have totaled only four.

United States advantages in the battle were expected to lie in the fact that the marines have had time to dig in and consolidate their positions since they stormed ashore on the islands two and a half weeks ago. Supported by substantial navy and army sea and air forces, the defenders, as at Midway had the advantage of being able to send land based aircraft against a sea attack.

One official expressed the opinion that "we are winning the second round of the battle of the Solomons."

U. S. Cruiser Sunk: Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 [from German broadcasts]—(AP). — DNB said today that a United States heavy cruiser had been sunk in the battle of the Solomon Islands, and that one Japanese cruiser had been set afire but was "still fighting."

DNB said the Japanese attacked the American squadron with superior air and naval forces and that attacks by low level Japanese bombers "induced the American commander to abandon his line of battle and continue it with independent units."

POLICE CAR GOES TO SCRAP PILE.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 26 [Special].—Rockford's first motorized police patrol wagon, a 1913 Cadillac, will be turned over to the government for scrap metal. It has been parked, unused, for years in the police patrol garage.

GOAL BY SEPT. 1 FORECAST AS USO PASSES $1,700,000

Contributions to the United Service organizations war fund campaign in Chicago passed the $1,700,000 mark yesterday. Holman D. Pettibone, general chairman, predicted that the city's goal of $1,749,432 will be reached by Sept. 1.

Proceeds of special events for the USO fund may push the total beyond the goal, he said. The USO will receive 20 per cent of Labor day attendance receipts at the Washington park race track.

The national goal is $32,000,000, $12,000,000 of which will be raised in fall campaigns. Pettibone said more than $19,000,000 of the national goal has been achieved.

RUSSIAN PLANES RAID GERMANY; BERLIN IS TARGET

BERLIN, Aug. 27 [Thursday] [From German broadcasts] — (AP). — Russian warplanes attacked eastern, northeastern, and central Germany during the night and one of the raiders succeeded in reaching the outskirts of Berlin, the German radio reported today. High explosives and incendiaries were dropped at random, but no noteworthy damage was caused, the broadcast said.

Fire Bombs Shower Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Thursday]—(AP). —German raiders showered fire bombs early today on several points in East Anglia. Two persons were injured in one town. Yesterday German raiders caused some damage and casualties in a south coast town in a daylight attack which cost them two Focke-Wulf 190's, while the royal air force made another foray across the English channel.

QUITS BUSINESS; BLAMES BURDEN OF U. S. RED TAPE

Hardware Dealer Will Go Back to Teaching.

George K. Lowry of Porter, Ind., said yesterday that ever increasing government regulation had forced him to sell his hardware business which last year grossed more than $108,000 in his town of 800 inhabitants.

George K. Lowry.

He said that his wife, who assisted him as bookkeeper, had been worn out trying to keep up in her correspondence with government bureaus and announced that he was quitting the business because the government had "turned it into a nightmare" in the last six months.

Hits Long Winded Reports.

"I couldn't keep up with the red tape," said Lowry. "I was spending half my time reading long-winded reports and my wife was working from 12 to 14 hours a day writing to officials who changed their minds over night. If you can't get a little fun out of what you're doing there's no sense being in business. I'm going back to my old job at teaching."

Lowry, who is 38 years old, worked his way thru Valparaiso university and earned an M. A. degree at Iowa State college. He entered the hardware business in Porter in 1936. He also was teaching in the high school at Chesterton, Ind. At first he had only a half interest in the appliance end of the business and traveled about nights and on Saturdays drumming up customers for refrigerators and bottled gas stoves.

In 1939 he bought out his former partner, enlarged the stock, and began advertising extensively. He moved to larger quarters and sales soared. In his first year he grossed around $74,000, he said, and quit teaching.

Then Came "The Deluge."

First intimation, he said, that his business hopes were to be shattered came on Dec. 18, 1941, when he received notice of a limit on bottled gas installations. After that, he said, "came the deluge." Government regulations started to rain down on his store so fast, he said, that he couldn't keep track of them.

"My wife was doing the bookkeeping," he related. "At first she worked eight hours a day. Then she got to working 12 to 14 hours a day and I was calling Chicago and Gary trying to get interpretations on orders which often were so contradictory and confusing I couldn't make head or tail of them.

"In addition to the government's own regulations, we started receiving trade reports and reports from manufacturers trying to help us interpret what the government was trying to say.

Tells of Mounting Mail.

"It got so it was taking half the morning just reading our mail trying to find out what we should or shouldn't do so we wouldn't be sent to jail.

"I'd call one fellow at the WPB in Chicago and he'd tell me one thing. Then another government official at Gary would tell me the opposite. There were four of us working in the store and if we had tried to do everything the government wanted us to do I'd have been a government employé.

"Take the regulation on ceilings alone. It meant we had to inventory more than 8,000 items and post ceiling prices in plain view near the merchandise. And then on the regulation governing the sale of what is known as merchandise of 'equal service ability,' if we had tried to live up to that rule it would have meant that I would have had to install a testing laboratory."

Tries Three Times to Enlist.

He said that if the government needed his hardware business to win the war, he would have given it up gladly. "I've tried to enlist three times," he said, "and the army, navy, or any other branch of any fighting service can have me tomorrow if they want me.

"I love my country. But I can't stand this alphabetical red tape which almost compels the small business man to commit perjury if he wants to stay in business."

In the fall Lowry will go back to teaching as principal and football coach of the Jackson township high school near Chesterton, Ind.

He sold out his hardware business to a Chicago salvage firm last week.

"I just told them to come and get it," he said. "Neither my wife nor I have had a vacation since 1938. We sure need it after what we've been thru."

BRITAIN DEPORTS AMERICAN HEAD OF 'WITNESSES'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27 [Thursday].—A. D. Schroeder, 37 year old American leader of the Jehovah Witnesses in Britain, has been deported on order of Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison, it was disclosed today. Schroeder, who refused to obey the ministry's request to leave the country several weeks ago, was arrested last Wednesday.

His deportation follows a peace demonstration organized by the Jehovah Witnesses recently in a small British town. Morrison also had warned that while it would be an exaggeration to describe Schroeder's organization as a "cloak for fifth column activities" the government could not overlook the "potential dangers of its misuse in wartime."

Since coming to Britain five years ago Schroeder had built up an organization of 17,000 members. In the last few months more than 400 Witnesses had been jailed for refusing to obey the orders of the conscientious objectors tribunal.

Plans Marriage

GYPSY ROSE LEE.

New York, Aug. 26 [Special].—Gypsy Rose Lee, strip teaser and murder mystery writer, told friends today that she will be married Sunday night to Alexander Kirkland, an actor she met at a literary tea given by Carl Van Doren, the author.

Alexander Kirkland.

Miss Lee and Kirkland are both starring in Broadway shows, she in "Star and Garter," and he in "Junior Miss." They will be married at her farm at Highland Falls, N. Y. Friends said that Van Doren has been invited to be best man.

Miss Lee, author of "The G-String Murders," won a divorce in Chicago, March 17, 1941, from Arnold R. Mizzy, New York dental supply manufacturer. They were married in a water taxi off the California coast in 1937.

NEW CALEDONIA LIFE PLEASANT, SOLDIER WRITES

"We can't complain!" This was the way Corp. Lemuel E. Weir of Chicago summed up the life of army men now stationed in New Caledonia, an island in the far Pacific in a letter received by THE TRIBUNE yesterday.

"Everything is going along well over here," he wrote. "New Caledonia is beautiful country and from what I hear the fishing and hunting are fine—I have yet to try either. We have a baseball league which provides good times and something to talk about. When the war is over I'll have many a tale to tell; things I could never have dreamed in civilian life."

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Aug. 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—Adm. William H. Standley, the American ambassador, returned to Kuibyshev today after a visit of nearly three weeks to Moscow.

601 REPATRIATES, GRIM VICTIMS OF WAR, DISEMBARK

145 Taken to Ellis Island for Questioning.

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—A steady stream of men and women returning from the orient, their thin bodies and shadowed eyes, grim testimony to war's burdens on civilians—disembarked from the diplomatic liner Gripsholm today on the day after its return from Japanese occupied territories.

By late afternoon 601 of the more than 1,400 repatriates had left the docked vessel, including 145 whom the government sent to Ellis Island for further questioning concerning their loyalty to the United States. Others still were leaving the ship late tonight.

Missionaries Are Held.

Among those transferred to Ellis Island were approximately 20 missionaries suspected of participating in activities detrimental to the United States while aboard the ship. Returning diplomats said a series of pacifist meetings allegedly looking toward the opening of peace negotiations took place aboard.

Altho instructed by the state department to speak cautiously of their experiences—out of deference to their compatriots still living in conquered countries—some volunteered information about starving, face slapping and humiliating tactics of the Japanese. Others spoke of more happy treatment.

Most of the stories of severe treatment came from those who lived thru the capture of Hongkong where prison conditions immediately after the Japanese occupation were described as abominable.

Two Days Without Water.

Walter F. Arndt, assistant general manager for the American President lines at Hongkong, told of being held for 16 days in a Chinese brothel where for two days none of the five occupants of a tiny room was given either food or water.

"I was kept in a 15 by 17 foot cell with 30 other persons, mostly orientals," said H. S. Dunn, far eastern manager for Warner Brothers moving pictures, describing his 64 day ordeal in Shanghai. "In that time my only food was a bowl of rice three times a day."

Paul V. McLane, Canadian government trade commissioner at Hongkong, described the plight of between 1,700 and 2,000 Canadian war prisoners at Hongkong whom, he said, Japanese authorities refused civilian internees permission to visit before they were evacuated.

"It seems pretty definite that conditions in the camp are hard and that supplementary food and medical supplies are also urgently needed there," McLane said.

He said Canadian military prisoners were lodged in huts on the north point of Hongkong Island. The principal concern of civilian internees remaining there was food, McLane said.

Customs men late in the day completed the tremendous job of inspecting and clearing 16,000 pieces of baggage aboard the Gripsholm, which they said was the greatest to reach New York on any exchange vessel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Buuck of Fort Wayne, Ind., left the pier with their three children shortly after noon. The children, Leonard, 9, Elaine, 5, and Roberts, 2, had been interned with their parents in Hongkong where Buuck was a Lutheran missionary.

Forced to Close Hospital.

Dr. Joseph C. McCracken and his crippled daughter, Dr. Mary McCracken, who operated a hospital for refugees in Shanghai, said they were forced to close it because the property was owned by the Chungking government. They added, however, that they were not mistreated and that their 275 Chinese patients were removed to other hospitals.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Ables of Los Angeles, Seventh Day Adventist missionaries who spent 20 years in Bangkok, expressed the view that Thailand sentiment was sweeping against the Japanese.

The Rev. Arthur Francis of Two Rivers, Wis., a Maryknoll priest who had spent four years in Hongkong, left the ship, but declined an interview.

CURB TRANSIENT BUYING IN AFRICA AFTER JAP 'RAID'

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, Aug. 26 (AP).—Portuguese authorities have placed severe restrictions on purchases by transients after the colony suffered a sudden shortage of supplies in the wake of the heavily purchasing Japanese.

The next batch of Japanese soon to be exchanged for British and allied nationals will not be allowed to take clothing, foodstuffs and medical supplies purchased here aboard ship. Neither will the British and allies.

The manager of one store estimated the Japanese spent 5,000 pounds [$20,000] in one day buying out stores. They bought tinned foods, oils, cameras, films, sugar, nearly all available maps, clothes, bolts of cloth, wines and spirits. One bought the entire stock of a beauty parlor.

TANK PRODUCTION IS RETARDED BY LACK OF TREADS

Hammond Plant Could Double Output.

[This is the last of a series of articles by Miss Winn who made a tour of war production plants thruout the nation under auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

A shortage of materials has affected that most powerful of modern war machines—the armored tank.

Out at Pullman-Standard in Hammond, Ind., in a vast plant converted from the making of railroad cars to the making of the General Lee, the M4 medium tank, howitzer carriages and trench mortars, the production of tanks is zooming at a phenomenal rate, but that rate is only 50 per cent of the plant's capacity. Reason: Shortage of materials.

At the end of long assembly shops the tanks materialize now by molten, welded magic. To see them assembled on a hull welding line in which these steel giants are rotated, upside down, head first or tail first, thru the air, is a breath taking experience. To see their projecting guns, their hidden guns, their heavy armor plate, is ground for endless comfort.

Treads Are Missing.

Down the fast assembly line the behemoth rushes, taking on armor, wheels, turrets, guns, substance. Then at the end of the line it now sits formidable and completely immobile. All is completed. All is ready for jungle, desert, mountain or valley warfare except the part that gives the tank its strategic strength—its treads.

"We just can't get treads," an official said. "They're made out of rubber and steel, and the navy seems to have preference.

"Another month or six weeks, they tell us, and they'll be back in production on treads, but in the meantime—here we are.

"We could double our production, but as it is we cannot get treads for the tanks we make operating at half capacity."

Pullman attributes its splendid tank production, in which it increased its capacity eightfold, by what is known as the "down welding" process, used for the first time on the M4. The M4's predecessor, the M3 or General Grant, was a riveted tank.

Appears to Be Arduous Task.

Welding impresses the layman as a pretty arduous task any way you approach it, but it develops that it has several fine points: it is easier to weld down than to weld up.

The only way a welder can weld downward all the time is to pretend he is an acrobat. He must stand on his head, lie on his stomach and somehow suspend himself in midair to move his torch constantly downward along a seam.

Pullman reversed the process: it made an acrobat of the tank. This was achieved by clamping the hull in giant jigs which twirl or rotate at will, upside down or end over end.

Pullman has many of these giant jigs, their near-tanks occupants in various aerial contortions. Not only may three tanks be made in the time once required to make one but welders less skilled may work on them.

Turrets Turn Full Circle.

Once out of the jig, the tank acquires bogies [wheels], a motor, revolving [360 degrees] turret and armament. It also acquires treads, but all in good time.

This correspondent yesterday was one of a group of newspaper women to ride in a finished tank, tread and all, down Burma road, the name given by Pullman's tank test drivers to its mile an eighth test lane on the prairie.

From the standpoint of smooth motion, the mile and an eighth ride in the tank was every bit as comfortable as a ride in a cross-country bus on a washboard road. It lacked only the upholstery and the windows. Contrary to reports that the interior temperature is excessively warm, it was cool, but the din and clangor were impressive. Still, it was comforting, when buried in the round white interior, to know that seven or eight tons of armor plate protected you—and all the fighting occupants to come.

Carries Crew of Five.

The M4 carries a normal crew of five—a driver, assistant driver, and three men in the turret—but boasts that it can accommodate seven. This is easily true, as four women sat with comfort in the gleaming white interior of the turret.

One gun, the long, pencil-like 75 mm., projects outside, giving the tank the snout of a prehensile monster. It is operated by the assistant driver. Inside the turret are a 50 mm. anti-aircraft gun and two 30 mm. guns. All are operated from within, as are the submachine guns with which each occupant is armed.

Federal Buildings Ruled Exempt from Permit Fees

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday held in an opinion sent to Paul Gerhardt, city building commissioner, that all federal government buildings in the city, including those owned by the army and navy and Defense Plant corporation, are exempt from paying building permit or inspection fees. Under state laws, jurisdiction over federal buildings is exclusively reserved to the United States government, and no inspections or permits by local governments are provided, Hodes said.

BRITISH WOMEN ARMS MAKERS TO TOUR U. S. PLANTS

Group to Display Skill for American Sisters.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A group of British women engaged in intricate work in war factories are being chosen by the ministry of supply to go to the United States to demonstrate their skill to their American sisters. This was revealed here today by Brig. Gen. G. M. Barnes, United States army assistant chief of ordnance, who has just completed three weeks of study of technical developments in guns, tanks, and other war implements in this country.

Gen. G. M. Barnes.

As more and more Americans are taken from industry by the fighting forces it will be necessary for women to replace them, Gen. Barnes explained. The skill of British women in handling jobs hitherto reserved for full-fledged mechanics greatly impressed him, he said, and it was arranged to send a group to the United States to show American women what can be done.

Lauds British Production.

Gen. Barnes said he was "not the least disappointed" in anything he had seen in the arms factories here and was highly gratified by British production capacity despite the bombings.

Referring to joint Anglo-American production, he said there are many surprises in store for the Germans. He also discounted reports of the superiority of the enemy's equipment. Gen. Barnes said the German 88 millimeter gun is a "fair anti-aircraft gun which can be employed for anti-tank work," but pointed out that American and British anti-aircraft guns are similarly adaptable. Both America and Britain, he said, are now working full speed on simplification of design for mass production.

Critic Charges Waste.

Gen. Barnes' views contrast with those voiced by Sir Edmund Crane, leading industrialist and director of the Hercules Motor company who spoke in London today. He charged that at least 3 million military exempt British men from 35 to 65 years old are unemployed or engaged in nonessential industries.

Crane said he received 800 replies to a recent ad from men ineligible for military service who were unemployed and eager to get work. In addition, Crane said, 200 men answered ads for women factory workers. These 1,000 men, he pointed out, represent a waste of man power sufficient to build six planes a week.

"It is pitiful," he said, "that output is held up and factories cannot even be kept clean because government regulations forbid firms to interview individual unemployed men for jobs and compel them to engage new staffs thru labor bureaus."

5 SEIZED IN HAVANA; BELIEVED LEADERS OF NAZI ESPIONAGE RING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 26.—Police of Havana today arrested Otto Kullman, a Jugo-Slav; Peter Krier, a Rumanian; Joseph Snider, a Hungarian, and Hans Glatt and William Kenster, all leaders of the German bund in Cuba. It is believed that they are the leaders of the German espionage ring in Cuba, officials said. Incriminating letters written in secret German codes, shortwave radio sets, fuses, dynamite and other similar equipment typical of saboteurs were confiscated in the homes of the men who were seized. The men have been sent to the Isle of Pines concentration camp.

RULE HOARDING OF COSMETICS IS UNPATRIOTIC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—It is "unpatriotic" to hoard cosmetics, a War Production board official declared today in a letter to a cosmetics distributor. The official, C. A. Willard, chief of the toiletries and cosmetics branch, claimed that a few distributors have been urging their customers to hoard. "It goes without saying that any such action on your part is not only decidedly unpatriotic, but is contrary to the best interests of the war effort," Willard wrote the distributor.

SOLDIER ADMITS SLAYING WOMAN IN LOVER'S LANE

Woodbury, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—A 22 year old soldier admitted today, according to Prosecutor Charles C. Cotton, that he slew Mrs. Emma Evans, 39, a Camden widow, following a quarrel in a lover's lane near the National Park military reservation on the night of Aug. 14. An autopsy disclosed the woman had been raped.

The soldier, Pvt. Wilburn A. Rogers of Los Angeles, was arrested Aug. 17 on a murder warrant and subsequently turned over to Gloucester county authorities by the army. He pleaded innocent at a hearing Aug. 20 and was held without bail.

Under New Jersey law, Rogers must stand trial on a murder charge regardless of his confession of guilt. No date has been fixed.

Mrs. Evans' nude and battered body was found in a clump of weeds near the reservation after a sentry heard a woman scream. Cotton said Rogers related that he met the woman in a general store at nearby National Park and volunteered to show her the way to the lover's lane, where she had planned to meet another soldier.

AMATEUR POLICE HELP REAL COPS GUARD HONOLULU

Businessmen Volunteer for Night Patrols.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Hawaii [By Air Mail]. — Business and professional men by day and cops by night—that's the Honolulu police reserve, which has just celebrated its first anniversary as an invaluable unit of the regular force.

There are 274 members of the reserve at present, and each day from 4 to 11 p. m. 40 of them—working in pairs—cover 20 beats thruout the city, waiting for radio calls to inform them of lost children, drunks, riots, blackout violations, murder, or sabotage.

Maj. Douglas G. King, a former British officer, is in charge of the reserve, organized after Chief W. A. Gabrielson agreed that his regulars could use some volunteer aid for the duration. One hundred and twenty men joined the first class—of whom 74 still are active—and the fifth class now is in training.

Proud of Their Record.

Maj. King is especially proud of the record made Dec. 7.

"The signal balloon went up about 8 a. m.," he said. "Some of the men were sleeping, some playing golf, and some on the far side of the island. But by 9:30 they were all at the police station, and they remained on duty—8 hours on and 16 hours off—for the next 14 days, letting their businesses shift for themselves."

Neither Maj. King nor any of the reserves are paid. They buy their own uniforms, and all the city gives them is gas enough to patrol their beats [60 to 120 miles nightly] and, as they become available, two way radios.

Each man is thoroly trained before being put on his own. The fifth class, now training, goes to school from 3:30 to 5 p. m. daily for instruction in police work, law of arrest, revolver, and riot gun use, first aid, police drill, and the rudiments of jujitsu. After three weeks of this the recruits will go on the road with a regular officer for nine hours every fourth day for six more weeks. Then each picks his own reserve partner and is ready for duty.

Men of All Nationalities.

The reserve officers are of all nationalities, Chinese, Hawaiian, Portuguese, Japanese [eight], German, and Italian. George Eguchi, a member of the Hawaiian legislature and chief chemist for the Hawaiian Pineapple company, is one, as is Foster, Davis, an accountant and chairman of the Republican party of Hawaii.

Their occupations include those of trust company official, dentist, newspaper publisher, tire salesman, manufacturer, stock broker, banker, veterinary surgeon, insurance man, defense worker, steamship man, and any other you can think of. The youngest is 28 years old and the oldest about 55.

The reserves have made every type of arrest and investigation known to the regulars, according to Maj. King. Some have been in stiff battles and a few have been knocked down, but they all come back for more. According to plan each reserve pair covers a beat one night weekly, but some work two and three nights weekly, and some ride around on their nights off with the regulars—just for fun.

In addition to the reserves there are 522 regular policemen [as compared with 367 before Dec. 7]. With the reserves, it is possible to cover Honolulu, despite the blackout, with efficiency.

High Tribute Paid to Reserves.

Chief Gabrielson, head of the department for 10 years, pays high tribute to the reserves.

"There isn't a thing that has paid bigger dividends to a police department," he says, "than that reserve. It has established close contact between the business men in the reserve and the regular officers, and has cut off a lot of criticism. The reserves are from the better walks of society, and if any of their friends start to criticize the department these fellows explain police problems to them. They've done public relations work that millions of dollars couldn't buy.

"Men worth $100,000 or more come down and drive patrol wagons and wrestle drunks. Men worth—well, you couldn't hire 'em; you haven't got money enough."

He said the reserves will be a terrific ace-in-the-hole, as they were Dec. 7, in the event of another air raid or an invasion attempt. They are prepared to handle riots, direct evacuation, and prevent nonmilitary traffic from cluttering up the main roads.

New Zealand Prime Minister in Capital

NEW ZEALAND'S PRIME MINISTER IS F.D.R. GUEST

Meets Top Officialdom in Pacific War Talks.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand sat down at the White House table tonight for a stag dinner and Pacific war strategy session with President Roosevelt and a select set of officials representing the united nations' leadership.

Planned in Fraser's honor, the dinner brought together most members of the cabinet, the diplomats who represent nations of the Pacific war council, congressional leaders of both parties, top ranking officers of America's armed services, and civilian leaders of the war effort.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early tabbed it a "business meeting" and said the discussions would deal with the war.

Plans 10 Days' Stay.

Here on a 10 day stay at the invitation of the President, Fraser arrived today by plane from the west coast, which he reached yesterday by an undisclosed route. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, American minister to New Zealand.

Importance of tonight's session was stressed by the urging of the British embassy that it not be postponed because of the plane crash death of the duke of Kent, youngest brother of the king of England.

Altho the conversations were expected to cover the entire field of allied war efforts, special stress was presumed likely to be laid on the southwestern Pacific struggle and New Zealand's part in it.

Other Parleys Scheduled.

It was to be one of a series of such conferences dealing with war strategy in the Pacific zone. President Roosevelt has invited the prime ministers of Australia and the Union of South Africa to come to Washington for discussions.

Fraser brought warm praise for American fighting men in New Zealand and the entire southwest Pacific, lauding the "fine account they are giving of themselves" in the Solomons and elsewhere. He said "they are on the very best of terms with our people down there."

The prime minister was to be an overnight guest at the White House after having tea there this afternoon and dinner tonight.

Recover Bodies of Two Construction Workers

The bodies of John Chorak, 48 years old, 3307 East 91st street, and Matta Minuello, 50, of 9548 Avenue M, construction workers, were recovered from the Calumet river at 114th street, late yesterday. Employés of the Fitzsimmons & Connell Dredge & Dock company, they were last seen unloading cinders from a boat Tuesday evening. A watchman had reported their disappearance when they failed to report in. How they fell in the river is not known.

TWO BUND LEADERS INDICTED IN N. Y.; WOMAN SENT TO JAIL

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—A special federal grand jury, pressing an investigation of the activities of the defunct German-American bund, indicted two bund leaders today and a woman was sent to jail for six months on a charge of evading the jury's questions.

Those indicted were Fritz Streuer of Detroit, leader of the bund unit there, and Herman Agne of Philadelphia, unit leader. The woman was Mrs. Mathilde Pollman, 52 years old, of Union City, N. J.

United States Attorney Mathias Correa declared that after the outbreak of war between the United States and the axis Streuer transferred the activities of the Detroit unit to the "Springfield Social club." Correa asserted the club frequently assembled in the restaurant of Max Stephan, who was recently convicted in the Michigan Federal court for treason.

Correa said Mrs. Pollman made evasive answers to the grand jury. Taken before federal Judge Eugene Rice, she was held in contempt of court and immediately sentenced to six months in the federal house of detention.

CHICAGO BUNDIST DENIES GUILT AT U.S. PLOT HEARING

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Otto Willumeit, Chicago leader of the German-American bund and confessed Nazi spy, pleaded innocent today to federal indictments charging conspiracy to counsel bund members not to serve in United States armed forces, and a plot to make false statements in violation of the alien registration law. He was held in $10,000 bail for trial with 25 other bund leaders on Sept. 8.

Willumeit, 37 years old, was sentenced in Hartford, Conn., federal court last week to five years imprisonment for conspiring to deliver military secrets to the axis. Another defendant in the case, the Rev. Kurt E. B. Molzahn, philadelphia pastor, was sentenced to 10 years.

Willumeit was brought here with Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former American Fuehrer of the bund, who received a 15 year sentence in the Hartford case.

While the two bund leaders were before Judge Rice, two deputy marshals from Chicago waited instructions for Willumeit's removal there, where a federal grand jury seeks to question him. However, he was not expected to be released until after the trial here.

RESISTS ARREST: JAILED FOR YEAR.

Charged with drawing a pistol and resisting arrest, Herbert Robinson, 30 years old, of 4064 South Dearborn street, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Edward Luczak. Policeman Thomas Belles was the complainant in the case.

URUGUAY VOWS AID TO BRAZIL IN DEFENDING COAST

Declares Solidarity with Rio Government.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 26 (AP).—The Uruguayan government announced today that Uruguay and Brazil would coöperate in a "common defense against possible aggression."

Because of the close geographic connections of the two countries, it was said, the Uruguayan national defense ministry had been authorized to "adopt, in agreement with military authorities of Brazil, all measures designed for better efficiency in the common defense against possible aggressions."

This action placed Uruguay a step ahead of her South American neighbors in their show of solidarity with Brazil by giving the defense minister full power to proceed with military consultations. Foreign office circles intimated that the government still was considering the possibility of entering the war.

The Uruguayan government also declared its "complete solidarity" with Brazil and said Brazil would not be considered as a belligerent "in the state of war to which it has been forced by Germany and Italy."

Venezuela Takes Action.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 26 (AP).—The foreign ministry announced today that Venezuela will treat Brazil as a nonbelligerent automatically under terms of a Dec. 12 decree extending such treatment to any American nation that goes to war against the axis.

Foreign Minister Caracciolo Parra Perez expressed Venezuela's "sincere sympathy and solidarity" with Brazil.

Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Paraguay, and Peru have declared they regard Brazil as a nonbelligerent.

Argentine Deputies Act.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 26 (AP).—The chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee, preparing its report on two measures for breaking diplomatic relations with the axis, today invited Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu to attend tomorrow's session.

The measures were introduced by radical deputies Raul Damonte Taborda and Manuel Rodriguez Araya and already have been debated in the chamber without a vote being taken.

U. S. Envoy Returns.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 26 (AP).—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery returned from the United States today in a military plane.

French Guiana an Issue.

VICHY, France, Aug. 26.—Minister Souza Dantas of Brazil today conferred with Chief of Government Pierre Laval while the newspapers were discussing Brazil's declaration of war, and German reports that Brazil had declared French Guiana of vital importance to the conduct of the war.

It was held that the position of Guiana depends on the treaty between France and the United States similar to that governing the status of Guadeloupe and Martinique. It is claimed that the United States agreed to maintain the independence of Guiana so long as it was not placed at the disposition of axis forces. The ports of French Guiana are considered useless to the axis since they are inadequate for warships.

Treasurer Takes Personal Checks in Tax Payments

County Treasurer John Toman said yesterday that for the first time during his term of office personal checks will be accepted in payment of real estate taxes. The second instalment on 1941 taxes is due next Tuesday. Toman said checks may be mailed and a receipted bill will be returned after a check has cleared. He explained that a shortage of help prompted this change in procedure, which he hopes will encourage payments by mail.

LONE SURVIVOR OF DUKE OF KENT PLANE IS FOUND

Tail Gunner Thrown Clear as Ship Hit Peak.

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP).—What happened to the Sunderland flying boat that carried the duke of Kent to his death yesterday against a mountainside in the Scottish highlands may be told by a flight lieutenant who turned up today as the sole survivor of the air crash in which it had been believed all the crew perished.

More than 24 hours after the plane crashed while taking the duke on a war mission to Iceland, Lieut. Andrew Jack, a 24 year old Scotsman, was found dazedly stumbling thru the heather.

Tail Gunner Thrown Clear.

From the tail gunner's post he was thrown clear of the wreck and had wandered about three miles from the scene. He suffered burns on the face, arms, and legs, but was not seriously injured.

In all 14 were killed. Among them was Michael Strutt, the duke's aide and son of Lord Belper.

The duke of Kent will be buried with full military honors but in privacy for the safety of the royal family, in the royal tombhouse under St. George's chapel in Windsor castle where others of the reigning family lie.

The duke, fifth in succession to the throne, was 39 years old, the youngest of the four sons of Queen Mary and the late King George V. His marriage to beautiful Princess Marina of Greece in 1934 was one of the most resplendent royal occasions of the century. They had three children, Prince Edward, 6; Princess Alexandra, 5, and Prince George, who was born last July 4 and bears also the name of Franklin for President Roosevelt, his godfather.

Messages from all corners of the world flowed into London. British editorials stressed the death as proof that Britain, from her highest family to her most humble, was in the war to the finish.

F. D. R. Sends Condolences.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt sent a message of condolence today over the death of the duke of Kent to King George of England, Queen Mother Mary, and the duchess of Kent.

STRUTT MET WIFE HERE.

Many Chicago friends extended their sympathy yesterday to the widow of Michael Strutt, who was killed Tuesday with the duke of Kent.

The former Arielle Frost Frazer and her husband, who was the son of Lord Belper and the Countess of Roseberry, were married on Sept. 15, 1939, in the bride's home at Newport, R. I. They had met the previous year at a gathering in the Lake Forest home of William Mitchell.

Mrs. Strutt is the daughter of Joseph Washington Frazer, president of the Willys-Overland Motor Car company. The late Mrs. Frazer was one of the three daughters of Albert C. Frost of Chicago.

The British flyer is also survived by one child.

EX-CONVICT HEAD OF DRAFT BOARD HELD IN BRIBERY

3-A Status Sold for $150, Says Woll.

Andrew J. Weitzmann, ex-convict chairman of draft board 109 since 1940, whose criminal record had been known to selective service officials and the Federal Bureau of Investigation many months, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of having taken a bribe from a draft registrant. He is held under $7,000 bond.

Weitzmann, 48 years old, of 1433 South Kenneth avenue, was picked up by FBI agents on a street corner Tuesday night after he took $25 from Joseph W. Kavalanskas, 30, of 2303 South Oakley avenue, a truck driver, according to J. Albert Woll, United States attorney. Kavalanskas told Woll he had given $175 more to Weitzmann on previous occasions.

Sentenced for Embezzlement.

Col. Louis A. Boening, head of selective service in Cook county, said his office was informed thru an anonymous telephone calls last fall, that Weitzmann was an ex-convict, showed Weitzmann was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Joliet penitentiary for embezzlement. He entered the prison May 12, 1924, was paroled July 8, 1925, and discharged from parole the next March.

Since that time, Col. Boening explained, the FBI and selective service officials have kept the board under surveillance, but had not found evidence to justify Weitzmann's removal. Col. Boening said that when he learned of Weitzmann's arrest, he ordered his suspension from the draft board an dthe board's records impounded. The board's office at 1908 Blue Island avenue was not closed.

Offers 3A for $150.

Kavalanskas, according to Woll, told how he went to Weitzmann shortly after last Dec. 7 and asked that his 1A classification be changed to 3A because he was the sole support of his father.

Kavalanskas quoted Weitzmann as having said: "I don't know how I can do it unless I get $150."

The truck driver met the board chairman on the street, paid him the $150, and was reclassified 3A. Later, when boards were revising their classifications, he talked to Weitzmann again about keeping his 3A rating. Weitzmann demanded another $50 and accepted $25 Tuesday morning.

Arrest Follows Payment.

Arrangements were made for the remaining $25 to be paid Tuesday night. In the meantime Kavalanskas became frightened and reported to the FBI. Federal agents accompanied him to the appointed street corner and arrested Weitzmann when he accepted the money.

The bribe was the first reported in the Chicago area in 1942. It almost duplicated an earlier case in draft board 110 at 1802 South Ashland avenue, a few blocks away. In that case Joseph W. Nosek, chairman, was sentenced to three years and Dr. J. P. Gradzielewski, the board's physician, to two years for having accepted $35 for a draft deferment.

TREE MEN TOLD FOLIAGE MAKES FINE CAMOUFLAGE

Trees and foliage, correctly and deceptively planted, have become an important part of the army engineers' camouflage program, Maj. R. P. Breckenridge of the corps of engineers, camouflage section at Fort Belvoir, Va., told 200 tree experts in the La Salle hotel yesterday.

The tree experts are attending the 18th annual convention of the National Shade Tree convention, which is meeting here to determine the part of the experienced arborist in the nation's defense program.

"In the last World war, the army was mainly concerned with ground camouflage," Maj. Breckenridge stated. "Today, however, it is a matter of concealment from aerial bombardment. Because a bombardier must sight his target miles before he arrives at it, we are aiming to reduce visibility rather than achieve concealment. The proper planting of trees and foliage can accomplish this end. It can provide a physical screen that will cause a bombardier to overshoot his mark and will break up shadows so that the nature of the buildings, munitions plant, or air field, can not be detected from the air."

Two Destroyers Launched.

Kearny, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—Twin destroyers went down the ways today at the yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, bringing to four the number of ships launched here by the United States Steel corporation subsidiary since it received an army-navy "E" award 16 days ago.

The destroyer Glennon, sponsored by Miss Jeanne Le Jeune Glennon of Washington, D. C., was the first to take to the waters of Newark Bay. It was followed a few minutes later by the Jeffers, christened by Mrs. Lucie Jeffers Lyons of New York.

CHUTE TROOPS TO RAID DESERT IN TEST TODAY

Prepared to Jump from as Low as 350 Feet.

WITH UNITED STATES ARMY ON DESERT TRAINING MANEUVERS, Aug. 26 (AP).—The first desert parachute jump by United States troops will be made over this area after dawn tomorrow. A C-47 plane from the airborne command will let loose a dozen aerial troopers.

In the group will be Maj. G. J. McGowan of Chicago and Capt. Fred J. Corson of Williamsport, Pa. These men have been thru the mill at Fort Benning and Fort Bragg. They have jumped at heights all the way from 3,000 feet down to 600 feet.

When they go into combat the troopers are prepared to parachute down on the enemy from as low as 350 to 400 feet.

Two Are Veterans.

Two of the veterans of this particular unit are Capt. Corson, slim, 24 year old officer who scales 154 pounds, and Sergt. Charles H. Cline of Clinton, Ind. Both are parachute packing instructors now, but jumping is their favorite pastime.

Tomorrow's jump will be the 17th for Capt. Corson, the 16th for Cline, and each in his way is completely matter of fact about it.

Sergt. Cline, for instance, after showing how to climb into the backpack 'chute and strap the emergency parachute to his chest, said; "If your main 'chute doesn't work, well, that's it— and you're out."

There is far more to this business than merely jumping out the side door of a transport plane. Each of these men — and the airborne command's other thousands — has been thru a month of the hardest kind of training at Fort Benning.

Five Jumps for Wings.

They had three weeks of intensive physical conditioning and parachute packing, with training jumps from the controled and free towers during the third week. During the fourth week they jumped from planes, with five leaps the minimum requirement for their wings.

Into each jump must be counted such factors as the likely amount of drift [there can be a 25 second variation in descent time between two men of equal weight leaping from the same plane speed and only 100 feet apart].

No matter how many jumps the parachute troopers make, they never get bored at their work. Or, to quote Capt. Corson, "each jump is a new thrill."

In the parachute troops each enlisted man draws $50 a month extra pay and each officer $100.

HOFFMAN URGES AN AMERICAN AS HIGH COMMANDER

Stresses Need of One Allied War Staff.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 26 [Special].—Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, Michigan's 4th district Republican congressman, wants an American as supreme war commander.

Addressing the Benton Harbor Lions' club today, Hoffman declared: "If the war is going to be successfully prosecuted an American commander should lead the allied forces to victory. First we need a unified command; secondly, that supreme command ought to be in the hands of an American."

Ardent MacArthur Admirer.

Altho Hoffman expressed no public preference for an American candidate for high allied command, he is known to be an ardent admirer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the allied forces in the Australian theater of war.

"We are entitled to the supreme command," he continued. "Before we win this war we're going to produce the men and the dollars to achieve victory. If I'm not mistaken we're going to have an army of 10 million men. That is what they are saying openly in Washington. We know we are going to pay the bill, so why aren't we entitled to say how the fight is to be waged and why aren't we entitled to have an American lead the allied armies to victory?"

Hoffman, long a critic of the Congress of Industrial organization and the national administration's labor policies, also assailed "labor racketeers" whom he charged with provoking and encouraging strikes in war industries.

Raps Union Action.

Referring to a recent strike of Los Angeles truck drivers engaged in transporting meat to military camps, Hoffman cried:

"My God, has it come to such a pass that the boys in the camps can't get something to eat because some union business manager calls a strike?"

TOWN FLEES INTO HILLS IN QUAKE AND TIDAL WAVE

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26 (AP).—The residents of the little seaport of Lomas fled to the hills in terror last night when new earth tremors shook the village, which had been rocked by a severe earthquake Monday, then swept by a tidal wave.

The main quake in the region south of Lima ocurred Monday and struck the towns of Nazca, Palpa, Ica, and others, causing at least 12 deaths, numerous injuries and unestimated property damage.

The tidal wave at Lomas, which lies between Callao and Mollendo, was first reported today. Reports said the Pacific withdrew 600 feet from the shore and surged back with a rush, flooding much of the town, destroying several warehouses and injuring many persons. The Pan-American highway near the beach was isolated and a half mile section was washed out.

F. D. R. SCHEDULES LABOR DAY CHAT ON PAY, PRICES

Admits Need of Action to Halt Spiral.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26. — President Roosevelt plans to disclose the administration's latest plans for combatting inflation in a message to congress and a "fireside" chat probably on Labor day, Sept. 7, the White House announced today.

Meanwhile the President has been conferring with labor and farm leaders, as well as administration officials, on what he should say about curbing rises in farm prices and wages — the two factors which have been getting out of line and threatening to topple the whole anti-inflation program.

Mr. Roosevelt finally acknowledged at his press conference yesterday that something must be done now about wages and prices of farm commodities, and that from the point of view of national defense and conduct of the war certain restrictions must be imposed on labor and agriculture.

Got Advice Long Ago.

This is the same advice which was given Mr. Roosevelt six months and more ago by advisors such as Bernard Baruch, but the price legislation drawn up by the administration and passed early this year exempted wages entirely from inflationary controls and allowed farm prices to rise to 110 per cent of parity before the price administrator could impose restrictions, with the permission of the secretary of agriculture.

On April 27 the President submitted a seven point anti inflation program to congress which called for "stabilization of wages" but adjustment of inequalities, and "stabilization of farm prices" by lowering the ceiling for farm price restrictions from 110 per cent of parity to 100 per cent of parity.

Since then absolutely nothing has been done about either of these economic recommendations except that the President's War Labor board has seized upon the admonition to remove inequalities in wages as its authority to ladle out wage boosts, to the extreme annoyance of Leon Henderson, who was charged with keeping down prices.

"Yardstick" Ruling.

The board recently made its "yardstick" ruling that all laboring groups were entitled to a 15 per cent boost in wages over what they were making on Jan. 1, 1941. This general policy, announced on July 16, was immediately attacked as the forerunner of a wage boosting spiral that would offset the slight results achieved against inflation.

Henderson flatly informed the American public last week, in an address at Norfolk, Va., that unless something is done quickly about rising wages and farm prices the battle against inflation will be lost and the cost of living will rise to such dizzy heights that nothing but economic chaos can result.

Henderson, the man at the controls, also complained that the cost of living has continued to rise since institution of the general price regulation in May at the same rate as prevailed over the last 12 months. But farm income has jumped 75 per cent and wage earners' income more than 70 per cent in the last three years, outrunning increases in the cost of living, he declared.

Mr. Roosevelt was vague yesterday about what action might be taken to gear wages and farm prices into the anti-inflation structure, but he mentioned "wage stabilization" again and said he didn't think there would be time to enact legislation for imposing controls. Asked to explain wage stabilization, he said in a common sense way it would mean that if food costs rise 30 per cent, as predicted by Henderson, the national wage scale should not be kept down.

Confer on Stabilization.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Philip Murray, president of the Congress for Industrial Organization, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt today on his forthcoming speech, and had some definite ideas on the meaning of wage stabilization.

"Stabilization of wages means adjustments to meet the economic situation, the economic facts," Green said. "Freezing of wages means rigidity, inflexibility," he asserted. They conferred with Mr. Roosevelt on "wage stabilization" and the cost of living, said Green, and plan to return next Thursday.

The White House also announced that the President will make two other radio speeches soon, one at 3:30 p. m. Chicago war time on Aug. 31 commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the bureau of medicine and surgery in the navy department, and the other at 11:30 a. m. Chicago time on Sept. 3 to the conference here of the International Students' service, during which Mr. Roosevelt will address his remarks to the youth of the world.

Sugar Rationing Eased for Organized Groups

Under new regulations announced yesterday by Carter Jenkins, acting director of the Office of Price Administration in Illinois, several types of organizations serving meals to groups are to be classified as institutional users of sugar. Civic, educational, charitable, religious and social welfare agencies which serve meals to raise funds may obtain the added supplies by registering with their local rationing boards.

Memorial Plans Figure in Suit

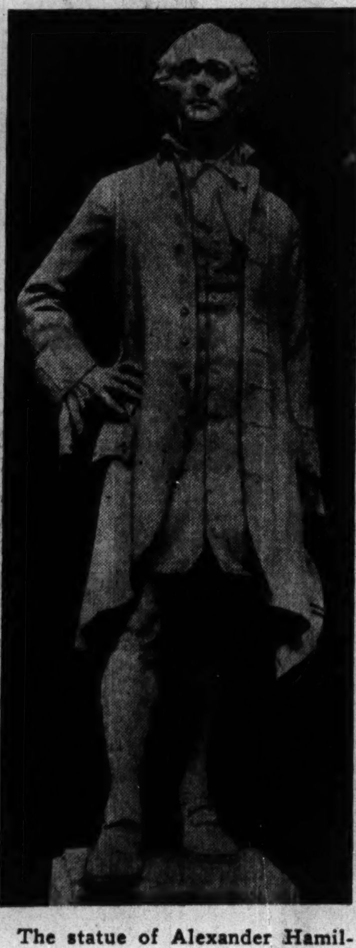
The architect's drawing for the Alexander Hamilton monument provided for in the will of Kate Sturges Buckingham, which has become the center of a suit against the executors and trustees of the estate.



The statue of Alexander Hamilton sculptured for the monument.

SUE BUCKINGHAM ESTATE TRUSTEES OVER MEMORIAL

Fail to Fulfill Will, Says Courtney.

Executors and trustees of the late Kate Sturges Buckingham's $4,000,000 estate were charged yesterday in a suit filed in Circuit court with conspiring to allow a $1,000,000 trust fund she set up for the erection of a memorial to Alexander Hamilton to revert to the Art institute instead.

Filing of the suit followed an announcement by Chauncey McCormick on Aug. 12 that construction of the statue and memorial had been deferred by the commission for the duration of the war.

Mr. McCormick, an executor of the estate, said the bronze statue of Hamilton, already cast, would remain in storage for the present.

Defer for Duration.

"The memorial commission feels it would be wrong to use the necessary materials and workmen at the present time," Mr. McCormick's statement said. He added that the statue would remain in storage until the end of the war.

The suit was filed by State's Attorney Courtney, who acted in the matter because the Alexander Hamilton Memorial fund created by Miss Buckingham is a public charitable trust. Named in the suit besides Mr. McCormick are the Art institute and John P. Wilson, Walter B. Smith, Albert A. Sprague, and Earl Kribben, the other trustees of the memorial fund.

Trustees Not Available.

Smith and McCormick, according to the suit, in addition to being trustees of the fund are executors of Miss Buckingham's will and also officers of the Art institute. Smith is treasurer and McCormick vice president of the institute.

None of the executors nor trustees of the fund could be reached yesterday for comment on the suit. Chauncey McCormick was in a camp in Maine and was not available by telephone. Attorney Stuart J. Templeton in the office of Mr. Wilson, said the suit came as a surprise to the trustees and that he was not familiar enough with the matter to comment.

Ten Year Time Limit.

Miss Buckingham set up the memorial fund at the time of her death on Dec. 14, 1937. Under the terms of her will the memorial, a site for which was selected in Lincoln park, was to be built within 10 years or the fund was to revert to the Art institute.

The suit alleges that "Smith and McCormick, as executors of the estate and as trustees and officers of the Art institute have, with other trustees of the memorial fund, conspired and confederated with other trustees of the Art institute to the end that all or substantially all of the million dollar fund, together with the 10 years accumulation, be paid to the Art institute for its unrestricted use." It adds this has been done "in complete defiance of the terms of Miss Buckingham's will and of her intentions."

The bill states that "under the true construction of her will the executors and trustees have no right to change her plans and specifications to erect a so-called simpler and less costly memorial."

Charge Refusal to Act.

It contends that the trustees have refused to carry out the provisions of the will and that they intend to erect "a radically different and relatively inexpensive memorial; that they plan to refrain for a period of 10 years from her death from letting any contracts and under a provision of the will to allow the fund to revert to the Art institute, thereby defeating Miss Buckingham's desires and intentions."

The suit also asks an accounting of the million dollar fund from the trustees. It seeks a judicial interpretation of Miss Buckingham's will to define her plans for the memorial.

Asks Contract Fulfilment.

It asks that the trustees be ordered to carry out contracts made by Miss Buckingham before her death with Eliel Saarinen, an architect, and John Angel, well known sculptor. It demands that the trustees be compelled to proceed with the erection of the memorial as planned by Miss Buckingham; and it asks in the event of their refusal that they be removed and others be appointed to carry out her program.

The suit asks that the executors be restrained from paying out any money from the estate or memorial fund until the monument and building to house it are constructed.

The suit states that Miss Buckingham, who gave the city the Buckingham fountain in Grant park and willed $2,500,000 to the Art institute, was a great admirer of Alexander Hamilton and that she wrote "she felt Hamilton was never given his just due in America and that next to George Washington we owed him everything." The memorial, she said, would "at least make people pause and ask who he was."

UGH! PALEFACE MEMORY IS LONG, LIKE ELEPHANT'S

"I am an Indian," said a stranger to Dr. Victor F. Heinemann of 5501 Washington boulevard. "Are you a printer?"

"No, said Dr. Heinemann.

"That is unfortunate," said the stranger, a very well educated Indian, "but I should like to borrow a dollar from you anyway. I want to get back to Oklahoma to settle an estate." Dr. Heinemann refused to give him the dollar.

That was two years ago.

"I am an Indian," said a stranger to Dr. Victor F. Heinemann of 5501 Washington boulevard. "Are you a printer?"

"No, said Dr. Heinemann.

"That is unfortunate," said the stranger [the educated Indian, remember?], "but I should like to borrow a dollar from you anyway. I want to get back to Oklahoma to settle an estate." Dr. Heinemann called the police.

That was Monday.

Judge George L. Quilici sent the stranger, an educated Indian [but a repetitious one], to the Bridewell as a panhandler. He's Bert Stacey of 62 West Ohio street.

CITY'S MILLIONS GO FOR HIGHWAY IT CAN'T BUILD

War Stops Congress St. for Duration.

Harrington, however, who said that there is no prospect of obtaining materials for the subway extension for many months and probably not for the duration of the war.

The city plans to pay $5,185,000 toward the construction cost of the highway, in addition to its expenditures for land. It has asked the county to pay $10,465,000, of which $5,465,000 would be for construction and $5,000,000 for rights of way. These funds, together with the state and federal government's theoretical share of $20,592,000, make up the total cost of $41,815,000.

County Steps Carefully.

The county board so far has agreed to set aside only $3,200,000, and will soon consider the city's request to raise this immediately to $5,000,000. County Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the board's road and bridge committee, said yesterday, however, that the county has no intention of spending any money for Congress street rights of way unless the state and federal governments make definite commitments to help finance the project.

Another problem which the city has failed to clear up before pouring funds into land acquisition is the objection by the postmaster general to the Congress street project. The Chicago postoffice is directly in the line of the proposed highway. Plans for piercing or by-passing the postoffice have been submitted by the city, but have not been accepted by the postmaster general.

Engineer Defends Procedure.

Harrington defended the city's current acquisition of rights of way in spite of the uncertainties that the project will be built soon.

He asserted that the city is acquiring the land now so that construction can be started immediately after the war when materials will be available and many persons will be in need of employment. He further argued that the city is now using idle funds to acquire property while it is relatively cheap.

Harrington said some of the land being bought by the city may be leased to private operators for use as parking lots. He explained that if the state and federal governments fail to contribute to the project, the city will build the highway a "piece at a time." So far the city has spent $80,353 for engineering plans and lawyers' and experts' fees on the Congress street program, Harrington said.

Girl, 15, Who "Eloped" with a Sailor, Returns

On Monday Dolores Figiel, 15 years old, 2814 North Leavitt street, left home after writing a note in which she said she was eloping to Kentucky with a sailor named Herman. Yesterday morning another note that her mother, Mrs. Marie Figiel, found under a door stated that Dolores hadn't eloped and would be home soon. In the afternoon a girl friend told where Dolores was staying and the police found her in a room near La Salle and Oak streets. She asserted that she had got tired of staying at home and was looking for a job.

RUML TAX PLAN VOTED DOWN BY SENATE GROUP

5% Withholding Levy on Wages Is Approved.

Beardsley Ruml.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Acceding to treasury objections, the senate finance committee today voted, 13 to 3, against incorporating in the new revenue bill the Ruml "pay as you go" plan of collecting individual income taxes, but acted to retain a house approved 5 per cent withholding levy on wages, interest, and dividends.

The latter levy, to become effective next Jan. 1, would provide a measure of advance collection, since the amount paid in during the year would be credited against the total income tax due from each individual on March 15, 1944. The levy would be increased to 10 per cent on Jan. 1, 1944.

Agree to Simplification.

Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.] said the committee agreed to simplify the collection of this tax as much as possible by permitting employers to make deductions in $10 wage bands instead of figuring each individual's liability to the penny.

Chairman George said also the committee had agreed to limit the withholding collections on interest and dividends by exempting bond and coupon interest, as well as small dividends paid by building and loan associations, credit unions, and other similar organizations.

[Such interest and dividends still would be subject to the regular income tax due March 15 of each year.]

The Ruml plan, proposed by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve bank, would have wiped out 1941 individual income tax liabilities and considered the payments made this year as applying on 1942 income.

Reject Treasury Substitute.

George announced that the committee had rejected, 11 to 6, a treasury modification of this plan which would have excused the normal taxes and first bracket surtaxes assessed against individuals on their 1941 incomes, but would have required larger taxpayers to pay the remainder of their surtaxes over a period of two or three years.

The chairman emphasized that the votes taken on these proposals were tentative. Sen. Robert Taft [R., Ohio] said he and Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] will attempt to reopen the subject tomorrow by proposing that the Ruml plan be linked with a 5 per cent withholding tax.

The treasury previously insisted in a report to the committee that if the Ruml plan were adopted, it be linked with a withholding tax of at least 19 per cent. This would have had the effect of collecting at the source all of the normal and first bracket surtax levies that would be assessed against low income persons under terms of the new bill.

Too Steep, Says Taft.

Taft said he thought that was too great a burden, but expressed the opinion that 5 per cent would be a "reasonable" withholding levy.

The committee rejected the Ruml plan, George said, largely because of treasury protests that it would be discriminatory in some of its aspects. In a report submitted by Milton Friedman, treasury representative, the government fiscal experts charged that the Ruml plan "would confer a windfall gain on persons with abnormally high incomes in 1941."

In addition, they said the cancellation of one year's liabilities would shift part of the long-run tax burden from persons who are now taxpayers to persons who will become taxpayers later.

"The Ruml plan deserves serious consideration as a wartime reform of the income tax only if it is linked with collection at the source at a rate equal to the combined normal and first bracket surtax rate, since this is the only way that tax payments can be synchronized with the receipt of income," the treasury report concluded.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

B. M. T. writes: "I have played around with radio ever since I was quite young and have taken various courses in trade schools. For the last five years I have managed a radio service department for a large store and had charge of several service men. Do you think there is a place I could enlist and get a rating?"

ANSWER: If you can meet the following requirements, you are assured of a comfortable billet or a commission in the navy as instructor: [1] Experience with ultra high frequency in radio, [2] electrical or mechanical school training, plus radio experience, or [3] diversified amateur radio experience or familiarity with television equipment. If you have none of these qualifications, the navy will accept you if you have had ordinary radio technician experience and training. If you feel you are qualified, communicate with Ensign Hall, Board of Trade building, Chicago.

H. P. A. writes: "I see by the papers that the 1-B classification has been eliminated. What is being done with men classified 1-A [S] and 1-A [R]?"

ANSWER: The 1-A suspended and the 1-A remediable classifications mean the same thing. Any man now placed in this classification because of a remediable defect may expect to be reclassified to a straight 1-A or 4-F as soon as the new list of defects is made available. If the registrant has been rejected previously because of a defect and this defect appears on the new list, he will be placed in 4-F.

L. P. asks: "Can I make a voluntary allotment of pay to my fiancée and have her save it for me until the war is over?"

ANSWER: If you have some money to spare, buy war bonds and stamps. If you want to establish a savings account with some bank, you may authorize a class E allotment to be made and sent to this bank. Regulations otherwise restrict allotments to a blood relative or a bona fide dependent.

D. B. E. writes: "I am in the plumbing line and working at the 74th street Dodge-Chrysler plant. I understand that any one working in this plant will be deferred for 18 months. Is this true?"

ANSWER: It's news to us. The maximum period of deferment is six months, and when a man is deferred for defense work, the employer better start training another worker unless he is in a position to prove the worker is a "nonreplaceable" man.

E. J. G. writes: "Why should an ex-navy man be subjected to the indignity of being drafted due to the navy department requiring 21 teeth for applicants? Is this a war of molars where we are expected to bite the Japs?"

ANSWER: All you need is enough natural or artificial teeth to chew and bite.

To C. A. C.: The statements in your letter are very interesting. It is your patriotic duty to reveal all the circumstances, and we suggest you write to us, giving the details. The situation can be handled in such a way as not to bring reprisals upon any one. Will you please write and identify yourself?

IN A FATEFUL HOUR.

At this writing the outcome of the battle off the Solomon Islands is still unknown. It is an anxious moment for the American people. They know, if only from the repeated efforts of the Japanese to recover the islands, each effort greater than the last one, that our victory there was no minor success. The Japanese would not risk their surviving carriers and the best of their warships to recapture positions of no great importance. The Japanese recognize that if they fail to recover the Solomons, America will go on to win the war in the Pacific.

Our anxiety is great, but it is matched by our confidence in the skill and valor of our men. We were surprised at Pearl Harbor and overcome by superior forces off Java, but in the larger engagements in the Coral sea and off Midway and in the preliminary battles in the Solomons our navy has shown its superiority in strategic planning and in combat.

The prayers of the American people rise today for the success of our arms on the other side of the world. One of the crucial battles of history is being fought. Victory for us offers the promise of a short war and the speedy liberation of half the human race from conquest and oppression. From a thousand churches and from millions of anxious hearts a petition ascends today to the Lord of Hosts, the God of Battles, to safeguard our valiant sons and grant them the victory which presages peace.

A NOTABLE SERVICE.

As the bill enabling men of the armed forces to vote passed the senate, all of them everywhere in the world are secure in the right to vote. Poll taxes cannot be used to deny them the vote. Color is no bar. The bill as it came from the house has been greatly liberalized. It has been made an instrument of democracy rather than a device to exclude a great many men who, tho good enough to give their lives for their country, were presumably to be considered not good enough to have a voice in their country's government.

That the bill is now a guarantee of equal exercise of the rights of citizenship can largely be attributed to the courage of Sen. Wayland Brooks. When senators from the southern poll tax states talked of the necessity of protecting states' rights, everybody knew what they meant, even if they weren't putting their idea into so many words. Everybody knew that behind their generalities was an insistence that Negroes in the armed forces from their states remain disfranchised.

When Sen. Brooks introduced his amendment that no member of the armed forces be compelled to pay a poll tax as a condition of voting, the southern Democrats threatened that he would be held responsible if the whole bill were defeated because of his one provision. "I am not impressed," Mr. Brooks replied. "If the senators prevent passage of this bill, let us direct attention to them." That was placing responsibility where it belonged.

On the vote on the Brooks amendment, all 20 votes cast in opposition were by Democratic senators. Mr. Brooks' victory in behalf of real democracy has been acclaimed by the director of the National Negro council as equaling "the contribution of the first great emancipator of Illinois, President Lincoln." The Negro people and the 400,000 Negroes in the armed forces owe Mr. Brooks "a lasting debt of gratitude," the council spokesman said.

It is worth noting that the Democratic party, which sometimes is referred to as "the party of humanity," has required instruction in the processes of democracy from the opposition. Congress has debated often on whether it has power to abolish the poll tax, but the issue has always been considered too hot to handle. Sen. Brooks forced it into the open at last, and the principle that congress has the power is on the way to being established. If the power applies to the armed forces, it also applies with respect to all voters.

THE PURGERS PERSEVERE.

To the succession of rebuffs dealt the purgers by the voters must be added the successful campaign for renomination of Rep. John E. Rankin, returned by a vote of 2 to 1 in his Mississippi primary. Rep. Rankin was one of the 26 representatives and three senators marked for the purge by a pressure group called the Union for Democratic Action, composed of a motley assortment of eastern men of wealth, Willkieites, administration zealots, and left wingers.

This strange conglomeration has presumed to dictate to the voters from New York. Few if any of its members have been or will be represented in congress by any of the men whom it has attempted to proscribe. It has adopted a spurious holier than thou attitude and has given the voters to understand that if they fail to get rid of their representatives they must be considered of inferior intelligence. Naturally this has not set well with the electorate.

Rep. Rankin incurred the displeasure of the UDA because he spoke forcibly against intervention before Dec. 7, because he has been less than tender in his attitude toward Mr. Willkie, and because he proposed legislation to bring the fortune of one of the UDA's most wealthy contributors under provisions of the inheritance tax. But the UDA could not laugh off the fact that, unlike many of the most vociferous of the purgers and prewar interventionists, Mr. Rankin served as a soldier in the last war and that as chairman of the house committee on World war veterans' legislation he has done a great deal of good for the former soldiers.

Until early this week the UDA had tried to pass itself off as a high minded organization hardly to be thought of as engaged in sordid political manipulation. It was protected in this posture by a ruling of Attorney General Biddle that it need not file a financial report with the house of representatives because the requirement for such statements did not apply to primaries, but only to elections.

The UDA, having been licked at every turn in the primaries, has now reached the decision to keep up its work in the hope of getting its men in the autumn general election. This strategy has compelled it to shed the lamb's clothing and come out in its true guise as an avowed agency of political compulsion. Under threat of prosecution for violation of the corrupt practices act, it has been forced to file a financial statement with the house. This shows that it has already spent more than $28,000 on the purge and has failed to pay most of its bills. Presumably its millionaire angels will be required to bail it out.

Men of less callous sensibilities would have concluded after the series of snubs already encountered at the polls that the voters were not disposed to follow UDA orders, and that the purge had better be given up as a bad job. But no such nicety of perception afflicts the UDA. It has dedicated itself to continue the tactics of disunity and the smear right into November. It is to be anticipated that the reaction of the voters will be, as it has been, that such tactics have no place in free, republican America.

COMING PRICE CONTROLS.

There has been little change in the cost of living since April 27, when the President outlined to congress his seven point, "all-embracing," anti-inflation program. The index of living costs computed by the department of labor has increased about 1.5 per cent since April 15, but the government release explains that this has been due to seasonal increases in the price of foods not subject to General Max [Washington's nickname for OPA general price freezing order], and to the government's raising of the price of gasoline and a few minor items. Inflation is still not engulfing us. But the danger is not past.

Five of the President's seven planks have been adopted or are in the works. No. 1 was higher taxes for man and corporation. A more severe taxing plan was conceived four months ago, has been passed by the house, is being recast by the senate finance committee, and will soon be enacted into law. The President's second plank was price ceilings, and we have General Max. No. 5 was more war bond buying, and the treasury department, with the aid of volunteer groups, is driving ahead toward a billion dollar monthly goal. No. 6 was rationing of scarce articles, and we have our ration books and are using them for sugar, and in the east for gasoline. No. 7 was to reduce buying on credit and on the instalment plan. The federal reserve board has proclaimed a code for retailers and the stores have shut off their slow paying customers.

Nothing has been done on plank 3, which said that "to keep the cost of living from spiraling upward we must stabilize the remuneration received by individuals for their work." Instead of carrying out this plank in the platform, the war labor board, created by executive order of the President, devised an escalator by which any group of workers which hadn't received a 15 per cent increase in pay recently could get it. In an award announced Tuesday the board gave a pay increase to the employés of the steel corporation retroactive to Feb. 15, despite the existence of a collective bargaining agreement fixing their wages. The WLB is the most powerful agency the country has ever seen for raising wages. If the President really wants to "stabilize the remuneration received by individuals for their work," a first step would seem to be for him to proclaim the death of WLB.

Plank No. 4 in his anti-inflation program provided that "to keep the cost of living from spiraling upward we must stabilize the prices received by growers for the products of their land." But for farmers there is also a price escalator. The farmers' price lifter is embodied in the price control act, passed by congress and signed by the President. It prohibits ceilings on farm prices below 110 per cent of parity. Parity means purchasing power for commodities equal to that in the years 1909-'14. Most farm commodities have a way to go before getting to parity, and the price control act permits prices to go 10 per cent beyond that.

Thus an act of congress, approved by the President, gives the green light to a considerable farther rise in agricultural prices. If the cost of living goes up, because of higher wages in the city factories, the ceiling is automatically raised more. A board created by executive order is engaged in raising wages because the cost of living [principally farm grown foods] is higher than at some previous date. As the arrangement now is, increases in farm prices are to be followed by increases in wages, and these by increases in farm prices. The dog chases his tail.

The President told his press conference Tuesday that he would soon announce in a radio address a new program to stabilize farm prices and wages. The nation looks forward to the speech and the new program with the greatest interest.

Editorial of the Day

"EQUALITY OF SACRIFICE."

[Detroit News.]

"Equality of sacrifice" is what the leaders of the UAW [CIO] have been demanding, and demand again in the Chicago convention. They imply a comparison, therefore they invite one; and the time seems to be right to begin wondering, equality with whom?

"Equality of sacrifice" can't mean equality with that of soldiers and sailors overseas, and of those here in training to destroy our enemies. Not the least favored of us can stand up to that comparison, particularly not those who are working at steady employment and boomtime wages, with extras for overtime, a break over other civilians on rationed things like tires and gas in the east, deferment from the military draft and other perquisites of the essential war worker.

Indeed, if solicitude were in order it would go first to the millions whose security has been unsettled, and, in countless cases, shattered by wartime dislocations, workers in production of civilian lines suspended or curtailed, the small business man trapped between price ceilings and his overhead, the professional man whose practice has disappeared or dwindled, the salesman with nothing to sell.

The UAW can well say that its single sacrifice was deliberate. The waiving of the right to strike was a decision announced by it; but also it was prompted by the inescapable force of public opinion. It gave up the right to strike; and it could do no less, for there the question would immediately arise. "Strike for what? Strike against whom?" Even the waiver is not ironclad, if great war plants may be closed, as they have been, while rival unions organize a few hundred grocery clerks.

So we think the "equality of sacrifice" cry, whoever sets it up, is nonsense. The willingness to sacrifice runs thru people in every walk, everywhere. There is no monopoly on it. And at its best, it is not proclaimed, at least not in the shape of comparisons which are invidious and do not stand the light of reason.

Brother Willkie's proposed trip will carry him 24,000 miles, or approximately around the world. We had supposed it was the world's turn to go around Wendell.—Detroit News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THE INCONSTANT MOON.

We gave the moon a good going-over with binoculars the other night, upon the occasion of its excellent eclipse, but failed to discover a trace of that hero of old wives' tales, the Man in the Moon. Wilder imaginations than ours often claim that he carries a bundle of sticks and is accompanied by a dog, but we are of the opinion that these fancies were born in the era of uncorrected astigmatism. . . . We will grant that there is a fine-looking gal up there, for the shadowy suggestions of her profile are admitted by astronomers, and there is ancient documentary evidence that her name is Diana, or Artemis, or Astarte.

* * *

One of the guesses about the Man in the Moon, among his believers, is that he is an unnamed character in the Old Testament. In the Book of Numbers you will find a blunt little tale about a man who was caught gathering sticks on the Sabbath. His pious tribesmen asked Jehovah what should be done with him, and the sentence was "Death by stoning." Which was done. Nothing is said about his migration to the moon, but the old wives of long ago, feeling that he had been dealt with too harshly, granted him eternal life up there.

* * *

Another legend about the moon, frequently alluded to by the older poets, calls it the place where mankind's frustrated hopes, dead illusions, and broken vows are stored. No doubt the last few years have added to the collection a choice assortment of violated peace pacts.

* * *

The lunar landscape, as seen thru high-powered telescopes, has an elaborate geography. All the craters, mountain ranges, and so-called seas have been given names, many of them Latin, by the astronomers. For example, the Lady in the Moon, whose profile is easily discernible, has a bright spot, which may be compared to a jewel, at her breast. It is the volcano Tycho Brahe, with a crater 50 miles wide. Her hair contains an ornament of brilliants which are a chain of mountains called the Lunar Apennines, 450 miles long, with peaks 20,000 feet high.

* * *

Well, so long, moon, until about Sept. 22, when there will be plans for Harvest Moon dinners in certain centers of folklore, such as golf clubs.

Trying to Name a Pair of Pups.

Linemaster: The response to my recent appeal for names for a pair of cocker spaniel pups has been flattering but unproductive. Your wits, generous in their efforts to be helpful, indicate a sad lack of understanding of breeds and the appropriateness of names in relation to them.

Duke Bakrak, the author, for instance, uses two names from his celebrated book—"Luv von Herr" and "O'Boy." These would be admirable if one pup was a dachshund and the other an Irish setter.

W. L. Hudson, the lyric poet, borrows two names from the river he owns, but forgets that these dogs are neither Pekingese killers or cat killers. He suggests "Peekskill" and "Catskill."

M'Tavish, the Scotch bard, says, "How about 'Wee Doch' and 'Doris'?" Well, Mac, they're teetotalers, but if it's me you're asking . . . thankee.

Then Flossie, the cipher expert, comes along with "Billion" and "Million," pronounced Billie-un and Millie-un.

"But why?" we ask. "Well," says she, "the pups are good numbers, aren't they, and they cut a pretty figure, don't they? Besides, think of all the O's."

So I think we'd better call a halt. These Line writers let their personalities ride their better judgment. Adrian will be suggesting "'Arry" and "Zona," and Thomas Curtis Clark, dean of poets, will be pairing Shelley with——O, well, let's close the books. Why not just Shandy and Gaff.

MODERATION PRESERVES HEALTH.

YEAR by year as we grow older the mind becomes better trained—or it should. While we endeavor to maintain the body in good order, we are obliged to face the fact that physical performance may be slightly less efficient. When one reaches 50, the master word in conduct is moderation. This does not mean lolling in an easy chair, neither does it imply engaging in a violent game of tennis. There is a happy medium.

Now some of us seem to go on the theory that to rest means to rust. Nothing of the sort. Muscles that were springy at 20 have a tendency to become slightly more rigid after middle life. But exercise can and will preserve elasticity.

At least we can avoid the parasite of obesity. We need not carry about and provide nourishment for 30 to 50 useless pounds. With some attention to diet we can oblige our own internal fires to burn our excess fat.

Probably more attention should be given to elimination. In this connection we may look to the behavior of the digestive tract, the lungs, the urinary apparatus, and the skin. Overloading can be shunned. It is a mistaken notion to assume that excessive quantities of water will be demanded. We can flood the circulation to the point where it can scarcely function.

It has been fairly well established that the excessive use of fiber vegetables is not required. In addition certain individuals will react unfavorably to too much roughage. Colon trouble is not to be invited. Neither is there a good excuse for punishing a well mannered intestinal tube with irritating cathartics which can do little more than give temporary relief. For the most part constipation is a matter of habit which can be overcome with regularity and the selection of a few laxative edibles.

There is much to be said for an occasional fast day or at least reducing the food intake to 25 per cent of normal for an interval of 24 to 48 hours. No one will starve because of this abstinence. In fact any one who is overweight can afford to follow this plan several times a year. The alimentary system will give three rousing cheers in welcoming the holiday.

More, rather than less sleep should be the rule. But this need not be continuous. If one has been able to get along with 7, the period may be increased to 8, 9, or even 10 hours. Insomnia may be a real annoyance. This is true particularly if the blood pressure has been elevated for a time and has become responsible for a moderate amount of congestion within the brain. A short walk before bedtime or reading quietly when wakeful, instead of wearing oneself out by thrashing about, are simple compensations. Now and then a glass of hot milk will be of value.

We can keep our tissues young if we will assume that they cannot be as responsive as they were a generation ago. If time hangs heavy one can disseminate wise counsels because, as a French philosopher put it, "he can no longer set a bad example."

LINGERING.

R. B. writes: Are there slow growing cancers? That is, can a patient live for several years after receiving a diagnosis of this disease?

REPLY.

Yes. Cancers vary in virulence and malignancy. The important thing is to detect the growth early and apply the proper remedy.

HOME CANNING.

Mrs. B. writes: Do you advise home canning of peas and beans?

REPLY.

Home canning of string beans and peas is not encouraged. Extra heat is required to destroy the organisms responsible for botulism. If such edibles are preserved, before serving they should be recooked thoroly and eaten without delay.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

UNITED WE STAND.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—When I read today's editorial, "Americans All," telling of Sunday's patriotic rally of nationality groups, I was reminded of a letter I received only a short time ago from my son, now serving with the army. The following excerpt will show how our boys in service feel about the unity of races in our land: "One fact has greatly impressed me since I have been in the army. We have all sorts of nationalities living together and working together: Italians, Germans, Greeks, Chinese, French, Mexicans, Poles, Swedes, etc., an endless variety from every part of the globe, and still we get along in great style, considering all in all. No one can say it is on a small scale, because the army is a tremendous institution. If we can do it here, why cannot people in Europe and Asia get along and live peacefully together? Just an observation I have made, and wish to pass along. What do you think about it?"

I am passing his question along, too, as it certainly is food for thought.

A. N. WEEBER.

EMERGENCY ACCOMMODATIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Chicago could provide shelter for a great many individuals coming to work in defense plants by converting the many park fieldhouses, park and school gymnasiums, and other such quarters to use as dormitories for single men and single women. The public use of these buildings could be partly or entirely dispensed with for the duration. They are already equipped with toilet and bathing facilities, light, and heat. The only expense would be the purchase of cots or beds. They are all located near good transportation and shopping centers, so that meals, laundry service, etc., are handy. The conversion could be accomplished in a matter of hours instead of weeks or months which it would take to provide newly built dormitories or trailer homes. In addition to the time saved, the saving in materials and labor would be immense. Librarians, gymnasium teachers, fieldhouse custodians, could be utilized in supervising and administering these dormitories.

J. H. MAIER.

HOW THE WAITRESS SEES IT.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—I am a waitress and think life would be happier if the public obeyed the following rules in restaurants:

1. Please call me "Miss."
2. Keep your feet under the table. Many a dinner has landed in a lap.
3. Don't keep changing your order. Erasing a check is against the waitress' rules.
4. If your steak is tough, remember I didn't buy or fry it, so ask me in a nice way to change your order or call the manager.
5. If you want to see the whites of my eyes, come running in when the place is jammed and tell me you have to catch a train in a hurry.
6. If you want quicker service and you have a large party try to keep your orders as much alike as possible and order clockwise around the table.

WAITRESS.

TOUTS AND DEFENSE WORKERS.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 15.—To the Illinois Central railroad, whose placards tell us that they are running their railroad in the interest of national defense, the race track fans and touts are more important in the war effort than the defense worker. For two Saturdays, some of us defense workers who have to travel 80 miles a day have had to stand from Harvey to the loop because the usual four car trains have been cut to two in order to accommodate the sporting gentry. Last evening they added insult to injury by holding up the regular train just south of the Harvey station for seven minutes to make way for the race track special. When the race track special pulled into the station no one was allowed to board, and those who would gladly have stood on the race track special in order to make connections with trains that would take them to Evanston, Wilmette, and even Waukegan had to wait for the already delayed train and thereby miss their connections at the other Chicago terminals.

DEFENSE WORKER.

TENANTS' 10 COMMANDMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Now that rules have been set for landlords by rent control authorities, how about a few for the tenants? I suggest:

1. Be prompt with the rent, not two or three days in arrears.
2. Don't lay burning cigarets on the window sill.
3. Don't have a houseful of boarders.
4. Don't let your child shoot a bow and arrow in the door or roller skate on the back porch.
5. Don't make a neighborhood playground out of the back yard.
6. Turn the light off in the garage when leaving.
7. Play your radio for yourself.
8. Have one day set for your laundry and clean up afterward.
9. Respect your landlord's flower garden.
10. Don't let your dog scratch the doors and window sills.

LANDLORD.

MR. FARLEY'S CONTRIBUTION.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 24.—Every patriotic citizen should thank Jim Farley for bringing back to life again old-fashioned Jeffersonian democracy—something that has been as dead as a dodo for nine years.

JOHN B. MILLER, M. D.

FLAT HUNTING IN UNIFORM.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—The signs read "Apartment for Rent" in a great many buildings, but when a young sailor and his wife enter to inquire about them nobody seems to be at home. This might have been the case in one, two, or even three instances, but when this happened continually during the course of an entire day of frantic apartment hunting, there is only one logical conclusion: The uniform scared the landlords and landladies from opening the door. Why? Because a sailor might be transferred at any time and they didn't want to bother with anything except permanent tenants.

OBSERVER.

NORTHERN NEGROES IN THE SOUTH.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 15.—As a Negro mother I am voicing the sentiment of hundreds of my people. I have a son who is eligible for army duty and who has never been south and does not know that Negroes have to sit in certain sections of buses or streetcars. Many times trouble arises because northern Negro boys do not know the ways of the section to which they are sent. But if ever there was a time when all this Jim Crow prejudice should be abolished, it is now.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Peru, Ill., Aug. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Party A, a spinster without near relatives, is the owner of a desirable parcel of real estate. Party B has tenanted the property for about 30 years and would like to buy from A. However, A doesn't want to sell during her lifetime but would be agreeable to B's purchase of the property at her death. What sort of a legally binding agreement could be entered into between A and B which would be binding upon the heirs of A to sell said property to B at a predetermined price, or a price determined by competent real estate appraisers?

S. L.

We see no objection to A's selling now, reserving to herself a life interest if that would suit her purposes. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing what objectives the parties have in mind.

TWO AMERICANS COMMAND PERU'S NAVY, AIR FORCE

Both Officers Keep Rating on U. S. Rolls.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru [By air mail].—In a comfortable office in Peru's ministeria de la marina here in ancient Lima there is a veteran United States naval officer who has one of the most unusual jobs ever held by an American navy man. A few blocks away in the Peruvian aviation ministry there is a tough, gray headed colonel of the United States marine corps who holds a similarly unique position.

The navy man is stout, ruddy Capt. William M. Quigley. Altho on active duty with the American navy he has become chief of staff of Peru's naval forces and the actual commander of all Peruvian naval operations.

Col. James T. Moore, who has served 26 years in the marine corps, is the chief of the Peruvian air force, altho he, too, is on active duty with the marines.

Story of American Officers.

Capt. Quigley, a New Yorker, came to Lima in October, 1940, as chief of the United States naval mission to Peru. The mission was one of a long line sent to Peru—American naval missions had been stationed here from 1920 to 1930, and again from 1938 to the present.

Quigley probably was one of the most thoroly trained and best qualified men ever to head the mission. Thirty-five years in the regular navy, Annapolis trained, he had spent more than 15 years as a submarine officer. In the World war he commanded a mine layer.

In his rôle as chief of the mission, it was his duty only to offer his advice to Peru's top naval men.

But Peru's officialdom was more far sighted than most. It realized that if Peru was to get the highest possible efficiency from its small navy, unity of command must be achieved. So, one morning not long after his arrival, the startled Capt. Quigley found himself chief of staff of the navy. He still heads the mission also.

Peru now has a naval force of two cruisers, two destroyers, four fairly modern submarines, and six gunboats which patrol the Peruvian Amazon region. Much of the equipment is old and makeshift—the cast-offs of European nations. It is Capt. Quigley's hope to enlarge and improve Peru's own shipyards until she is able to build her own modern, fast naval vessels.

Aided by Naval Architect.

Most members of the mission are working toward this end. Capt. W. A. Best, a Vermonter who is second in command, is a trained naval architect and engineer who spends all of his time at the shipyards.

Because the minister of the navy in Peru also is the minister of the air force, Col. Moore received his unique post at the same time as did Capt. Quigley.

Col. Moore, a native of Barnswell, S. C., has been a marine since 1916, and has been in marine aviation since 1921. He came to Peru in October, 1940, from Port au Prince, Haiti, where he had commanded a marine base.

For two years before the arrival of the marine corps aviation mission which Col. Moore headed, the Peruvian air force had been instructed by an Italian air mission. As in other countries of South America, the Italians were great on a dance floor—but not so good when it came to training an air force.

Old Planes Found Worthless.

When the marine flyers arrived they found the training planes brought over by the Italians were worthless firetraps. They found Peru's few American tactical planes in run-down condition. So the nine officers and three enlisted specialists of the mission set to work—first, to repair what planes could be repaired; second, to obtain as much equipment as possible from the United States for Peru.

The first year was tough sledding as Peru dug out of the muddle in which the Italian mission left it. But in the last six months rapid strides have been made. Today Peru has more than 75 American training and tactical airplanes, all in good condition. She has new air bases, much needed ground equipment, emergency landing fields.

In many ways, even in 1940, Peru was the answer to an American military pilot's dream. Here the air force is a separate unit completely independent and on a par with the army and the navy.

Upon its arrival the mission found that Peru already had established a military aviation school which bids to surpass, in theory at least, anything we have in the United States. At home our military pilots are trained in nine months. Here, young men go to the aviation school for four years, during which time they receive almost 500 hours solo time. Then they are commissioned second lieutenants in the air force. The mission is expanding and improving this school.

The appointments of Capt. Quigley and Col. Moore to the top posts in Peru's navy and air force were, of course, accepted with tacit if startled approval by the United States.

THE QUESTION.

What task do you prefer doing the old fashioned way?

WHERE ASKED.

Jackson-Franklin building, 309 West Jackson boulevard.

THE ANSWERS.

Francis La Lumia, 1st class seaman, 3240 North Hoyne avenue—Instead of carrying the little modern cigaret lighter I'd rather use a match. It seems I've never had a lighter yet that would light when I wanted it most. When I'm depending on matches only, they're always handy in every pocket.

Jean Kilgallon, cashier, 850 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park—Whenever I do any cleaning in the house I use a small broom or brush in preference to the vacuum cleaner. They make much less noise and are easier to put away when the job is finished.

Ralph Tamm, student, 2036 North La Crosse avenue—I often am thankful for a genuine excuse to use my pocket knife. I'd much rather sharpen a pencil with my knife than to use the pencil sharpener. It prevents a lot of running around too.

Harriet Hofmann, file clerk, 1114 Highland avenue, Oak Park—Our electric sewing machine has every imaginable little gadget on it for ruffling and hemming, but I'd rather sew by hand. I find there's more personal satisfaction in making something when I know I've stitched every stitch.

Jean Oelschlegel, file clerk, 8416 South Green street—I wouldn't want to do it all the time, but occasionally I revert to cooking over an outdoor, open fire. Steaks and baked apples taste better and it's usually so much work that I don't have to worry about an appetite.

Mary Douglas, typist, 8039 South Laflin street—Instead of using the electric egg beater or even a rotary one, I'd rather use an ordinary table fork for beating eggs. It involves a little practice at first, but afterwards it makes dish washing much easier.

NEW MASSES TO RETRACT SLUR ON CROMWELL

New York, Aug. 26 [Special].—The magazine New Masses, weekly communist organ, has settled out of court a libel suit brought against it by James H. R. Cromwell, former United States minister to Canada and estranged husband of Doris Duke, it was announced today.

Cromwell brought suit for $1,000,000 against the Communist magazine on March 10. He said that he had been libelled in a story in the March 10 issue written by Bruce Minton in which he was identified as a member of the "Washington Cliveden set."

A statement announcing settlement of the suit was issued in Washington by Jay Jerome Williams and associates, public relations representatives for Cromwell.

"New masses has paid a substantial sum to cover court charges and the services of Mr. Cromwell's counsel," the statement said. "In a forthcoming issue it will publish a complete retraction."

The retraction, as quoted by Cromwell's representatives, will say in part: "We found no evidence that Mr. Cromwell is or has been a member of the Cliveden set or sympathetic to the viewpoint of the appeasers and defeatists. The public utterances he has made since the outbreak of World War II. and other information we have learned indicate beyond doubt that he is strongly anti-axis. The inclusion of Mr. Cromwell's name in the article on the Cliveden set was therefore an error which we greatly regret and wish publicly to retract."

At the offices of New Masses it was said a statement might be issued in a few days.

ALARM CLOCKS FROM U. S. ROUSE BRITISH BUYERS

They Cost Dealer 70 Cts.; He Asks $7.20.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Court disclosures that 70 per cent of American alarm clocks are being retailed here at more than 10 times their import price, new restrictions on laundry and public transport facilities and a ban on the sale of mixed cookies in some shops were among today's news items which emphasize the growing costs and complications of life in wartime Britain.

The soaring prices of clocks was brought out at a Guildhall court where Messrs. S. Lesser, Ltd., was charged with violating a price control order. The clocks were imported from the United States at 70c each and were offered for sale at $7.20, it was stated. They passed thru three middlemen's hands before reaching a Newcastle retailer who paid $5.20 each for them. The case was adjourned until Sept. 9.

Orchard Raiding No Prank.

Orchard raiding no longer ranks as a boyish escapade, according to John Watson, juvenile court magistrate. He told four boys who had stolen 15 apples from a garden that "stealing anything is serious but stealing food in wartime is worse; a tremendous amount of it is going on but we are not going to stand for it." He said the court had considered sending the boys to a reform school but would postpone a definite decision until next week.

Four railroad workers, including three women, were sentenced to jail terms varying from six weeks to three months by a London court for stealing shoes, sox, towels, and other goods from a railway yard.

People Face Laundry Curbs.

Because of the increasing amount of army washing to be done, laundries will be compelled to reduce the number of civilian customers within the next few weeks, it is reported.

Store owners were warned by the government that it would be an offense to sell mixed cookies. There is no objection, however, to a variety of cookies being sold in the same bag, provided they are weighed and charged separately.

Railroad transport facilities, already greatly curtailed, will be further reduced shortly. Drastic cuts in cheap travel rates and further restrictions on parents' visits to evacuated children are expected.

St. Pancras chamber of commerce in London appealed to Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin to make clear to the public that employment of friendly aliens as shop clerks releases British women for vital war work.

Warn Public Against Abuse.

"The public generally does not understand the position which necessitates such engagements and many customers abuse the management for employing foreigners," the chamber stated.

Meanwhile, because of opposition voiced by leading caterers as well as many members of parliament, Bevin, it was announced, had decided to amend his original proposals to form a central wages board to regulate the pay and conditions in the catering trade. Details were not specified pending a meeting of Bevin and the caterers Sept. 11 to discuss revised proposals.

FIDO WILL EAT DRY FOODS TO HELP WIN WAR

Diets of Dogs to Change, Veterinarians Say.

Fido isn't going back to the horse-and-buggy days of kitchen scraps even tho cans are no longer available for his food. However, he will have a dog's life while he develops an appetite for the new dry foods, it was said yesterday at the convention of the American Animal Hospital association.

"Dogs will have to be humored at first, until they acquire a taste for the new dry foods," said Dr. M. L. Morris, secretary of the food committee of the American Veterinary Medical association. "Owners will have to pour gravy and soups and meat juices over the dog foods to add appetite appeal."

Vets Inspect Substitute.

Canned dog foods soon will be a thing of the past, and the AVMA committee has its eyes open to see that man's best friend is not gypped by the substitutes that are being marketed.

"We are concerned over the possibility of the public being victimized by new dry foods of unknown feeding value during the transition period," Dr. Morris said. "We plan to continue a thoro examination of dry foods as rapidly as possible, including chemical analyses, feeding tests and inspections of manufacturing plants."

Bones Used for Munitions.

Despite present efforts, there probably will be nutritional deficiencies that will plague dogs and other pets before the war is over, he warned. In England even the proverbial bone has been taken from dogs to be used for munitions making, said Dr. Morris, quoting from a report from Charles R. Johns, secretary of England's National Canine Defense league.

"All fish oils are strictly reserved for young children and invalids, the report said. Milk and milk powder are rationed. Each person will be getting only 25 cents worth of meat a week. Fish is scarce and dear.

Use Sulfa Drugs on Live Stock.

"Horseflesh is supposed to be used only for human food unless condemned by the veterinary or medical inspectors. Cereals for dog biscuits are allotted in proportion to one-third of prewar consumption."

The sulfa drugs are proving beneficial in dealing with livestock diseases, according to reports to the AVMA convention by Drs. H. C. H. Kernkamp and M. H. Roepke of University farm, St. Paul, Minn. Pigs suffering from necrotic enteritis, known as "necro" to most farmers, were treated with sulfaguanidine. Recovery was 69 per cent, compared with 16 per cent for untreated animals.

Sen. Brooks Speaks.

Sen. C. Wayland Brooks, who has a farm near Ottawa, told 1,000 delegates at the convention banquet in the Palmer House last night that they would be called upon at the termination of war to aid in spurring food production to record heights.

"When victory comes," said Sen. Brooks, "it will be up to you to aid in the feeding of a starving world. Never did you veterinarians have such a challenge to your profession. After furnishing the men, metals, boats, guns, planes, and bombs to win this war, we must produce more food than ever before in our work to keep civilization going. We are caught in a hurricane of hate but the American spirit of brotherhood and tolerance must prevail."

HOTEL EMPLOYES PROMISE CALM WAGE HIKE BID

Spokesmen for 3,000 employés of the larger hotels assured Mayor Kelly yesterday they would not act impulsively in negotiations for a general wage increase. The mayor had asked them to come to his office, he said, expecting to ask them to submit their differences to arbitration, but he was told that discussions with hotel representatives were proceeding smoothly.

Attorney Lawrence L. O'Connor and Thomas C. Rogan, president of the Waiters' union and also head of the joint council of the hotel employés and the bartenders' union, represented the employés. They conferred later in the day with Attorney John D. Black, who represents the hotels, and it was announced they would resume their conference today.

Rogan was chosen head of the joint council recently to succeed James Crowley, president of the Bartenders' union, local 278, which figured in much litigation in the last few years. The council is the bargaining agency for a number of unions, and it was formerly reported to have been dominated by Capone gangsters. Attorney O'Connor said yesterday he had not encountered any gangster affiliations or tactics since he was asked to represent the union men in the negotiations.

CURTIN SILENT ON F. D. R. INVITATION TO WASHINGTON

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 26 (AP).—Price Minister John Curtin declined to comment today on President Roosevelt's announcement that he had invited the Australian leader and the prime minister of the Union of South Africa to the United States for discussions.

Some Australians said his silence could be interpreted as reflecting a change from the previously declared attitude that his place is in Australia.

The labor party's view is that the prime minister should remain in the commonwealth, but these Australians said President Roosevelt's invitation might alter this point of view.

OGLE FAIR OPENS SATURDAY.

Thru the Looking Glass

The hands that are busier than they ever were before in their owner's life are bound to be exposed to more than the usual risk of nail breakage. And it's true that we are clinging to long nails in the face of the fact that they don't add anything to manual efficiency. The knitters, the bandage wrappers, the girls who work around machinery are all urged to trim their nails short, but they're understandably loath to part with the handsome tips. As a result the preparations that hold a broken nail firm while it grows are enjoying a boom.

There's a new one in the beauty marts that works very well. It's packed in a tube and in texture is as like a thin cement, we suppose, as anything could be. When you have a torn nail you apply a little bit of this stuff over the break, then cover the surface with tissue paper, pressing it down smoothly. Over the tissue apply a second coat of the nail repair. If you're deft the surface will be fairly smooth and the repair job barely discernible after you've applied a coat of polish.

It's not at all necessary to have a very large piece of the paper. The little strip, cut just the right size to cover the break and extend beyond the torn edges is good enough.

If it's too large it will be more inclined to need pressing in around the nail edge, where it will show. Cut the piece to the right size before you begin operations. Once you start them you're at a disadvantage, since you're handling gluey stuff.

The two coats of nail repair with the thin strip of tissue between will make your nail unbelievably strong.

Volunteer Rescue Army to Be Host to 2,500 at Picnic

Members of the Volunteer Rescue army will entertain more than 2,500 underprivileged children and mothers today at the organization's 29th annual outing in Jefferson park.

The entertainment will start at 9 a. m. and games and races will be continued thru the afternoon. Guests may eat as much as they like of the buffet luncheon, consisting chiefly of cake, ice cream, soft drinks, pie, sandwiches, potato chips, and assorted candies.

Maj. Gen. Vernie Harvey, chairman of the event, is assisted by William Linehart, A. L. Morrison, Harry Saragian, Mrs. Minnie Titchenell, Mrs. Emily Atter, Mrs. Charles Welch, Mrs. Ernest Gabardy, and Mrs. Lewis Brokenbourgh.

91 Brave Souls Brave Rain for Park Concert

Atmospheric conditions at the start of last night's Grant park concert were anything but encouraging, and the program took place literally from moment to moment. But by the time the loyal little band of listeners went home, most of the announced program had been played, as well as a few items which had not been promised. At the attendance peak, along about 9 o'clock, 91 listeners were present.

Marguerite Bost, Chicago mezzo-soprano, made her Grant park debut under these rather disheartening circumstances. Obviously inexperienced in public performance, Mrs. Bost warmed to her task slowly, and did her best singing only toward the end of her allotted period. Her voice, a true mezzo with a dusky richness in the middle register, and both brilliance and freedom at the top, should bring her a successful career whenever she learns to dominate both her music and her audience.

Richard Czerwonky, apparently fully recovered from his recent serious illness, directed the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra in the accompaniments to Miss Bost's excerpts from Verdi's "Don Carlos," Bizet's "Carmen," and two operettas.

Page of Clotilde's School Girl Styles to Appear Sunday

Another of Clotilde's popular pages of pattern fashions, illustrated in color, will appear in the women's feature section of next Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE, this time presenting 15 handsome dress designs for school wardrobes.

Based on authentic surveys of what co-eds and school girls prefer in autumn fashions, these models include clean-cut designs for girls of all ages. There are one-piece models, jumper frocks with companion blouses, two-piece suits and suit effects, culottes for that favorite campus transportation, cycling, and jackets and skirts to be mixed and matched. Not only co-eds, but alumnae already in the business world, as well, will like these softly tailored fashions.

Clotilde patterns, popular for years with clever women who "sew their own," have risen in favor as wartime economy makes greater claims upon household finances. More than half a million patterns were purchased by TRIBUNE readers in 1941, and sales this year already exceed last year's figures by 35 per cent for the equivalent period.

5 High Schools Try Experiment in English Study

Laboratories for the study of English will be set up in five Chicago public high schools next semester as one of the first steps in the experimental plan to revise the English curriculum, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

Dr. Johnson explained that the "labs" will permit the teacher to deviate from the traditional type of English class by encouraging self-criticism and individual choice in oral and written work. Each "lab" will have a students' conference table, movable seats, a magazine rack, a reference table supplied with the daily newspapers, and a recording and play-back machine for public speaking analysis.

"The idea is to let individuals or groups write or talk about whatever they choose within prescribed limits," said the superintendent. "If a boy, for example, wants to write about how a machine operates, he will be encouraged to do so; or if a girl is interested in botany, she can give a talk about it."

Another change in the teaching of English this fall will be introduction of the "area" system in many high schools, Dr. Johnson said. This means that instead of dividing each year's English work into composition, literature, and so forth, it will be approached thru four "areas" of subject matter. They are [1] the American literary heritage; [2] communications, oral and written; [3] current English, such as newspapers, magazines, and periodicals, and [4] aspects of general education, such as Americanism, social studies, and vocational topics.

Sally Giving Her Last Party Today at Mystery Show

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Today is party day, boys and girls! This afternoon, 100 youngsters will meet for our farewell party of the year, and I know we're going to have a very fine time. We'll see the Jack and Jill players, under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, present a play just for our group in their own little playhouse. It's going to be an exciting show, I know, because we'll see Charlie Chan, the famous Chinese sleuth, track down the guilty man in "The House without a Key," which is a thrilling mystery story.

Full instructions about the place and time of meeting were included in the personal invitations which were mailed to all the boys and girls who are to be my guests today. Note them carefully, and don't forget to bring those invitations with you!

We don't want to miss a minute of the mystery, so we want every one to be on time today. See you this afternoon, boys and girls!

Taking Part in USO Show

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

Service men who visit the Highland Park USO center tomorrow night will be entertained with a performance of "The Defense Rests," taken from the sophomore variety show presented at the Northwestern University School of Speech last spring. Mary Bruhnke, Shelly Dobbins, and Carol Lederer wrote the show, which has entirely original music. Two Smith college graduates, Jane Vollmer and Edie Appleton, are assisting the regular cast of students from the school of speech in staging the performance tomorrow night. In addition to the authors and the Smith "grads," the following will take part: Amy Whitaker, Haskell Gordon, Ray Harriman, Tuck Whitaker, and Dick Blackburn.

Carnival concessions and side show booths will dot the lawns of the Chicago Service Men's Summer Recreation center in Lincoln park at the foot of Fullerton drive from 7 to 11 o'clock tonight as the Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday SMC Girls' clubs present a carnival-mardi gras. All girls will wear costumes and each service man will receive a comic mask to wear.

As the guests enter the carnival, each will be given a lapel gadget bearing a number. Drawing of two numbers will determine the king and queen of the carnival. Among the side show and concession booths will be a museum of oddities, turtle races, a camera concession, artists' colony, a ring-toss game, and a dart game. One of the hundreds of balloons to be released will bear a tag entitling the service man who catches it to a free long distance telephone call.

Prizes, games, and booths have been planned by the girls of the three clubs. Miss Mary Lannon of the Thursday club is general chairman of the carnival. The co-chairmen are Miss Betty Ratzer of the Friday club and Miss Millicent Wirz of the Tuesday club.

Sunday is announced as the first "Home Talent" night at the Recreation Center for Service Men at 1249 South Wabash avenue. Service men with talent in the entertainment field are invited to make their accomplishments known.

The newest project of the women's executive committee of the Illinois office of public instruction is a survey of the job abilities of handicapped youths in the state. Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, general chairman of the committee, has announced that the subject will be studied by a committee of experts and the results of the study will be the basis of a special drive for placement of those handicapped who are qualified. Mrs. Zinser said the project would be doubly valuable. It will help bring together workers and jobs now, and it may provide data for handicapped ex-service men after the war.

"There are now more than 50,000 handicapped youths under 21 in Illinois," Mrs. Zinser said. "Their problem in getting work usually consists of persuading an employer that they have sufficiently valuable skills to overcome physical disability. The importance of placing these youths in industry now is that it is a means of releasing present workers for more demanding types of production."

J. Roy Byerley, assistant superintendent of public instruction in charge of education of Illinois handicapped children, is directing the survey. His committee will meet within the next two weeks in Chicago or Springfield, and the report should be ready in late October or early November.

Previously, the women's executive committee has confined job surveys to opportunities for women and girls in specified fields. The committee is sponsoring the present study at the request of Dr. John A. Wieland, Illinois superintendent of public instruction. Business men will be asked to use the findings by conducting a drive to place the handicapped youths.

The cadet selection committee of naval aviation recruiting has asked members of the Navy Mothers' club who have sons in this branch of the service to assist in the recruiting drive. There are about 50 of the club members whose sons are flying in the navy, and they all have volunteered to assist in every way possible to enlist more boys for the service. This evening from 7 to 7:30 o'clock on the Navy of the Skies program on W-G-N, four mothers will be interviewed, telling why their sons chose this branch and what its advantages are. They are Mrs. Charles Ashley Deneen, Mrs. Ruben Klug, Mrs. Clara Boehnert, and Mrs. Walter McKee.

The first showing of the film, "Defense for Children," sponsored by the Mary Crane league and the National College of Education, will be at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of 4 in the afternoon, as stated yesterday. The date is Sept. 15.

Travelers Aid Benefit to Be Football Game

BY JUDITH CASS.

A NEW note in the whatever-is-this-world-coming-to theme is sounded by the Woman's board of the Travelers' Aid society, which announces that it has taken over the Cardinals-Chicago Bears professional football game on the afternoon of Sunday, Dec. 6, as its annual benefit. That sort of benefit is one that the hard working board members won't have to ask the masculine members of their families more than once to attend.

One reason the board has undertaken such a large scale affair is because its dances of seasons past have been too crowded for comfort, and the members felt they would be able to take care of all interested persons at Comiskey park. Tickets already are on sale at the society's offices, 608 South Dearborn street, telephone Harrison 6563, and a special benefit office will be opened soon in charge of Miss Myrtle Lampert. Unreserved as well as reserved and box seats will be handled by the board, whose president is Mrs. Wesley H. Loomis III.

Following the game, the members of the board will give a "Goal Post" party at some downtown club. It will be by invitation only, however. There will be no selling of programs or other oddments at the game. Season subscribers have their own seats already for that afternoon, but the board has plenty to offer on the fifty yard line. Mrs. Harry S. Vested is in charge of programs. Miss Lillian Lampert is the treasurer, and Mrs. D. Wendell Fentress is the general chairman.

Owens-Trumbull Wedding Taking Place on Sept. 12.

Sept. 12 is the date Miss Lucy Trumbull and Dr. Frederick M. Owens Jr. have selected for their wedding. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Christ church, Winnetka, with a reception following in the Winnetka home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles L. Trumbull.

Mrs. James Worrall, the former Mary Trumbull, who was married on July 25, will be her sister's matron of honor, and Mrs. Philip E. Camerer of Georgia, who is Dr. Owens' sister, and Mrs. Norman Ibsen will be bridesmaids. William Owens of St. Paul, Minn., will be his brother's best man. Dr. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owens of St. Paul, and his bride will live on the south side, as he is on the staff of the University of Chicago clinics.

Mr. and Mrs. Worrall have taken a garage apartment in Winnetka into which they will move shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ingram of Evanston have set Sept. 12 as the date of a tea they will give to introduce their daughter, Miss Janet Carle Ingram. The party will be given at the Exmoor Country club. Miss Ingram is arriving today from the Sherwood Forest camp at which she has been acting as a councilor this summer. She will return to Smith college next month.

His younger brother, John C. Bagley, is in training at the naval air school at the University of Iowa, from which Ensign Bagley received his wings. Their younger sister, sub-debutante Nancy Bagley, attends the Sault-au-Recollet, a French convent near Montreal, Canada, but has been at home for the summer.

Thoughts of a Defense Worker.

"I can hold it in the palm of my hand, yet its chemical power is enormous. Such a small gear, just 21 teeth. I'll grind the threads' ends to gauge, polish it, and it will be ready for magnaflux inspection. . . . I wonder about its destination, and like to speculate on its impending journey. Possibly London. . . . What a different London it must be. I last saw it with choir boys on a holiday. As we drove down the Strand in the rector's ancient victoria, he pointed out the various mansions—Salisbury, Worcester, Wimbledon, and Bedford house. . . . Farther on, St. Dunstan-in-the-West, the graceful, lacy Gothic tower basking in the summer sun of a more peaceful day. . . . The Guild hall, where Mr. Pepys often dined; Petticoat lane, Victoria tower, Piccadilly circus, and the old lady of Threadneedle street. . . . Home at sundown to the Yew Tree cottage in West Wickham. . . . Roast beef and Yorkshire pudding on a great Crown Derby platter. Our mother in black taffeta and a white fichu, pouring tea from a fat silver teapot, a coach dog at her feet and a verbose jackdaw on the back of her chair. . . . Yes, Mr. B., order 1752 will be ready for government inspection at 4 o'clock.

Motto.

We've always thought the motto of the Passavant Memorial hospital one of the most inspiring we've ever read. In the hospital's quarterly review, dedicated largely to doctors and nurses who are serving in the armed forces, the motto, printed on the inside of the flag adorned cover, is particularly appealing. It is: "Plus qu'hier, moins que demain" [More than yesterday, less than tomorrow].

Chirp of the Cricket.

The grape turns purple on the stem
And summer holds her diadem
In recognition of the day
When queens must put their crowns away.

The crickets in the harvest field
Proclaim the heavy, fruitful yield,
And morning glories twine their coils
Around the lightly rooted spoils.

In golden days the cricket song
Is harvest chorus, loud and long,
And from his white, carved ivory cage,
The cricket sings from age to age.

—Martha Wendt.

Explanation.

When the announcer at Washington Park race track said, "Morning Glory, two pounds overweight," our correspondent, Mary C., overheard one woman say to another, "That horse has gained two pounds since the programs were printed." Whereupon her neighbor replied, "O, yes, they weigh them every morning just like babies."

Tribune Square Kaleidoscope.

"Two sailors and their girls, hand in hand, meander southward toward the Michigan Avenue bridge, one sailor carrying a camera. . . . A man in a brown suit trudges northward, shoulders forward, head slightly bent. . . . The sailor hands Mr. Brown Suit the camera, he swings to the right, the foursome swing to the left like a Notre Dame back field. . . . The sun shines brightly, the camera clicks. The foursome moves on. . . . Mr. Brown Suit straightens visibly, head high, shoulders erect, and starts northward again.—J. M."

BY CECIL SMITH.

"The Pride of the Yankees," the long awaited screen biography of Lou Gehrig, presents its courageous and typically American story in notable fashion. Because of its admirable acting, its superior direction and production, and its freedom from maudlin sentimentality, the film offers full value, pressed down and running over. It lasts for 2 hours and 19 minutes, but none of the time is wasted, for the simple and honorable life of the great baseball player has the absorbing interest of things which are both good and true.

By true I do not necessarily mean true to the exact recorded data of Gehrig's life; an acknowledgement at the beginning of the picture confesses that fiction is freely mixed with fact. But as the authors have written the story, and as Gary Cooper and Teresa Wright play it, there is none of the falsehood of melodrama. It is full of homeliness and modesty, of love and loyalty, and of the exhilaration of a life well lived in the interests of clean sport.

Never having seen Gehrig in real life, I am in no position to make authoritative comments upon Mr. Cooper's resemblance—or lack of it—to the home run champion. I can only say that I have never seen a more convincing characterization on the screen. There is never a false note, never an insincere moment, never a misdirected movement of body or inflection of voice, in the course of the whole panoramic narrative. Even his left handed batting looks mighty good to so untrained an eye as mine.

The story begins with Lou's boyhood in New York, with Douglas Croft an enchantingly natural youngster in the brief scenes allotted to him. With the arrival of college days at Columbia, Mr. Cooper takes over, with those ebullient high spirits he can still command whenever he wishes. In these early sequences, both at college and in his rookie days with the Yankee team, his acting is especially remarkable, for he is the embodiment of youth and naïveté, without resorting to artifices of make-up or deceptive lighting effects. Soon Teresa Wright enters the story, first as sweetheart, then as a wife who is never foolish enough to lose her sparkle and gayety, and finally, in the days of impending tragedy, as a brave companion. It is sufficient tribute to her resourcefulness as an actress, perhaps, to say that she holds her own against so dominating a characterization as Mr. Cooper's. The animation and twinkle of her face are a delight, and she is successful also in projecting the deep bond of sympathy which united the Gehrigs thru happiness and sorrow.

Baseball fans will take pleasure in the celebrated games which are scattered thru the picture, and particularly in the final climax, the memorable Lou Gehrig day at the Yankee stadium, in which his colleagues pay tribute to the player who has been forced to retire at the height of his career.

Added interest is provided by brief and inconsequential appearances on the part of Babe Ruth, and by a dance, rather dragged in by the heels, by Veloz and Yolanda. The supporting acting is effective, with winning portraits of the Gehrig parents by Elsa Janssen and Ludwig Stoessel.

The picture is bold in the calm deliberation with which it unfolds its simple materials. It is a picture for all Americans, for altho there is no need to explain a symbolism we all understand, it is for a country that gives opportunity to its Lou Gehrigs that we are fighting now.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 26.—Charles Boyer already is looking for a new title for "Flesh and Fantasy." He says this producing and acting business is nothing new with him—he did the same thing in France. There were no big companies, so the star, director, and writer got together and did it. Acting is still, however, his first love, and he'll continue with it as long as the public wants him. But he's also looking ahead for that rainy day. . . . "The Man on America's Conscience" is giving Metro a mighty headache. It seems the Negroes thruout the country have gotten wind of the fact that it glorifies a man who was against their race and isn't very kind to Thaddeus Stevens, the famous abolitionist, lecturer, and their friend. Protests have rolled in from all over the country, and if they can't find a solution Metro may turn out to be the studio on America's conscience!

"V" for Valerie.

David Selznick has signed up another blue eyed, dark haired English beauty. Her name is Valerie Hobson. Seven years ago she was brought over by Universal for their horror pictures—"Bride of Frankenstein" and four others just like it. She got fed up being the beautiful but dumb victim and went home. Then she was married to Anthony Havelock-Allan, who's in uniform doing shorts for the British government. Valerie's at present playing opposite Robert Donat in "Sabotage Agent" for Metro. When that's finished she'll be on her way here. . . . Dame May Whitty's daughter, Margaret Webster, after a five year battle, finally got her wish, and that is to cast a colored man as Othello with a white cast. Paul Robeson's done a great job, and now New York producers are crying for that production, but Paul's concert tour may hold it up a spell. Guess it must mean something to have your grandfather named William Shakespeare Webster.

Bits and Pieces.

Loretta Young, on the set of "The Frightened Stiff"—murder mystery de luxe—told me that when she returned from her war bond selling tour she couldn't get over our complacency about the war here as compared with other cities she'd visited. Her husband, Maj. Tom Lewis, is here with her now but leaves soon—destination unknown. . . . With so much talk about who should play Col. Lanser in "The Moon Is Down," how about Jean Hersholt for the part of the mayor? It's right up Jean's alley. . . . Jane Withers has a grand gadget on her car. When a speeder behind her honks his horn, she presses a button, and out from under her rear light pops a sassy face with its tongue sticking out, and a sign that reads, "You're wasting your tires, buddy!"

Music in the Air.

It's good news that the John Barbirollis have taken a house here for some months and he'll be the conductor for our Los Angeles Symphony orchestra, as well as some concerts in the Hollywood bowl. And if you haven't already gone to the bowl this year, don't miss it. The fact that all the surrounding lights are out and you see only the light on the stage gives you the most restful, 'way off in a dream feeling, and makes you forget for at least two hours all the horrors of war. . . . Dropped in at Bill Jordan's Bar of Music the other night to hear that little symphony they've cooked up from the theme of "Pop Goes the Weasel," and it's a knockout. Ann Triola, who's singing there, should be a good bet for some studio. She has a style all her own, yet reminds you of a young Fanny Brice.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

—By WYNN—

Thursday, August 27.

Today's vibrations bring urges to say or write things with too much self-pity and not enough good judgment of what will the harvest be. But they are only urges and we can rise above them. Grand opportunity to demonstrate our poise.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today your birthday might mean a fall if you became impractical, overambitious, or gambling. Be sure, not sorry. Watch fraud, finances. Develop hobbies. Danger: Dec. 13-20; Apr. 10-22; Aug. 21, 1943, on.

Tomorrow.

Stick to the tried and true—nothing else will work.

This is the season for fresh apple pies, apple Betties, apple crisps, and just good, plain, old-fashioned applesauce. The early bird yellow transparents are now gone, but there are plenty of Duchess and Wealthy apples, and greenings are sneaking to market in increasing quantities.

Yes, green apples do take sugar to sweeten them, or sirup or honey. Numerous readers have complained of the unavailability of sirups and the costliness of honey in their neighborhoods. So we'll just have to be careful not to use any more sugar for these good apple desserts than is absolutely necessary. In some we can add prunes or raisins, which have considerable sweetening effect.

Yeast coffee cake with apples is an oldtime treat. You can make it with your regular rich biscuit dough, or use this recipe.

Apple Coffee Cake.

1 cup scalded milk
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ teaspon salt
1 cake compressed or 1 package granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, well beaten
About 3¾ cups sifted enriched flour

Add sugar, butter, and salt to scalded milk. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water and add to cooled milk. Add eggs and flour, enough to make a stiff batter. Beat vigorously until smooth. Cover and let rise until mixture doubles in bulk. Cut down, beat thoroly, and spread ¾ inch think in a greased pan. Brush over with melted butter. Add apple topping and let rise until light. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve hot, cut in squares.

Apple Topping.

Peel, core, and cut sour apples into eighths. Press sharp edges into dough, in parallel lines over the top of the coffee cake. Sprinkle with ¼ cup sugar mixed with ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons currants or seedless raisins.

Honey or light corn sirup may be used in both coffee cake and topping, if desired. Add the sirup for topping during the last half of the baking period. You'll need half a cup of corn sirup to equal the sweetening power of ¼ cup sugar. Use honey in the same proportion as sugar.

Duchess and greening apples are perfect for pies. Here's a good apple pie recipe, in case you need one. Bake it between two crusts, or deep-dish, with only a top crust. Or bake it without a top crust and, when it's almost baked, lay slices of cheese over the top. Allow them to melt.

Apple Pie Filling.

6 to 8 sour apples, peeled and cut in eighths
About ¾ cup sugar [amount depends on tartness]
½ teaspoon cinnamon or ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Arrange apples in layers, over pastry-lined pie pan, fitting them closely together. Sprinkle each layer with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Add lemon juice and dots of butter to the top before putting on the top crust. Bake as usual, 450 degrees for 10 minutes, 350-375 degrees after that until apples are tender.

Apple Brown Betty.

This usually is made, like apple pie, by the individual cook's own pet method. Required ingredients are stale bread crumbs, sliced apples, sugar, cinnamon, butter, and hot water or milk. Raisins or prunes will reduce the amount of sugar required. Grease a baking dish and slice apples into it. Sprinkle layer of apples with sugar [brown, if you have it] and cinnamon. Add a layer of bread crumbs, then dot with butter. Repeat until you've filled the dish. Then pour in hot water or milk to the depth of an inch. Bake covered for 45 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees. Serve plain or with cream.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Out and out psychic bids, on hands containing no honor trick values, are rarely heard in these enlightened days, but a different type of psychic still enjoys favor among many experts. I refer to a case such as the following:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 8 4 2
♥ 10 7 5 2
♦ J 10
♣ A 7 5 3

WEST
♠ Q J 7
♥ Q 6 3
♦ 8 4 2

EAST
♠ A 9 6 5
♥ J 9
♦ 7 6 5 3

SOUTH
♠ K 10 3
♥ A K 8 4
♦ A K Q 9
♣ 4 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club [!]	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

It must not be thought that South's one club opening was the silly sort of "conventional" [meaning stupidly artificial] club bid employed in many parts of the country to demand some sort of response. No, this was a straight psychic bid, the naming of a suit in which South had no strength, and South ran the full risk of being left in a one club contract. He was willing to run that risk because he hoped to reach a three no trump contract and felt sure that any lead by the opponents would be preferable to a club lead.

As it happened, he was entirely correct in this diagnosis. A club lead would have established five sure tricks for the defenders—three clubs, one heart, and one spade. Moreover, if West had been left to a free choice, uninhibited by South's club bid and North's raise, he undoubtedly would have selected a club as his opening lead. It was no more than natural, however, that West should have been sidetracked. Convinced that a club lead would be playing into the enemy's hands, he opened the spade queen. East, winning with the ace, could scarcely read the true situation in clubs and therefore deserved no censure for continuing spades. Obviously, declarer now had an easy and straight road. He won, cleared the heart suit, and could soon claim his contract.

Homemade Dress Loses Some of Its Length and Sweep

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP).—Some of the length, sweep, and sleeve circumference is coming out of homemade dresses to make them more like the "store clothes."

The War Production board today brought paper patterns, used by women in making dresses, under the measurement restrictions applying to readymade garments.

Measurement restrictions are those applying already to other than wool fabrics in readymade garments. The WPB said the more severe wool restrictions were not applied because a pattern maker had no way of knowing what kind of fabric would be used.

There are two effective dates, one on "master patterns," and the other on patterns for sale. After Sept. 1 no manufacturer may make a master pattern that exceeds the maximum measurements for other than wool fabrics and after Feb. 1 no manufacturer may sell or deliver any pattern which exceeds by more than 5 per cent the measurement limitations for readymade dresses.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Milk and White Collar Girls.

You may not be aware of it, but a heap of city kids have never seen a cow, so Spot and Frisky, the cow and calf that went to school last spring—and showed themselves to some 200,000 boys and girls in various localities—constituted a mighty exciting "personal appearance."

With Spot and Frisky on their travels in an open trailer was a girl who has an interesting job. She is educational director for the Milk Foundation and she it was who answered a thousand questions and watched carefully to see that the cow didn't step on any small feet or the little wobbly-legged calf didn't collapse from too much hugging.

Brown haired, blue-eyed and, at the moment sun tanned, Viola Warner was graduated from Chicago Teachers' college, studied at Northwestern, and has a teacher's certificate. Her work now combines her academic training and a flair for writing. She tells the public—one way or another—why, how, and how much milk should be drunk. Especially is she interested in the business girl and wishes more and more of them would realize the importance of milk in the diet. Viola practices what she preaches—four glasses of milk a day. She's nice and slender, too! At present her time is occupied with plans for a new consumer group and with letters from the school children who, their thoughts on September days, write: "Please bring Spot and Frisky back to school."

The Female Boss.

From L. R. H.: "I have noticed with interest the discussion in your column about the 'female boss.' I'm one of those monstrosities. Frankly, I have never found girls difficult to work with but many women tell me they feel that the girls under their supervision resent the authority of the woman boss. In our office we don't have that sort of set-up. Every one works together. But, it has been my observation that women bosses have the unfortunate habit of not being polite when they ask employés to do something. It doesn't take a great deal of effort to say, 'Miss S . . . such and such a matter has just turned up. It would be a great help if you could get it out by five. I'd certainly appreciate it.' Then end up with 'If I can help, let me know.' This takes about two seconds longer than an abrupt, 'Get this out by five.' Another difficulty in this matter is that women bosses unknowingly make themselves inaccessible. No boss should do that."

Dis and Data.

The Upper Avenue National bank has girls handling all of the cage work, including paying, receiving, cashiers' checks, notes, savings bonds, and statements—in fact has been "manned" almost entirely by women tellers for more than two months. . . . The girls have been given attractive tailored jackets, hip length with huge patch pockets. . . . Terry Keich says that when she makes a mistake on the typewriter at the office she "can't decide whether to throw the sheet away and thus save the rubber eraser, or erase the mistake and save the paper. . . a priority perplexity. . . . The official of a large organization expressed his thoughts recently as regards the happiness of his employés and his readiness to talk over their problems with them. "The man I talked with this morning," writes an employé, "will never know what his views did for me. They made me realize there are a few men in the business world whose success has given them the faculty of thinking of others." . . . "Credit should be given its just due," writes another reader. "Only yesterday I reached a mark above 40 working for a nationally known firm which does not hesitate to hire the older white collar girls."

Vital to Child to Have Social Life Planned

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Let me repeat a conversation that was reported to me not long ago: Two friends who had not met for two or three years ran across each other on the avenue.

"Adrian looks well and strong and has grown so I'd hardly recognize him for the little fellow I admired as a baby. Does he go to school?" asked the first woman.

"Yes, he goes to school, in a way," came the hesitant reply, "but he's having rather a difficult time there. You see, when Adrian was small, in fact, until he was five years old and ready for school, I deliberately kept him very much to himself. I never let him play with others. I wanted to train him as I wanted him to be, and was afraid if he mixed with other children, he'd learn words and expressions he shouldn't and would be rough and wild."

"I had, of course," she continued, "to let him go to school, and now I don't know what to do about him. He simply doesn't know how to play with other children at all; doesn't seem to understand that he must give and take and it's gotten to be a problem, not only for him, but for his teacher, too. He's miserable and so am I.

"I always took him out every day. He rode his bike in the park and we took long walks, and often watched engines and trains and men unloading the freight cars. He seemed perfectly happy and contented and was never ill, but since his school days began he's not the same child. He has acquired the worst expressions and punishment doesn't deter him a bit," deplored the mother.

This little lad has to learn to overcome many obstacles simply because his mother sought to keep him "wrapped in cellophane." It was quite a shock to him, mentally and physically, to be projected into the midst of a lot of other lusty youngsters whom he hadn't any idea how to meet or contend with. Quite naturally he reverted to the primitive and fought for what he believed his rights.

Sympathetic teachers and patient guidance will gradually teach him to adjust himself to the school group. Outside, at home, his mother must help by letting him have playmates, one at a time, perhaps, so he won't feel crowded out if things don't run smoothly at first. His mother may be near to channel the play along pleasant lines, not to interfere, however, unless the tension runs too high. She should not expect too much too soon, nor blame the child, nor treat his maladjustment as a fault.

The words and expressions he brings home can best be checked by ignoring them or, if this doesn't seem to work, by explaining that we don't use that word in our family and that there is a better word which may be used in its stead. In any case, is my advice, don't be shocked and don't punish. Remember, he's probably using the word or the expression because he thinks it sounds grownup and important, not because he understands its connotation.

If in general, good judgment and common sense are used, a child learns almost from babyhood to adjust himself to the conditions in which he finds himself, and this simplifies his ability to accept his life at school and later social intercourse, even if he hasn't always had "mobs" of children to play with.

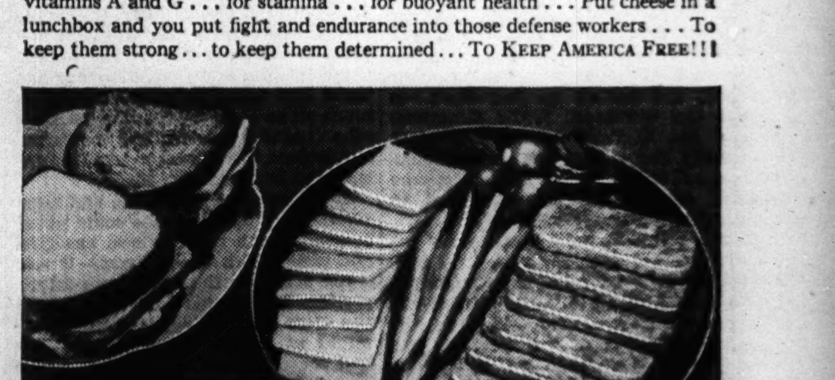
WILSON'S WEEKLY World Famous RECIPES By George Rector
Food Consultant to Wilson & Co.
CHEESE . . . THE FIGHTERS' FOOD!
"The dairy and cheese industry has done a remarkable job of providing cheese in plentiful quantity for our armed forces, allies, and all of us civilians . . . an American achievement we should celebrate by eating more of this highly nutritious food"—so says Secretary of Agriculture Wickard . . . And so I say, too . . . eat cheese and more cheese . . . for those "must-have" proteins, minerals, vitamins A and G . . . for stamina . . . for buoyant health . . . Put cheese in a lunchbox and you put fight and endurance into those defense workers . . . To keep them strong . . . to keep them determined . . . TO KEEP AMERICA FREE!!!



LUNCHBOX MENU
(Nutritionally Balanced)
CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP (In Thermos)
WILSON'S MOR SANDWICHES ON ENRICHED BREAD
WILSON'S CERTIFIED AMERICAN CHEESE ON RYE BREAD (With Lettuce and Wilson's Mayonnaise)
CARROT STICKS RADISHES
CUP CUSTARD
ROOKIE COOKIES
MILK OR COFFEE

Rookie Cookies
Cream together ½ cup of Wilson's Bake-Rite and ¼ cup sugar. Add ¾ cup light corn syrup gradually, beating well. Add 1 beaten egg and beat until light. Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Add alternately with 1 cup sweetened applesauce to creamed mixture. Add ½ cup raisins and ½ cup chopped nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 6½ dozen 2-inch cookies.

LUNCHBOX LOGIC
For that pickup snack that every defense worker requires during those hours of strenuous work, he needs food not only filling but nourishing as well, for one-third of his daily food requirements must be obtained through this source. An attractively and appetizingly prepared lunchbox is a joy to open and a credit to the woman behind the scene.
But such a lunchbox is not happenstance—it is the result of careful planning, so let there be in every "lunchbox" home a "ready-to-wrap" shelf lined with the essentials for a hearty, tasty "he-man" lunch. Waxed paper, of course, to keep sandwiches from drying, paper napkins, paper cups for cold drinks, dishes for salads, desserts, etc. and a full stock of Wilson's Certified Canned Meats, Cheese and Spreads that guarantee the goodness in every meal.

CLEAR BROOK SELECTED EGGS

Once you've tried Wilson's Clear Brook Eggs you'll vote them your favorites . . . you'll buy them again and again because of their freshness, their uniform quality, and because you know that Clear Brook Eggs have the same dependable goodness so characteristic of all Wilson products. It's wise to buy them and a treat to use them.
Respectfully, George Rector

SYNOPSIS.

Covering the Spanish Civil war in Madrid, James Milcom, English journalist with Loyalist sympathies, meets Raquel, the Condesa de Verdura, seeking food for her starving child. Once wealthy, her beauty famous, her husband notorious for his infidelities, she now lives in a basement, while Pascual, her husband, is in prison. James befriends her, but the child dies. Then James helps Raquel escape into France to a frontier hotel where her sister, the duquesa, who is under suspicion as a White spy, is staying. Rosemary Oldhead, a young English girl, is vacationing at the same hotel with her parents and has become intrigued by spies, particularly a famous White spy, No. 17. Rosemary has made friends with a number of newspaper men including Crumpaun, Hever, Crossman, and Carrow. Thru them she meets James and Raquel. When James is returning to Spain he and Raquel declare their love for each other and she asks him to visit Pascual in prison and to try to get news of her brother, Juanito. When James visits Pascual, he finds the man strangely changed. He seems to be a better man than James had expected. In the meantime, Rosemary's father has unwittingly taken snapshots of a pass used across the frontier by the White organization. Rosemary learns that the Whites have stolen copies of the pictures and when she finally tells her father, who has Red sympathies, he reports the theft and the pass is closed.

INSTALMENT XXII.

FOOTPRINTS.

For one reason and another the Oldhead family postponed their expedition to the Grotte de Sare till a day or so after Milcom left. Mr. Oldhead announced that they might as well do the Grotte de Sare and get it over, while the weather was still tolerable. And the following day they chartered a car and went, Crossman accompanying them, as his press pass might assist in getting past the gardes mobiles—a wise precaution, since the entrance to the great cave is within a 100 yards or so of the frontier.

But the French authorities were not minded to let military considerations interfere too much with financial ones, and altho the party came on a police post about a kilometer short of the frontier, the chauffeur's curt statement "Foreigners—for the grotto!" sufficed to get them past.

The Grotte de Sare is rather an imposing specimen of those caves which abound both to the east and west of the Pyrenees. It had the distinction of sheltering Don Carlos and, it is said, seven hundred of his followers, for weeks on end, during the Carlist wars of the last century. Certainly, there would be room for them! From the great mouth, 90 feet across and perhaps 40 feet high, whose stony upper lip is fringed with pendant ivy, to the furthest limit of the electric lighting provided for the benefit of tourists, must be the better part of half a kilometer; and there are other unlit portions beyond.

To this odd place the three Oldheads and Crossman arrived on a soft misty November afternoon. An old peasant with a stubby chin emerged from a cottage close by and sold them their tickets; he muttered something ending 'le jeune homme' and motioned them toward the entrance. Most of this was filled with a sort of shallow pool, in which an old punt lay half submerged; a small stream chattered away from it over a stony bed—but by a path along the right-hand wall they picked their way into the cave. Even here by the entrance it seemed very dark at first, after the autumn sunshine outside, but presently their eyes grew accustomed to the gloom, and Rosemary and Crossman ranged about, trying to see where the pool ended and the stream which obviously fed it began. In the course of these explorations they came on a cache of candle ends and small bits of board with a nail driven thru each, clearly intended for use as candlesticks. They both took a candle and a board, heated the nails with matches and affixed their candles, and then began to explore further. But at this point a tall, rather handsome youth in shirtsleeves, with a very sulky expression, appeared with the old man. Scowling at the visitors, he switched on the electric lights and motioning the visitors to follow, set off into the cave.

They tailed after him, Rosemary and Crossman last, still sticking to their candles, in spite of his frowns and headshakings. Perfunctorily, and always with the same appearance of resentment, he pointed out the various sights—the chamber attributed to Don Carlos; a horrid set of models of primitive man, clad in imitation skins; the stalactites, a waterfall, and so on.

At length the guide announced that they were now under Spain—which was easy to believe, for they seemed to have been walking for at least 25 minutes—and presently he led them to the most curious sight of all, the "Arbre de Noel" as he called it. This was certainly a most singular object. In the center of a vertical circular hollow in the rock, like the inside of a factory chimney, and perhaps as much as 80 feet high rose a tall slender rock column, plastered all over with limy deposit, and grooved with flat rings or ridges, a foot or more wide, for the whole of its height, which was the same as that of the inclosing chimney

The space between the stone tree and its inclosing chimney was so narrow that the visitors could only just edge past in single file. The guide pointed out that by craning their necks and looking up, they could see the sky overhead. While Crossman and Mr. Oldhead began to discuss exactly how this geological phenomenon had been formed, Rosemary, who still carried her candle, began to climb the stone tree.

She found it quite easy to get up, and reached a height of several feet. Here she paused, and as usual began to look about her. She was on the opposite side of the pillar to the guide, who did not see what she was doing till she suddenly called out "Daddy! Mummy! This is most extraordinary! People go up and down here—there are nail marks on the stone."

They all crowded round then, as well as they could, to see what she was up to—the guide with them. When he saw her on the perch, he called furiously to her to come down, come down at once.

"But it is very interesting," she called back to him in French—"One goes up and one comes down by here—one sees the traces on the rock."

Rudely, he shouted back that it was ridiculous, what she said—no one passed that way. She must descend instantly—to climb about in the grotto was forbidden.

Mr. Oldhead, at last exasperated, intervened.

"Here, here, here!" he said, pushing the young man aside with surprising vigor, "we've had about enough of your temper, my friend.

"Come on down, Rosemary," he said—and then turned and examined the ledges on a level with his face. "You see well that there are here the marks of feet," he said to the guide, pointing to unmistakable scratches on the slippery calcareous surface.

"Mademoiselle has made them herself," said the boy sulkily.

"Mademoiselle, as you can very well see, is wearing shoes with soles of rubber," Crossman put in Scowling, the guide shrugged and gave it up. When Rosemary had got down he led the way out of the chimney, and took them back thru the cavern, by a much shorter route than the one by which they had come.

"Funny, that," Crossman remarked to Mr. Oldhead as they went along—"Some one certainly has been going up and down that thing, but I don't see why this guide chap should get into such a stew about it."

"Don't you?" replied Oldhead, laconically.

"Smuggling, I suppose," put in Mrs. Oldhead.

"By jove, yes—and this young fellow or the old boy outside are the receleurs," said Crossman, delighted.

"What's a receleur?" asked Mrs. Oldhead.

"Mummy! surely you know that! It's a receiver of stolen goods."

When they reached the spacious chamber inside the entrance, which now seemed bright to them, Mr. Oldhead offered some coins to the guide. Surly to the last—"Give it to the vieillard; he needs it most," the young man said, switched off the lights, and shepherded them out past the pool and the half-sunken punt, onto the open space where their car waited for them.

To the old man, accordingly, they gave the tip. He was still hanging about outside, and the young one said something curtly to him in Basque before he disappeared. The old man led them to Pierre Loti's tea garden, a peculiar spot just beyond the entrance to the grotto; little tables of stone in curious shapes, and rustic seats of stone and wood, were set among young fruit trees. The guide pointed out where the frontier ran, not 200 meters from where they stood, and volunteered to take the party "a few steps" to where they could see the sentries guarding it. Crossman and the two Oldheads went with him, but Rosemary remained behind, unnoticed. She was suddenly invaded by an overwhelming longing for Milcom. She had just been under Spain, and he was in Spain! And in that misty orchard, in the tender uncertain light, she felt that for a moment or two she simply must allow herself to think about him, to recall his face, with the deepset eyes and the corrugated forehead, the grim mouth that was yet so amazingly sweet when he smiled—and to remember his voice, uttering his brief appropriate sentences and penetrating, illuminating comments.

Since that meeting with him on the path below the little Phare, when she first realized that Milcom and the condesa loved one another, the young girl had traveled a long way. She had suddenly discovered that she herself cared for him and that discovery had taken her completely by surprise, as much so as if an earthquake or some other natural disaster had overtaken her. Indeed it was rather as a disaster that she had regarded it.

She loved him, of course, and must always love him. But she could never complete with the condesa, beautiful and gifted with every charm—it was a life sentence that she was contemplating. And in this knowledge—none the less desolating because time might at length prove it false—she had passed one of the hardest weeks of her life. The condesa, her other idol, was by this time very fond of her, and liked to have her about—all unwitting, she treated her as a small and convenient third, an innocent gooseberry, to chaperone a number of minor meetings.

And Rosemary, unable to refuse anything that her adored condesa asked of her, and drawn irresistibly by the enchantment of seeing and hearing Milcom, had sat with the pair at the Bar Basque, at Gaston's, at the little restaurant at Guethary in such a mixture of rapture and pain as left her quite exhausted.

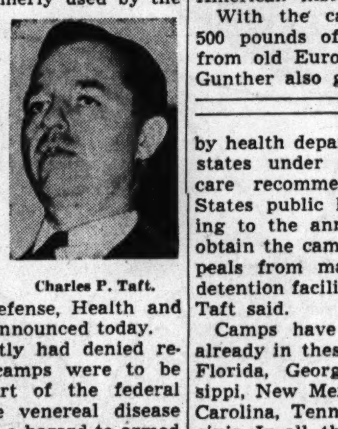
U. S. TO CONFINE INFECTED GIRLS IN 25 CCC CAMPS

Part of Plan to Stamp Out Venereal Ills.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—More than 25 camps formerly used by the Civilian Conservation corps, which has been abolished by congress, will be used as detention centers and quarantine hospitals to cure and rehabilitate girls infected with venereal diseases, Charles P. Taft, assistant director of the Office of Defense, Health and Welfare Services announced today.



Charles P. Taft.

The office recently had denied reports that such camps were to be established as part of the federal drive to eliminate venereal disease and prostitution as a hazard to armed forces and war workers. But today's announcement fully confirmed earlier reports.

The CCC hospitals will be operated by health departments of the various states under standards of medical care recommended by the United States public health service, according to the announcement. Action to obtain the camps followed urgent appeals from many communities that detention facilities were overcrowded, Taft said.

Camps have been made available already in these 11 states: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia. In all, the CCC camps will provide facilities for about 20 states with "critical venereal disease areas," Taft asserted.

"Each hospital is expected to provide medical treatment for 100 to 300 infected girls who will be kept under care until they are rendered noninfectious and completely cured," said the announcement. "Federal assistance will be given to place these girls in legitimate industry when they leave the hospitals.

"Records of the social protection office of the ODHWS show that a large number of those arrested are inexperienced girls below the age of 22, and can be rehabilitated if proper case work, job training, and employment opportunities are provided," the announcement continued.

CANNONS OF SPANISH PRIVATEERS GO INTO HEAP FOR DUTY AGAIN

The Charles F. Gunther collection of seven cannons that once graced the decks of Spanish privateers' vessels will be turned over with shot and cannonballs this morning to the scrap metal salvage program by the Chicago Historical society.

Gunther, one of Chicago's pioneer confectionery manufacturers, donated the cannons to the society 20 years ago after he had collected them in Europe for his private museum. They were stored in the society's basement because they did not fit into the institution's program of collecting American historical items.

With the cannons will go about 500 pounds of keys, some of them from old European dungeons, which Gunther also gave to the society.

20 MILLION STATE FUND ASKED FOR CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP).—The state government was asked today to set up a $20,000,000 distributive fund to aid every Illinois city and town in paying the cost of its civilian defense program.

The Illinois Municipal league recommended that the general assembly appropriate the fund out of a $45,000,000 balance in the state treasury, contending that many municipal defense programs are "woefully weak" because of scanty financial backing.

A. D. McLarty, executive secretary of the league, asked the State Defense council to sponsor special legislation authorizing the state subsidy at the regular legislative session which convenes in January.

McLarty proposed that the $20,000,000 appropriation be a biennial fund, allowing $10,000,000 yearly for distribution to all of the state's 1,124 incorporated municipalities on the basis of population.

50 CITIES JOIN STATE DRIVE TO STAMP OUT VICE

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP).—City and county officials in the state's key military and war industry centers have promised Thomas R. Gowenlock, law enforcement coördinator for the state defense council, "100 per cent coöperation" in a state-wide drive against prostitution to combat the rising venereal disease rate among soldiers and war plant workers.

Gowenlock announced that local efforts to stamp out vice would be redoubled after 50 mayors, police chiefs, sheriffs, and state's attorneys met yesterday afternoon to discuss methods of meeting the problem and averting the threat of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to step in unless local officials act.

The state defense council coördinator was authorized at the meeting to act as a clearing for complaints from army and navy officials, who have charged that in some localities the efficiency of soldiers, sailors, and war industry workers has been impaired by outbreaks of venereal disease.

Fatal Shooting of Maid Held Accident by Jury

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday in the shooting of Madeline Collins, 19 years old, colored, 4551 Evans avenue, a maid who was employed in the home of Samuel Bernstein, 4616 North Drake avenue. Miss Collins, who died Tuesday night, was shot in her back Saturday by Bernstein's son, Paul, 14, who told police he believed his new rifle was not loaded when he snapped the trigger to attract the maid's attention.

ALL-STARS HOLD DRILL IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

CARDS WIN, 2-1; CUT DODGERS' LEAD TO 4½ GAMES

MACON'S WILD THROW IN 10TH LETS RUN HOME

St. Louis to Seek Sweep Tonight.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 26 (AP).—For nine innings tonight, Pitcher Max Macon of the Brooklyn Dodgers had firm control over both his arm and his feet, but he lost it in the tenth inning and the Cardinals came up with a 2 to 1 victory.

With Jimmy Brown on third and Terry Moore on second, Coaker Triplett poked a weak roller down the third base line. Two were out and Macon appeared to have the inning sewed up. He fell as he fielded the ball and, with no chance to catch the fleet Triplett at first, Macon threw too late and too wild toward home. Brown charged headlong into Catcher Mickey Owen for the deciding run and Owen never touched the ball.

That play broke up what had been only a slightly less efficient version of the pitching duel between Whit Wyatt and Mort Cooper the preceding night, for Macon had matched the Cards' Johnny Beazley pitch for pitch, hit for hit, thru a tense struggle.

Brown Walks to Start Rally.

It gave the Cardinals their third successive triumph over the Dodgers in their four game stretch drive series and reduced Brooklyn's lead to 4½ games.

The Cards' winning rally opened when Brown walked on four straight pitches with one out. He moved to second on Terry Moore's sharp single. Both runners advanced as Enos Slaughter tapped a weak grounder down the third base line, almost exactly similar to the hit which won the game.

After Johnny Beazley and Macon each had allowed a run in early innings, they settled down and scattered the nine singles each allowed.

Macon, however, had more grief than did Beazley, for double plays rescued him from nasty situations twice, once in the second inning after the Cards already had counted one run and again in the seventh.

Cardinals First to Score.

It was the Cardinals who scored first, with one run in the second on singles by Walker Cooper, George Kurowski and Johnny Hopp. Marty Marion's safe bunt filled the bases at that point, but Brown hit into a double play.

By virtue of Dolph Camilli's screaming single which scored Arky Vaughan from second, the Dodgers quickly tied the score in the third inning.

From that point until the 10th, it was a case of threaten and never accomplish by both teams.

Indicative, however, of the pitchers' mastery of the situation was the fact that not a single extra base hit was given up during the 10 innings.

The two teams meet in a twilight game tomorrow night in the final of a four game series. Score:

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE All-Star football game at Soldiers' field tomorrow night not only will be the biggest in point of attendance, receipts, and donation to war charities to be played in the United States this season. . . . It also will involve the most elaborate ceremonies ever attempted in the gridiron's most spectacular event. . . . There will be 2,720 service men in uniform in the center of the stadium when the 175 piece band strikes up the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" as the finale of the between-halves entertainment. . . . Two hundred twenty-four service men, as well as the 175 musicians, will form a huge V at the south end of the gridiron. . . . The north half of the field will be covered by a huge American flag formed by 2,496 sailors, soldiers, and marines. . . . Into this setting will come Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, and Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commandant of the 6th service command, to thank the fans of Chicagoland for their support of a game presented for the purpose of raising money for Navy Relief and Army Emergency Relief. . . . The details of the ceremonies have been worked out by G. Cliffe Bainum, Northwestern university band director, who again will have charge of the All-Star musicians. . . . Fans are urged to arrive at Soldiers' field early. . . . The program will begin at 8:15 o'clock with the presentation of the National Football league's most valuable player trophy to Don Hutson, brilliant Green Bay Packer end. . . . Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football, will make the presentation. . . . Then will come the award of another trophy to George Franck of Minnesota by Amos Alonzo Stagg of the College of the Pacific in behalf of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. . . . Franck, who is now a cadet in the naval air corps at Corpus Christi, Tex., was adjudged by newspaper men the most valuable All-Star in last year's game. . . . Persons who leave the loop after 7:30 p. m. will be too late for the pregame fanfare.

The crowd of 101,200 will include fans from at least 30 states and the District of Columbia. . . . Among the more remote states from which ticket orders have been received are California, Florida, Massachusetts, Oregon, New York, Louisiana, Alabama, Utah, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Montana, Maryland, Tennessee, and Nebraska. . . . Don Hutson will be glad to get away from his Green Bay teammates long enough to come to Chicago to accept the league trophy. . . . He has been peeved at them since the season's first scrimmage. . . . "Just as I put a block on the tackle, they checked signals," Hutson explains, "and it was the first time in three years I blocked a tackle." . . . Sports writers, athletic directors, and football coaches will be guests of THE TRIBUNE tonight at a buffet supper in the Sherman hotel. . . . Lon Stiner of Oregon State, west coast representative on the All-Star coaching staff, summed up the attitude of this year's strategy board with the following comment: "Every one of us has given everything we have to give Bob Zuppke the glorious climax his brilliant coaching career deserves."

CUBS BEATEN BY PHILS, 3-2; WIN 2D CONTEST, 3-0

Litwhiler Gets 5 for 5 in First Game.

The White Sox scored their first New York triumph of the season yesterday when they beat the Yankees, 5-3. Story on page 23.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Les Fleming's five hit pitching in the second game of the Cubs-Phils double header yesterday enabled the Cubs to win, 3 to 0, to salvage the third and final game of the series between the sixth placers and the tailenders. The Chicagoans frittered away the first game of the afternoon in Wrigley field in 11 innings, losing 3 to 2, with the outcome really hinging on Hi Bithorn's failure to execute an easy slide into the plate that would have given the Cubs the decision in the 10th inning.

Bithorn pitched all the way for the Cubs in the first contest and could have scored the winning run himself had he been willing to get his bloomers dusty in an elemental plunge, crawl, or dive home. Bithorn yielded 10 hits, Danny Litwhiler knocking five of them in five trips to the plate. Litwhiler drove in the first Phil run with a single in the first inning, scored in the ninth after knocking his fourth single, and scored the winning run in the 11th on a double by Nick Etten after he had opened the final inning with a double.

Melton Stops 'Em Cold.

The Cubs, who had tied the score after the Phils had made it 2 to 1 in the first of the ninth, started out with a rush in the 11th, but were stopped cold by Rube Melton, who replaced Tom Hughes with Phil Cavarretta on third and Bill Nicholson on first, with none out. Melton retired Lou Novikoff, who previously had made three hits off Hughes, making Lou lift a weak little popup to Danny Murtaugh. Dom Dallessandro then ended the game by hitting into the Phils' fourth double play.

In the first game each team scored a run in the first inning and neither team scored thereafter until the ninth. The Cubs prolonged the game by crossing the plate in that inning on a double by Nicholson and Novikoff's third single.

Slide, Bithorn, Slide!

Then came the 10th and Bithorn's failure to leave his feet to end the game for his eighth victory instead of what turned out to be his 11th defeat.

In the second game the Cubs scored in the first inning, enough to win the ball game. They did it on Si Johnson's pass to Stan Hack, Stan's theft of second, and a single by Phil Cavarretta. The other two Cub runs were scratchy affairs in the seventh inning.

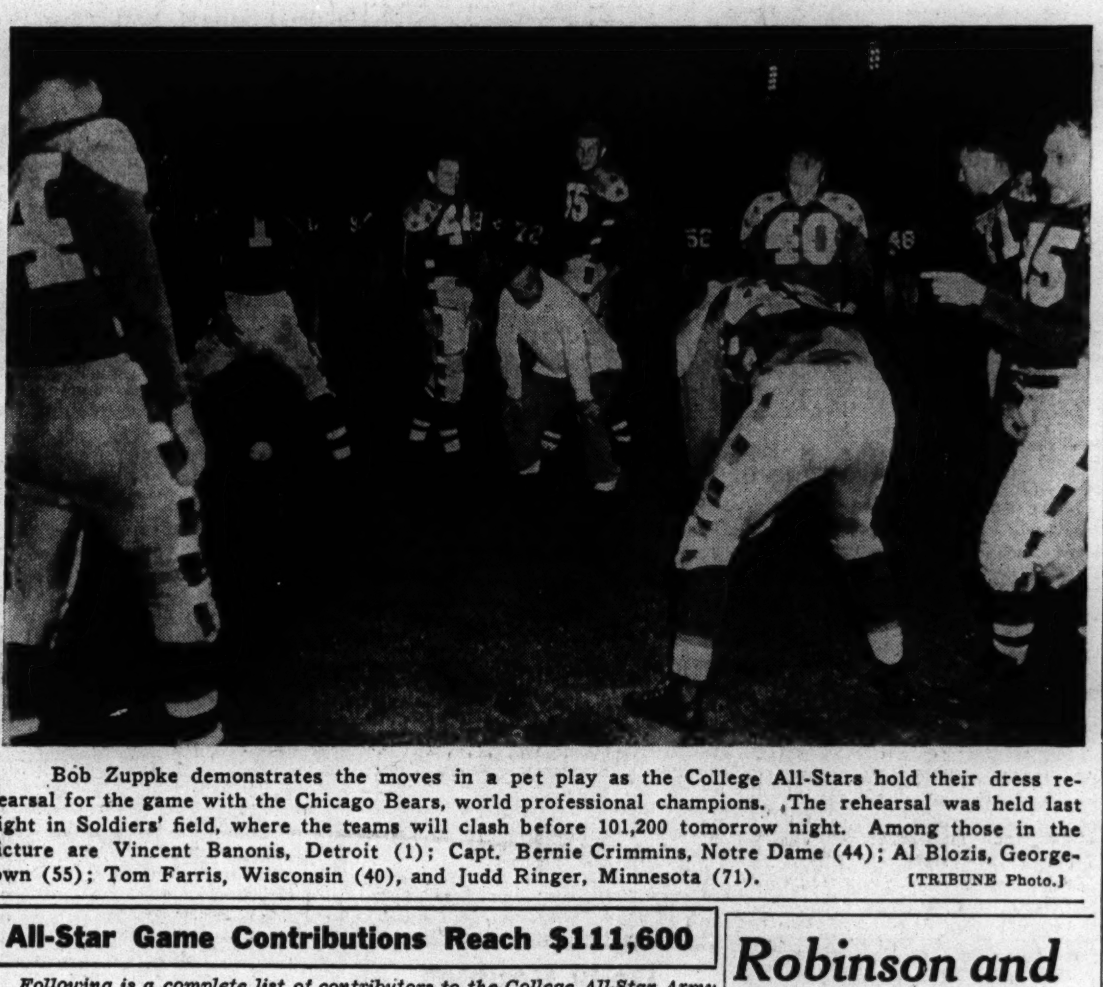
Fleming opened the seventh with a single to right, his second hit of the year, and went to second on Hack's sacrifice. Cavarretta walked, and he and Fleming advanced on Nicholson's bouncer to Etten. Novikoff scratched a single off Al Glossop's glove at the edge of the right field grass, Fleming scoring. When Glossop made the belated play to first, Cavarretta also got home before Etten could relay the ball to the plate.

Yesterday's engagement concluded the Phils' 1942 activities in Chicago.

General Manager James T. Gallagher of the Cubs yesterday announced the purchase of Pitcher Henry Wyse from the Tulsa Oilers. Wyse, who spent the 1942 spring training season with the Cubs, has won 18 while losing nine in the Texas league.

The Cubs will rest today in preparation for the two game series to be played with the Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow and Saturday. Claude Passeau will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow and Lon Warneke, who pitched a two hitter against the Cincinnati Reds last Sunday, will go against the champs Saturday.

And Now for the Big Game



Bob Zuppke demonstrates the moves in a pet play as the College All-Stars hold their dress rehearsal for the game with the Chicago Bears, world professional champions. The rehearsal was held last night in Soldiers' field, where the teams will clash before 101,200 tomorrow night. Among those in the picture are Vincent Banonis, Detroit (1); Capt. Bernie Crimmins, Notre Dame (44); Al Blozis, Georgetown (55); Tom Farris, Wisconsin (40), and Judd Ringer, Minnesota (71). [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Robinson and Motisi to Try Again Tonight

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Ray Robinson, New York welterweight star, who is undefeated in 123 bouts as an amateur and professional, and Tony Motisi of the Catholic Youth organization tonight will make another attempt to go thru with a 10 round contest in Comiskey park. Weather forced postponement of their meeting scheduled for last night.

Ray Weighs 144.

Robinson weighed 144 pounds at the Illinois Athletic commission office yesterday afternoon, three less than his Chicago rival. This is the lightest Robinson has been since stopping Fritzie Zivic in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 16.

After the boys were weighed, Nat Rogers, Mike Jacobs' matchmaker, closed to have the young men meet in a return match in Madison Square Garden Nov. 6. The encore is contingent on Motisi's showing against the New York boxer.

Other Bouts.

Supporting contestants and their weights follow:

Willie Joyce, Gary, vs. Joe Peralta, Tamaqua, Pa., each 135½ [10].
Joe Maxin, Cleveland, 184¾, vs. Jack Marshall, Dallas, 187½ [10].
Jackie Nichols, Gary, 128, vs. Dickie Cramer, New York, 136 [6].
Bob Richardson, Cleveland, 150, vs. Johnny Rozina, Milwaukee, 149 [6].

The fighters will not have to weigh in again today.

GO THRU PLAYS IN FULL DRESS UNDER LIGHTS

Set for Battle with Bears Tomorrow.

Last Chance

THE competition for the All-Star game's Victory Football will end at noon today. The ball and a lifetime pass to the home games of the Chicago Bears will go to the person who purchases the greatest amount of war bonds at the The Tribune Public Service offices. Two are tied with bids of $20,000 this morning. They are Chester Glover of Park Ridge and William and David Bresler of the west side. Total sale of war bonds since the campaign opened is $67,000. A special citation letter from the treasury department will be presented to the winner of the Victory Football.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-Star football players held full dress rehearsal last night in Soldiers' field, where tomorrow evening they will play the Chicago Bears, champions of the National league, in the ninth game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Last night's pregame drill in the lake front stadium climaxed preparations by the All-Stars which began Aug. 8. Delayed by the weather the squad of 64 trotted out on the gridiron clad in game uniforms shortly after 8 o'clock. A few minutes later all the huge lights in the amphitheater were turned on. For more than an hour the All-Stars went thru their routine kicking and passing drills and concluded the brief workout with signal drills in which five teams participated.

Last Brief Workout Today.

The college men returned to Evanston last evening and will finish their training period with a brief workout this afternoon. The squad will come to their loop headquarters in the Sherman hotel at midafternoon tomorrow and will assemble for dinner at 4 o'clock. Three hours later they will start for the scene of the battle with the Bears. Opening ceremonies tomorrow night will start promptly at 8:15.

Before the kickoff A. A. Stagg, who coached the University of Chicago football teams for 41 years and still is active in his profession at the College of the Pacific, will present The Tribune trophy to George Franck, former Minnesota half back, who was voted the most valuable player to the All-Stars in the 1941 game. Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football, will present the Joe Carr memorial trophy to Don Hutson, Green Bay end, who was chosen as the outstanding professional player last season.

Bears Are Picked on Record.

At the squad lecture yesterday morning and again on the field in the afternoon Head Coach Bob Zuppke and his assistants continued to stress the plans for defenses against the Bears' T formation. While no coach ever is completely satisfied, the All-Stars may have better than average success in solving their opponents' attack. The Bears are picked to win, for their record last year in the National league, as well as their victory over the 1941 All-Star team, stamped them as one of the great teams of all time.

The coaches and All-Star players have worked diligently. They have prepared four distinct types of defensive formations. None will work unless the individuals come thru with the mechanical requirements in tackling and pass coverage, but this squad has better all around strength than its immediate predecessor. There is no one star to blaze the way to victory, but there are several capable men such as Bruce Smith and Bob Sweiger of Minnesota, Bill Dudley of Virginia, Bob Westfall of Michigan, Jack Graf of Ohio State, Jack Jacobs of Oklahoma, Pete Kmetovic of Stanford, Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame, and Bob Moser of Texas A. & M., who may cause the professionals no end of trouble.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE!

There still are a limited number of seats remaining for tomorrow's All-Star football game in Soldiers' field between the College All-Americans and the Chicago Bears. Many of them, priced at $2.20, are in a special section which has been installed at the top of the south horseshoe in Soldiers' field. Others remain in the $1.10 sections. You can get them over the counter at the following places:

TRIBUNE TOWER, 9 A. M. to 5:15 P. M.
1 SOUTH DEARBORN, 9 A. M. to 7 P. M.
TOMORROW IS THE BIG NIGHT!

VALDINA ORPHAN, ROUNDERS READY TO RUN IN DERBY

Arrive from East as Chief Threats to Alsab.

Derby Field

THE field for the American Derby, which will be run Saturday at Washington Park over the mile and a quarter route, includes seven possible starters with the probability that at least six will go to the post. The field follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Alsab	126	G. Woolf	4-5
Valdina Orphan	126	F. Zufelt	3-2
Rounders	121	F. A. Smith	3-2
Aletern	121	L. Balaski	10-1
King's Abbey	118	R. Neves	15-1
Anticlimax	121	S. Brooks	15-1
With Regards	121	No boy	12-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Valdina Orphan and Rounders, Alsab's most dangerous challengers in Saturday's American Derby, arrived yesterday from Narragansett, thereby completing the field for this $78,000 race at Washington Park.

The presence of this formidable pair is expected to make the Derby a brilliantly contested gallop despite the recent withdrawal of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out. For Valdina Orphan and Rounders will assure Alsab of just the kind of competition he needs.

Both have shown themselves capable of outstanding efforts against rivals of top class. In beating Shut Out in the Dwyer stakes, Valdina Orphan ran a mile and a quarter in 2:01 2-5, one of the high ranking performances of all time at this distance. Rounders' most celebrated achievement still is fresh in the minds of Chicago race fans. He beat Whirlaway in the Arlington handicap on the last day of the Arlington Park meeting.

Alsab Is Favorite.

Despite the presence of such highly dangerous rivals, Alsab is expected to go to the post at less than even money because in his last two starts he has demonstrated that he has recovered from the effects of the splint which interrupted his campaign in early June.

In addition to the big three, the field will consist of Aletern, which conquered older horses in the $7,500 Sheridan handicap recently; Anticlimax, which ran brilliantly in winning a mile and a furlong tuneup on Tuesday, and King's Abbey, a prominent factor in quite a few races during the Arlington and Washington Park meetings. With Regards is considered a likely starter if there is mud on Derby day and whether there is or not it is possible he will go to the post.

Pollyanna Main Race Today.

The main event on today's program will be the $4,000 Pollyanna stakes which has drawn a field of seven juvenile fillies in the overnight entries. These include Louis B. Mayer's trio, Miss Barbara, Dear Judy, and Samaritan; the Rosedale stable's Hasty Kay, Hal Price Headley's Now Mandy, Tower stable's Black Orchid, and Mrs. Jake Lowenstein's Remind. All will carry 117 pounds at six furlongs.

36 to 1 Shot Wins Feature at Homewood

Washington Park race fans scanned the form sheets studiously yesterday trying to solve one of the toughest problems of the season, namely, to guess the winner of the $5,000 Drexel handicap. At least seven horses in the field of 13 figured to have a chance on form. The fans bet accordingly and there were half a dozen horses quoted between 3 to 1 and 8 to 1. But at the finish of this mile run, Gen'l Manager, the second longest shot on the board, was in front at odds of nearly 36 to 1.

Gen'l Manager beat Thumbs Up, the 3 to 1 favorite, by a nose while Sales Talk, a 5 to 1 shot, was taking third place.

He Pays $73.80.

Gen'l Manager survived a claim of foul which was lodged by Ralph Neves, Thumbs Up's rider. Gen'l Manager had drifted out while in front in the stretch and Neves was forced to take back after Thumbs Up had run up on to the leaders' heels. The claim was not allowed.

Jockey Jimmy Thornburg got Gen'l Manager out of the starting gate alertly, forced Marriage's early pace, took command going into the far turn, and withstood the strong challenges of Thumbs Up and Sales Talk in the stretch. His prices were $73.80, $28.20, and $9.80.

Steve Brooks, who had drawn a suspension for the duration of the meeting because the stewards were dissatisfied with his ride on Unhampered in the third race Tuesday, had a big afternoon yesterday in his last fling before the ban goes into effect. Riding aggressively, he brought in three in a row in the third, fourth, and fifth races after taking a second place in the first event.

His winners were Kimmy at $8.20, $4.40, and $3.80; Valeroso II., at $18.40, $6.60, and $4, and Balmand at $7.40, $3.80, and $3.40.

May Ride in Derby.

Brooks' suspension, which was decreed for a "listless ride on Unhampered, and for failure to follow the trainer's instructions," will not keep him out of the Derby Saturday if he can produce evidence that he had made a bona fide engagement to ride in that race before incurring the suspension. He had been scheduled to handle Anticlimax. The stewards are investigating the agreement, and it is considered probable that he will be allowed to ride. He rated this horse brilliantly in keeping him on top all the way in a mile and a furlong race Tuesday.

CALIBER OF PLAY IS BELOW PAR FOR U. S. NET TOURNEY

Event Will Open Today; Schroeder Favorite.

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—While other sports events have been affected in greater or less degree by wartime restrictions, the National Tennis tournament starting tomorrow at Forest Hills promises to patter along about as usual, barring, of course, a drastic drop in the caliber of play.

The West Side Tennis club offers no transportation problems, and USLTA officials are optimistic that the attendance will be as large as in recent years. The lack of a big "drawing card," they have discovered, does not seriously affect the size of the crowds.

The title threats consist either of youngsters who have not yet felt the draft, of oldsters enjoying temporary deferment, or, in one case, the representative of a neutral nation. Of the several service men entered only Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy might be considered among the top contenders.

Segura a Title Threat.

In the stadium matches tomorrow will appear young Ted Schroeder Jr., the tournament favorite; Sidney B. Wood Jr., a Wimbledon champion nearly 10 years ago, and Lieut. Mulloy. Saved for the second day are such notables as Frankie Parker, who won the national clay court title 10 years ago, and Pancho Segura, the colorful Equadorean.

Some who saw Segura trim Mulloy in the Longwood bowl finals last week think he has a good chance at the championship.

Louise Brough Favorite.

Those who have followed 19 year old Louise Brough on her triumphal tour thru the east this summer consider her an absolute cinch to wade thru the women's field, with only Pauline Betz to offer her any competition. Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, last year's winner, has retired temporarily. Miss Brough plays the first match in the stadium at 1 p. m. tomorrow against Mrs. Marjorie Van Ryn.

Doris Hart Wins Girls' National Tennis Title

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—Doris Hart, 17 year old Miami High school star, won the girls' national tennis championship today with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Marcheta Donnelly, 18, of Venice, Cal.

Nye Captures 3d Star Race; Leads Series

Harry Nye Jr. captured the Vanderveer trophy by winning the third race of the International Star class championship series off Chicago harbor yesterday. Skipper Nye and his crew, Lieut. Col. Stanley Fahlstrom, U. S. M. C., represent the Southern Lake Michigan Star class fleet.

The runner-up was Thomas O. Scripps Jr. of the San Diego Bay fleet. His crew was Maurice Watson. Robert Lippincott of West Jersey, N. J., was third. Sterling J. Potter of Santa Monica fleet, winner of the first two races, finished fourth.

Scripps is the youngest skipper in the series. He is 18 years old and his crew, Maurice Watson, 16.

The other Chicagoland crew, Skipper Emerson Raymond and his brother, Maurice, both of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's Wilmette fleet, finished fifth, their best performance so far.

Choppy water was encountered by the 15 yachts over the triangular course. A puffy wind that increased in strength near the finish brought them across the line in fast time.

Skipper Nye now leads Potter in total points, 46 to 45. There will be no races today.

The five race series will end Saturday afternoon. Summaries:

MRS. M'DONALD WINS CASTING MEET FEATURE

Takes 3/8 Accuracy with 95 Points.

BY BEN MARKLAND.

Mrs. Harry McDonald, a Chicago housewife who learned to cast only a year ago, overcame a strong south wind and a field of experienced competitors yesterday afternoon to win the feature event of the national casting tournament at the Lincoln Park Casting club.

In the ⅜ ounce accuracy event Mrs. McDonald was four points behind the leaders when the test was half completed, but steadied to score five consecutive perfects while her more experienced rivals were letting the wind drag down their scores. Her final tally of 95 was two points above that of Mrs. U. J. Bauer of Akron, O., who led for the first eight rings. Mrs. Ott Reisman of Kansas City, was third with 91, and fourth place was a tie between Mrs. Myrtle Sutphin of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Bee Egar of the Lincoln Park club, with 89s.

Sets World's Record.

Using a home made reel he rigged up last week, Clarence Anthes, Waukesha, Wis., set a new world's record in the ⅝ ounce distance bait event. His best distance was 385 feet with an average of 359⅗ feet, which exceeded the three year old mark of Clyde Marshall, East Liverpool, O., by 29 feet.

W. J. Lovely, St. Louis, was second to Anthes with 362 feet for the long and a 348 average. E. J. Gribbins, Worchester, Mass., was third with 342 and 330 while Dick Miller, Huntington Beach, Cal. was fourth with 337 and 326⅘.

Tony Accetta, Cleveland, O., won the pro class with 336⅘ for a long and 336 for an average.

Mrs. Reisman Leads All-Around.

Mrs. Reisman, wife of a Kansas City physician, combined her 91 in the ⅜ ounce event with a victory in the womens' wet fly contest to take the lead for the all-around ladies' championship. By scoring 92 in the latter event she successfully defended the national title she won last year at St. Louis. Mrs. Bauer was second in the wet fly with a mark of 89, Miss Carol Steel of Wilmette third with 88, and Mrs. Sutphin fourth with 87.

Dick Miller, Huntington Beach, Cal., successfully defended his salmon fly championship by averaging 177 feet 8 inches with the heavy rod. His longest cast was 179 feet, almost three yards farther than the best cast of Judge E. E. Cavanaugh of Fort Dodge, Ia., who averaged 168 feet for second place. Paul Ufer of Toledo was third with an average of 157 feet 8 inches, and W. J. Lovely third with a mark of 156 feet 8 inches.

Five Events Today.

There are five events on today's schedule. The distance fly will start at 8 a. m.; the ⅝ ounce distance bait and the women's ⅝ ounce accuracy at 1:30; the juvenile ⅝ ounce accuracy at 2:30, and the skish bait at 3 o'clock.

Cannon Ball Wins; Gains in 3 Yr. Old Race

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 26 (AP).—The scramble for honors as top 3 year old harness horse of the year became more involved today as G. F. Benham's Cannon Ball beat both Colby Hanover, pre-Hambletonian favorite, and The Ambassador, Hambletonian winner.

The bay son of Guy Day won both heats of the two out of three American stake race, defeating a field of ten, among them seven Hambletonian entries. The triumph netted his New York owner $4,956.92. Blue Boy, a bay gelding, edged out The Ambassador for place money of $1,982.77. Each finished second in one heat, but a break in the backstretch forced The Ambassador back to tenth place, while Blue Boy, on the break scoring in the second heat, managed to pull in ninth.

His Excellency outfooted the best for honors in the Matron stake for aged trotters, with the favorite, Nibble Hanover, in third place behind Brittanic.

Atlantic Hanover made the fastest time of the meet in the 2:07 pace, stopping the clocks in 2:02 in the final trip. Hal Trim won the American stake for 3 year old pacers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—The White Sox reared back in more or less majestic fashion today to prove they had seen enough of the Yankee stadium jinx. In their last chance to dodge going into the 1942 records as totally futile on the local lot, the Chicagoans in some way or another mustered sufficient power to slap down the pacemaking world champions by 5 to 3. The achievement not only broke a string of ten straight losses here, but also dragged the titular folks back to seven and one-half laps ahead of the Red Sox.

The routing of the jinx, part of which was due to homers by Myril Hoag and Wally Moses, was doubly impressive because it was accomplished despite a fadeout by the puzzling Bill Dietrich. Unpredictable Bill tried to give away the decision after being comforted with an early five run lead, but his boss yanked him out of there just in time. The change brought in Joe Haynes and the expert relief man didn't permit much delay in the harvesting of his season's eighth success.

Pummel Mr. Borowy.

The Sox got what proved to be a stranglehold on the jinx by turning up with a juicy third inning against Hank Borowy, the gentleman who previously had lost only two decisions this season. Six hits, one of them Moses' homer, led Hank toward the exit in the big session and before his helper, Atley Donald, could adjust the situation for the worried champions, a run was forced home.

Dietrich fell apart so quickly in the third that the Yanks scored three runs on two hits, the other ingredients being four passes. The fourth pass caused Bespectacled Bill's removal and Haynes, after cleaning up that mess, kept the enemy thoroly subdued except in the seventh when he had to pitch himself out of a jam created by Joe DiMaggio's only hit of the day and two walks.

Here's How They Did It.

Hoag's homer to right in the second was the only productive blow of four off Borowy in the first two innings, but the Sox made amends by the way they conducted themselves in the third. Kolloway led with a single and Moses' homer, also to right, came next. Bob Kennedy singled and went to second when Gerry Priddy dropped a throw from Borowy. After Luke Appling had grounded out, Taft Wright singled to score Kennedy. With two gone, Jim Webb and Mike Tresh singled, filling the bases. Donald came to the rescue, but walked Dietrich, forcing Wright in.

WRIGHT LEAVES TEAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—Taft Wright of the White Sox outfielding department tonight closed up his big league baseball affairs for the duration. He boarded a Chicago bound plane, his first step in response to the marching orders issued by his draft board at Lumberton, N. C. He will motor there from Chicago. He is scheduled to be inducted into the army on Sept. 4. The loss of Wright leaves the Sox with only three fly chasers, one of whom, Sammy West, has been on the sidelines for two weeks because of an ankle injury. West also faces an early draft call.

The Sox went away from here immediately after today's game to do some resting tomorrow in Boston. They'll take on the Red Sox there in single games Friday and Saturday.

Louis Visits Wife

Corp. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, arrived from Fort Riley, Kansas, yesterday to spend a five days' furlough with his wife.

He spent the greater part of the day playing golf at Palos park and was not immediately available for a statement as to when he would be able to defend his title again. Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who has an option on the Brown Bomber's services, retains hope of being able to arrange a championship match between Louis and Billy Conn or Mello Bettina late next month.

Joe and his wife expect to be parents in January.

200 Out of 200 Give Arkansan Lead in Shoot

Vandalia, O., Aug. 26 (AP).—The 43d Grand American trapshoot schedule was thrown out of gear today when 770 marksmen, largest field ever to seek the class championships, failed to complete the program before darkness.

Indications were that the big shotgun barrage, scheduled to end Friday, might be forced into Saturday before reaching a decision in the main event—the Grand American handicap—to be fought out over the 200 target route this year for the first time.

154,000 Targets Thrown.

Today's huge field called for the throwing of 154,000 targets. When time was called, these shooters were out front among the group which had completed the 200 target grind:

CLASS AA—Julius Petty, England, Ark., 200; Bill Drennan, Utica, Ill., 199; Karl Maust, Columbus, O., and Walter Beaver, Conshohocken, Pa., 198 each.

CLASS A—E. B. Chamberlain, Martville, N. Y., and Harold Stecher, Haven, Kas., 199 each; C. E. Huber, Tiffin, O.; Dick Williams, Lawrence, Kas., and J. H. Hinklin, Marion, O., 198 each.

CLASS B—Jim Stinson, Bradford, Pa., 198; George Dillon, Maysville, Ky., 197.

CLASS C—Marty Arft, Toledo, O., 194; Mrs. Isaac Andrews, Spartansburg, S. C., 193.

CLASS D—Bobby Lee Stiffal, Casey, Ill., 195; James H. Williams, Nashwauk, Minn., and J. D. Anthony, Grand Rapids, Minn., 193 each.

Illinois Man Wins.

In shootoffs today after ties yesterday, Bill Drennan of Utica, Ill., a tavern operator, and Mrs. George Cameron of Houston, Tex., won the amateur clay target championships of North America. Drennan, tied by four others at 199 in the 200-target 16-yard race, broke 25 straight in the shootoff to defeat Hale Jones of Wood River, Ill.; Junior Dick of Mineapolis, Walter Beaver of Conshohocken, Pa., and H. M. Shick of Lee's Summit, Mo., each of whom cracked 24.

Waterloo Outfielder Will Join White Sox

Waterloo, Ia., Aug. 26 [Special].—Bill Mueller, 21 year old outfielder with the Waterloo club of the Three-Eye league, will report to the Chicago White Sox in Boston on Saturday, Manager Johnny Mostil of the Hawks said tonight. He will try to replace Taft Wright, who has been called for army service. Mueller has been hitting around .270 for the Waterloo team.

WILLIAMS GETS CHEERS; RED SOX WIN NINTH IN ROW

Punchless Indians Are Beaten, 4 to 1.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox won their ninth straight game today as they defeated the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 1, behind the three hit pitching of Bill Butland.

It was the 18th straight game in which the Indians have failed to score more than three runs. The statistics of the 18 games showed a total of 29 runs, an average of less than two a game, while Cleveland's opponents scored 68, nearly four a game.

Ted Williams, who was pelted with fruit in Philadelphia on Sunday and drew boos from the home fans yesterday when he went hitless, gained the cheers of the crowd today as he collected two hits in three times at bat. The boos went to the occupant of a box near the Red Sox dugout who tossed a Frankfurt roll at the left fielder. Score:

ALL-STARS, NOTE: 35 BIG BEARS TO REACH CITY TODAY

Pros Review Plays, Hear Mr. Halas' Warning.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 26.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon, the Chicago Bears' outdoor preparation for the football game of the year was completed. For two and a half hours, the 35 players had been under the spell of the old sergeant, Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, and mild Luke Johnsos.

For 18 days, the National Football league champions had continually emphasized offense for their battle Friday night in Soldiers' field against the College All-Stars. Today Anderson and Johnsos, the line coaches, went from A to Z in defense and even then were not sure they had covered all potentialities of the attack which All-Star Coach Bob Zuppke and his assistants have conjured up.

'Beware!'—Halas.

There was a meeting tonight in the basement of old Fowler hall on the St. John's Military academy campus. For almost two hours the players, in schoolroom chairs, sat, watched and asked questions as Coach George Halas made endless circles and X's on the blackboards covering the front wall of the room. It was a roundup review of plays and situations, interspersed with warnings from the coaches that the slightest mistake might turn the tide in favor of the All-Americans.

After breakfast tomorrow morning, the Bears, dressed in their every day getup, will go thru signal drill on the campus quadrangle. At 10:30, they will start the journey for Chicago by automobile. Shortly after noon the champions will be in their Palmer House headquarters. At 8:30 in the evening they will work out in Soldiers' field, where 24 hours later all will be business, with the collegians on the other end of the field.

Nowaskey Only Casualty.

Every member of the squad except Bob Nowaskey, the chunky end from George Washington university, came out of the training routine in excellent condition if you will excuse a few extra pounds here and there. Nowaskey, who suffered a wrenched right knee in the 32 to 6 victory over Camp Grant last Saturday, probably will be able to play. Two visits to a mud bath expert in nearby Waukesha and applications of cold and hot packs on the knee have reduced the swelling and eliminated most of the pain.

WILMAN, SINKE AND MARICICH LEAD MASTERS

Three of Chicago's best known bowlers held the first three places as the third round in the Masters round robin tournament was completed at Dearborn-Jackson recreation last night. Joe Wilman had scored 59.46 points; Eli Maricich, 58.32, and Joe Sinke, 56. Sinke moved up by beating Rudy Habetler on a series which gave him 899 pins and 20.49 points to Habetler's 800 and 17.00. Other scores:

Glenn Gersch, 816 and 19.16, beat Eddie Zajac, 784 and 16.34; Harry Lippe, 819 and 18.23, beat Bill Hargadon, 761 and 17.11; Norman Nelson, 844 and 19.44, beat Al Sharkey, 756 and 16.18. Tonight's matches: George Calder vs. George Theel; Connie Schwoegler vs. Wally Genter; Maricich vs. Les Kilbourne; Gersch vs. Hargadon.

BOYS' NINES PLAY OFF TIE TODAY IN LIBERTY LEAGUE

The Columbus and Portage park teams will try again today to settle the Liberty league championship. The two nines, finalists in a league limited to boys of 9 to 14 years, tried it a week ago, but had to call off the battle after 12 innings with the score tied at 16-all. Today's game, to be played in Wrigley field, will start at 12:30.

Henry Armstrong Stops Ramirez in Eighth Round

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 26 (AP).—Henry Armstrong, fighting in his perpetual motion style of old, knocked out Rodolfo Ramirez of Mexico in the eighth round of their 10 round main event tonight. A capacity crowd of 10,000 saw the bout. Armstrong weighed 144, Ramirez 145.

2 ARMY PLANES CRASH, FALL ON BUILDINGS; 9 DIE

One Hits House, Other Post Tailor Shop.

Nine persons were killed yesterday in two accidents involving army planes crashing into buildings. One of the planes plummeted into a farmhouse and the other fell on an army post tailor shop after colliding in the air with another plane. Eight of those killed were army airmen and one was a civilian. Details follow:

BOMBER WRECKS HOUSE

Shreveport, La., Aug. 26 (AP).—Four army airmen were killed today when a B-26 bomber from the Barksdale field crashed into a small farm house 10 miles south of here, destroying it and burning a farmer severely.

Barksdale authorities listed the dead as: Second Lieut. Charles J. Preston, 21 years old, Hollywood, Cal.; Second Lieut. Louis F. Greis, 25, pilot, Syracuse, N. Y.; Second Lieut. William Thomas Stone, 26, Webb City, Mo., and Pvt. John M. Wood, 22, Bethesda, Md.

Severely injured was Leo Gullo, 38, farmer, into whose home the plane crashed.

$800 Is Burned Up.

Gullo escaped thru a window as his house burned. Bystanders restrained him from reëntering the house to recover $800 in currency he had borrowed from a bank a few days before.

The plane, flying at a low altitude, a witness said, skimmed over a store, tore away several telephone wires, and flew on, grazing the top of a pecan tree, then crashed into the Gullo home. Wreakage was strewn a considerable distance and some of the occupants were reported to have been thrown out of the plane before it crashed into the Gullo residence.

Gullo was lying in bed listening to the radio program. Mrs. Gullo was in the kitchen and was not injured.

FOUR CADETS KILLED

Lubbock, Tex., Aug. 26 (AP).—Four flying cadets and a civilian were killed today in a collision of two planes over the Lubbock army flying school.

Three of those killed were in the post tailor shop into which one of the planes crashed. They were Cadets Duke W. Harrison Jr., 23, Greenville, Tex., and Clark I. Toombs, 22, Amarillo, Tex., and the civilian, G. W. Singleton, 36, of Lubbock, who operated the shop.

Cadet pilots who lost their lives were Jack J. Williamson, 22, son of Jackson Williamson, Elkville, Ill., and Andrew R. Wood Jr., 25, whose parents live at Canton, Mass.

Charles O. Wylie, Milwaukee, parachuted to safety from one of the planes.

Another cadet, Owen Douglas Willard, also leaped but was reported in a critical condition. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Willard, West Allis, Wis.

CAB COMPANIES TO GET RUBBER ON TRIAL BASIS

Will Be Cut Off if They Don't Cut Mileage.

Issuance of rationing certificates for recapping rubber to Chicago cab companies will be resumed today on a temporary basis, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area director for the Office of Price administration, said yesterday. He had halted the release of rubber for cab tires on July 29 because mileage was 20 per cent more than 1941.

Mulcahy said he had received pledges from Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab company, and Michael M. Sokoll, president of the Checker Taxi company, that total mileage would be slashed to corresponding 1941 levels.

The companies disclosed two tire saving plans that have been adopted:

1. Cut Sunday operation one-third, thereby enabling Yellow to eliminate 110,000 to 120,000 miles a month and Checker, 65,000 miles a month.

2. Ration mileage to drivers by limiting the number of miles which each driver will be permitted to drive in a shift.

Mulcahy urged the companies to experiment with other plans for further reduction of tire use.

SWEATER GANG GETS $2,339 IN OFFICE ROBBERY

Four young robbers, wearing sweaters, held up the combined offices of the Atlas Savings and Loan association and the Kucera Realty company, at 3925 26th street, in wild west fashion yesterday morning and fled with $2,339 loot in the car of one of the victims.

In the offices when the robbers walked in, waving revolvers, were John J. Kucera, 4116 Arthur avenue, Congress Park, owner of the realty business and treasurer of the loan association; John A. Bily, 2636 East avenue, Berwyn, association secretary, and an employé, Edward J. Bohac, 1910 South Avers avenue.

Kucera was forced at gunpoint to open the safe, from which the robbers obtained $1,500 out of the association's compartment and $800 from Kucera's box. They also took $39 from pockets of the three men, stripped off their wrist watches, and took Kucera's automobile keys, after binding the men's wrists and ankles with handkerchiefs and belts. Then they unlocked his car, parked at the curb, and fled in it.

Day by Day on the Farm

Horse Chestnuts Bearing.

Aug. 26, 1942.

OF all the trees on the Wheaton farm that produce a crop of fruits or nuts, the horse chestnut is bound to attract the most attention at this time of the year. The haws go in for much color a little later for they bear "thornapples" which turn pink and then deep red during the autumn months and thus rate high in attractiveness. But the fruit of the haw hardly is in a class with unusual clusters of nuts which already are looming up large on the horse chestnut trees.

We were looking at the fruit of the horse chestnut this week. Right now, the round prickly husks which inclose the nuts are different from anything on the farm. That is not surprising because thruout its entire career there is something distinctive about the species. When the first silky leaf buds begin to unfold in the spring they remind us of the magnolia tree, one of the most beautiful of all American trees. When the large creamy white flowers unfold, the horse chestnut displays these in an unusual way by having them point upward. Even the fragrance of the flowers is distinctive.

Each Has White Scar.

As the season progresses the horse chestnut develops its fruit not in the prosaic way of the hickory nut which has smooth husks, but in an ornate manner. And when the mahogany colored horse chestnuts are mature they, too, bear unmistakable markings for each has a white scar. We know of no other fruit that carries such an unusual identification mark. Everything that the horse chestnut does seems to be well planned and out of the ordinary from the time it first shows its leaflets until the fruit is ripe in the fall.

Years ago we sampled a horse chestnut. Sampling was as far as we went for the kernel is very bitter. We have heard that cattle will eat the bitter meat of the fruit and we wonder how they can do it.

Superstition About Fruit.

Altho the horse chestnut is inedible it has been considered useful in another way. An ancient superstition ascribes healing powers to the fruit of this remarkable and very decorative tree. If you carry a horse chestnut in your pocket all the time as a pocket piece you'll never get rheumatism, according to a fable that has persisted for hundreds of years. The fact that this superstition is associated with the horse chestnut seems quite typical of the species.

We wonder why such a myth could not have been associated with the butternut, hickory nut, hazelnut, or the fruit of some other nut bearing tree. Any one of them appears to be a candidate for such a story but it remained for the horse chestnut, with its unique flowers and fruit, to be chosen for the rôle in a popular superstition.

HUGE WAR BOND DISPLAY READY IN UNION STATION

Unveiling of Murals to Be Held Sept. 6.

Construction of the huge war bond display in the concourse of the Union station has been completed, Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago and Cook County Building and Construction Trades council, said yesterday. The council sponsored the project.

The display consists of two 40-foot murals painted by Henry Harringer, artist and designer. One mural depicts war bonds showering over the capitol building in Washington, and the other portrays bombs falling on the axis.

4,500 Small Planes in Display.

Overhead, 60 feet from the floor, are suspended 4,500 miniature planes representing four types of army and navy fighters and bombers. In surrounding panels, which are 30 feet tall, are huge heads of a soldier, sailor, marine, aviator, coast guardsman, merchant seaman, Red Cross nurse, and WAAC. In the waiting room of the station are two other murals, also 30 feet high, showing labor producing and railroads delivering war weapons.

The display will be unveiled at 4 p. m. Sept. 6. A feature of the ceremonies will be the presentation of a $100,000 gift to the federal treasury by the Illinois Conference of Building and Construction Trades councils.

The bond was donated by the First Federal Savings and Loan association as symbolic of the one million dollars in war bonds it has sold.

ARMY PREPARES NEW INDUCTION CENTER IN LOOP

Removal to the loop of the army induction station at Fort Sheridan, formation of a second Chicago induction station, and the transfer of the WAAC's and aviation cadet board from present locations, are involved in lease negotiations for nearly 80,000 square feet of space in the Insurance Exchange building, it was learned yesterday.

Army officers confirmed that the contemplated leasing had been approved but said that it was in the hands of the engineering department for final action. If negotiations are completed the various induction offices will be moved prior to Oct. 1, it was said.

The new induction station will occupy about 45,000 square feet of space. Terms of the lease will permit the government to cancel it on notice of 60 days.

Approximately 17,000 square feet of space has tentatively been alloted for the WAAC offices and the aviation cadet board in the United States courthouse will be given 15,000 square feet of space for physical examination rooms.

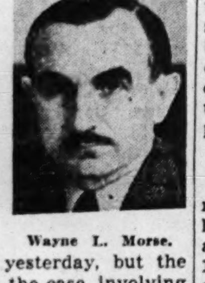
WLB MAJORITY DEFENDS STEEL WAGE DECISION

Employers Term It Contract Blow.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—The War Labor board majority, which voted to make a pay raise for 250,000 steel workers retroactive to last Feb. 15, defended the decision today as realistic and equitable, while a minority assailed it as a blow to the sanctity of contracts.



Wayne L. Morse.

The decision was made public yesterday, but the formal opinions in the case, involving five United States Steel corporation subsidiaries, were not released until today.

The majority opinion, written by Wayne L. Morse, public member, said the 5½ cents an hour increase was made retroactive because any other decision would have been based "on purely legalistic grounds of form and not of substance."

Employers Assail Ruling.

Four employer members of the board, in a bitter dissent, said labor's arguments and voting in the case invited "repudiation and retaliation" and predicted the decision "will arise to plague them just as it will arise to plague the four members of the board representing the public."

The companies had wage contracts with the CIO United Steelworkers providing for reopening of the contracts on 10 days' notice or cancellation on 20 days' notice. Notice was not given until late in July, after the board's decision in the "little steel" case. The contracts, therefore, were in effect until Aug. 9.

Morse said that for the union to have given notice in February to all companies in the industry "would, in actuality, have resulted in the impossibility of following thru with negotiations in 20 days, as required in the contract, and would have thus, as a practical matter, brought to an end a large number of the most important contracts in the basic steel industry."

Viewed as Test Case.

That, he said, would have resulted in widespread uncertainty and confusion, and the postponing of such formal notice until after the "little steel" decision was "in the best interests of maximum steel production."

Morse said that "all parties appreciated the fact that the 'little steel' case then [in February] pending before the War Labor board was the test case for the basic steel industry." He added that, by long established custom, wage adjustments in steel follow an industry wide pattern.

The minority opinion said responsibility for failure to open the contracts can be placed solely upon the union and that its reasons for not doing so carried no weight.

Wipes Out Contracts.

"This board," said the dissent, "takes upon itself to wipe out contract commitments, disregarding the fact that the labor movement has grown strong in claiming a contract a sacred thing—something that cannot be lightly dismissed.

"Labor, by pleading and voting as it has in this case, invites repudiation and retaliation."

The minority opinion was signed by Roger D. Lapham, Cyrus F. Ching, Robert F. Black, and George H. Mead.

STACK REPLACED IN RECORD TIME AT STEEL PLANT

Storm damage to a foundry at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation has been cleared in record time and the foundry is expected to resume operations this morning. An 80 foot section of smoke stack was blown down at 3:55 p. m. last Saturday, wrecking part of the foundry.

At 4:30 clearance of the debris was started and at 9 p. m. a new stack was ordered from Joliet. At 2:10 a. m. Sunday a 16 ton stack arrived, loaded in sections onto trucks. At 3:30 p. m. Monday the stack was in place and at 6 p. m. workmen started installing a new refractory lining.

Pick Board to Decide Pay for Imported Beet Pickers

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard today established a four-man board to determine prevailing wages for farm workers to be imported from other states and Mexico to help harvest the western coast sugar beet crop. It will be made up of one representative each from the war man power commission and the United States employment service and two from the department of agriculture. Public hearings will be held in California.

OPA Revises Price Ceilings for Canners of Sardines

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today rolled back maximum prices of California sardine canners who had what was described as "abnormally high" March, 1942, ceilings. Henderson said his action was to relieve a squeeze on wholesale distributors. He established "dollars and cents" price ceilings for the entire sardine canning industry, supplanting previous price control based on each canner's highest March prices.

Steel Back Pay Cost Is Placed at 14 Millions

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Back wages of more than 14 million dollars will be paid to plant workers of the United States Steel corporation under the War Labor board order issued Tuesday, according to reliable estimates made yesterday. A large part of the wage distribution will be made to workers in the Chicago area.

The board directed the corporation's five steelmaking subsidiaries to grant an increase of 5½ cents an hour, retroactive to Feb. 15. The increase was expected in view of the board's earlier rulings in the cases of the independent steel companies, but steel men had been hopeful that the board would not uphold the union's demands that the increase start several months prior to the date that the union made its demands on the company.

Makes Minimum 78 Cents.

The latest wage increase raises the minimum steel wage to 78 cents an hour, compared with the 52½ cents an hour prevailing before March 15, 1937, when a 10 cent raise became effective. That was the last year in which steel prices were raised.

Whether the industry can continue to operate under a rigid price ceiling while wages and other costs continue to rise is considered doubtful. The wage increase, steel men agreed, will add to the pressure that is straining the present price structure.

At the instigation of the government the steel industry in 1937 stabilized its prices. It voluntarily refrained from advancing prices until 1941 when Price Administrator Leon Henderson, in a surprise order, froze all prices at the levels existing in the first quarter of that year. The order followed closely the granting of a general 10 cents an hour pay increase to workers.

Wages Up 48 Per Cent.

The industry is now getting the same prices for its products as in 1937, but the wage rate for steel workers has advanced about 48 per cent. Furthermore, the industry is carrying a greatly increased tax load.

These factors are reflected in the financial reports of the steel companies covering the first half of 1942. Net earnings of 72 steel companies, representing 90 per cent of the industry, fell to the lowest level since the first half of 1939.

About $4,455,000 in back wages, it was indicated, will be distributed in the Chicago area. This is about one-third of the total and will be divided among 75,000 employés of steel corporation subsidiaries operating in this area. The average payment per worker will be approximately $59.40. The companies which will make the distribution include Carnegie-Illinois Steel, largest United States Steel subsidiary, American Steel and Wire company, and the American Bridge company.

LIQUIDATION PLAN IS FILED BY INT'L HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—The International Hydro-Electric system today filed with the Securities and Exchange commission a plan of liquidation in compliance with a month old commission order under "death sentence" provisions of the holding company act.

The plan contemplates eventual disposal of interests in six subsidiaries, Gatineau [Canada] Power company, New England Power association, Hudson River Power corporation, System Properties Inc., Corinth [N. Y.] Electric Light and Power company, and Moreau [N. Y.] Manufacturing corporation.

Hydro will distribute as soon as possible 1,434,672 shares of the 1,439,042 outstanding shares of Gatineau Power common stock in exchange for part of its $26,568,000 of 6 per cent convertible gold debentures of 1944, at a rate of 54 common shares for each $1,000 of debentures. Securities of other subsidiaries will be distributed to debenture holders as soon as they are put in distributable form. Other security holders are to be "satisfied" in their order of seniority.

New England Power is to be reorganized and simplified.

TRANSPORT OF TROOPS BY PULLMAN BREAKS ALL RECORDS IN JULY

George A. Kelly, vice president of the Pullman company, yesterday reported that more troops were moved in sleeping cars during July than in any previous month. Not counting men traveling on furlough or on their way to induction centers, 708,000 men in uniform were transported in Pullmans.

The July volume of troop travel was up 24 per cent from June, and marked the seventh consecutive month troop traffic broke all previous company records. For the first seven months this year, Pullman carried more than 3,600,000 men to military destinations.

The company's car service department has been placed on a 24 hour, seven day week basis for the first time in its history. An average month's job of transporting troops requires 7 million drinking cups, 5 million towels, 4 million sheets and pillow slips, 233,000 bars of soap and 3,100 gallons of liquid soap. The Pullman cars travel an average of 554 miles a day now, compared with 454 last year and 394 in 1917, Kelly said.

Bickford Buys More Shares in Thompson

Bickford's, Inc., eastern restaurant chain, in the last few months has increased its holdings of capital stock of the John R. Thompson company, Chicago, the Securities and Exchange commission disclosed yesterday in its official summary of security transactions and holdings for June.

Since March it has acquired almost 14,000 shares of Thompson $25 par common shares and its April report to the SEC revealed ownership of 58,755 of the 300,000 shares outstanding. John R. Thompson Jr., president of the Chicago restaurant chain, commenting on the report, said:

"The block of stock owned by Bickford's is substantial. It does not constitute control of the company. It was acquired because of the friendship that exists between the Bickfords and me and because of the similarity in our methods of operating our restaurants."

Two Officials the Same.

Thompson said the Bickfords had been acquiring John R. Thompson company common stock for almost two years. It was noted from company reports that there is some intermingling of officers between the two companies. D. W. Moar is vice president of both companies. F. F. Davenport, a vice president of Thompson's, is a director of Bickford's.

One of the largest stock gifts during June as reported to the SEC was made by Glenn L. Martin, president of the Glenn L. Martin company, manufacturer of the famous Martin bomber. He gave away 5,000 shares of the company's $1 par common which on the basis of yesterday's market had a value of about $100,000.

The Kresge Foundation, Detroit, Mich., was the recipient thru a bequest or inheritance of 300,000 shares of S. S. Kresge company common, making its total holdings 1,500,000 shares. The current market price is around $19 a share.

Gives Gardner Shares.

J. Willis Gardner, Quincy, Ill., director of the Gardner-Denver company, mining equipment manufacturer, gave away 12 blocks of the company's $3 cumulative convertible preferred stock with an aggregate total of 2,105 shares, and 100 shares of the company's common. The preferred shares have a current market value of almost $60 each and the common of about $12.

A. Frederick Gartz Jr., Chicago gave away 1,000 Crane company common shares having a current value of about $12 a share. S. M. Zinner, Chicago, made a gift of 1,950 shares of the common stock of Walter E. Heller & Co. The shares sold recently at $6.25 a share.

The SEC also disclosed that George W. Mason, president of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, had disposed of 11,046 of the company's capital shares, reducing his holdings to 35,000 shares.

ALUMINUM VOTE TODAY TO DECIDE ISSUE OF STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—Thousands of CIO aluminum workers vote tomorrow at seven big plants of the Aluminum Company of America on whether they approve their local leaders' action in rejecting the War Labor board's recent decision denying them a general wage increase.

Nick A. Zonarich, president of the union, said a vote of approval would also give him power to call a strike in the plants.

In denying the union pay request the WLB held that the Aluminum company's pay roll had increased 15.8 per cent between Jan. 1, 1941 and May, 1942.

NAME CHICAGO BOARD TO REVIEW ORDNANCE CONTRACTOR PROFITS

Five Chicago business and professional men have been appointed as a price adjustment board to review profits of companies producing war materials for the Chicago ordnance district, Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong announced yesterday.

Max H. Hurd, former vice president of the Link-Belt company, is chairman and the only full time member of the committee. Other members are Herbert B. Zimmerman, vice president of R. R. Donnelley & Sons; Clay Judson, partner in the law firm of Wilson & McIlvaine; James M. Barker, director of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and George W. Rosseter of George Rosseter & Co.

James F. Oates Jr., chief of the Chicago ordnance district contract service division, said the new board will act with respect to companies assigned it for "over-all" review by Washington ordnance authorities.

GAS HEAT CURB NOT EXPECTED TO AFFECT CHICAGO

Officials of the People's Gas Light and Coke company yesterday said that a preliminary reading of the War Production board's order restricting delivery of artificial gas to new consumers indicates that the territory served by the company will be little affected.

The WPB order applies to artificial gas, whereas People's Gas sells artificial gas mixed with natural gas from the southwestern petroleum fields. The greater part of the artificial gas used by the company, officials added, is obtained as a by-product from the coking operations at the big steel plants in the Chicago area.

The officials said they believed the order was directed mostly at sections of the country where users of oil heating are switching to gas because of oil transportation shortages. War industries in some eastern areas, they said, might be affected adversely if too heavy a load were placed on gas plants.

Watson Gives Up His Share of War Profit

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—In an unusual contract, Thomas J. Watson, who was paid $462,519 as president and director of the International Business Machines corporation in 1941, will forgo any war profits earned in the future by the company from the manufacture of munitions, it was disclosed today.

In addition, Watson voluntarily reduced his annual percentage compensation from the company's earnings to 2½ per cent from 5 per cent, the corporation said in its annual report to the Securities and Exchange commission. It was the first action of its kind reported to the SEC.

Forgoes War Profits.

The new five year contract, dated Jan. 1, stipulates that "no profit derived from the manufacture of munitions of war, as recorded in the books of the company under the title 'ordnance division,' shall be included in the additional payment to Mr. Watson." The percentage compensation is computed on earnings after certain deductions.

Watson's payment was $54,668 less than he received in 1940. The company also paid Frederick W. Nichol, vice president, $104,590, against $101,538 in 1940, and John G. Phillips, also a vice president, $55,072.

Watson's 1941 payment, which included $360,289 percentage compensation, $100,000 salary, and $2,230 director fees, placed him third among the nation's highest paid persons.

NATION-WIDE SERVICE IN ALL LINES OF INSURANCE

"HE WHO BUILDS A MOUNTAIN ALSO DIGS A PIT!"

With the transition and expansion of many industries to a war pattern, the problems of legal and contractual liability, and property protection, are much more complex. Your insurance program may be adequate. But unless you are sure, in building the mountain you may also have dug a pit of hidden hazards.

In this war of production, every plant must be kept operating at top speed. Every breakdown of a vital machine, every man-hour lost through needless accident, every waste through preventable fire—increases the dangers of too little and too late.

We can help you maintain operating schedules by eliminating hidden hazards and reducing loss possibilities. This service costs you nothing. It can save you immeasurably.

PRICES OF USED CARS WITH GOOD TIRES ADVANCE

Suspension of Sedan Sales a Factor.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Prices of used automobiles have advanced substantially in the last month as the supply of cars equipped with good tires has declined, automobile dealers said yesterday. The governments's ban on the sale of new fourdoor Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth automobiles, now held in dealers' hands for government use, resulted in an immediate strengthening of the used car market.

Samuel B. Shapiro, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, said that since March 1 there has been a steady drop in the number of used cars held by dealers in Cook county. On March 1, he said, dealers held a 138 days' supply. On April 1 it was 111 days' supply; May 1, 86; June 1, 81; July 1, 59, and Aug. 1, 44.

Supply Half Year Ago Level.

The estimate was based on reports of used car stocks from about 200 Cook county dealers. This group had an average of 23 used cars on Aug. 1, compared with 27 on July 1 and 49 on Aug. 1, 1941.

Accompanying the upward tendency of retail prices for used cars has been an increase in the wholesale price range. Out of town dealers—especially from Ohio, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana and other nearby states—are reported to have been in close attendance at Chicago auction sales in the last few months.

The out of town dealers are reported to be offering heavy competition for the Chicago cars. One dealer from Salt Lake City, for example, was reported to have paid $1,500 for a used car which sold for $1,750 in Chicago when new.

The first thing dealers buying used cars look at now is the tires. If they are even fairly good the sale is assured.

Good Tires Bring Premium.

Ben T. Wright, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association and a Ford dealer, reported that used cars having good tires are bringing a premium. Cars in the so-called low price brackets in dealers' hands are virtually all sold out, he said. Cars in the medium price range and in good condition are still available, he added.

Sales of new 1942 cars frozen in dealers hands since the first of the year have not been up to expectations as persons eligible to buy them have not entered the market. Some dealers say that they are satisfied to let this condition continue, being confident that there will be no trouble in disposing of the cars later.

Meantime, many of the dealers have found a new problem in trying to maintain their service departments on which they must depend to meet their operating costs. Numerous employés have enlisted in the service companies being raised thru the efforts of the National Automobile Dealers association to maintain autos, trucks and other motive equipment of the American armed forces in the field. About 700 men from Illinois already have enlisted. Other service department employés have been lost to war plants.

10% of Belden Dividend to Be Paid in Bonds

Whipple Jacobs, president of the Belden Manufacturing company, announced yesterday that 10.6 per cent of the company's Sept. 1 dividend payment had been accepted by shareholders for payment in war bonds or stamps instead of cash.

In formulating its plan, the company adopted a suggestion made in a Chicago Tribune editorial on March 21. Treasury department officials indorsed the plan and urged its adoption by corporations generally. The ratio of Belden stockholders' acceptance exceeds the treasury goal of having all persons divert 10 per cent of income into the purchase of war bonds or stamps.

First to Adopt Proposal.

Jacobs expressed the opinion the Belden company, which manufactures insulated wire and other products in plants in Chicago and Richmond, Ind., was the first corporation with listed securities to make war bonds available to its shareholders.

Much of the output of the Belden factories is going directly into military planes, tanks, ships, and other weapons. Belden directors announced the optional dividend plan on Aug. 3, and increased the quarterly payment from 35 to 37½ cents a share to simplify conversion into war bonds.

The owner of 100 Belden shares will receive $37.50, just enough to acquire a war bond with a maturity value of $50. Dividends to holders of other amounts of stock may be converted on a similar basis, those owning 50 shares receiving enough to buy a $25 bond, and those holding 200 shares being paid enough for a $100 bond.

Will Get Two Awards.

Jacobs announced that the Belden company, in a ceremony next Monday, will receive a double award from the treasury department for its efforts to further war bond sales. The first award will be the treasury Minute Man flag for employé subscriptions under the pay roll allotment plan; the second a special citation for the company's war bond or cash dividend plan.

Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, praised the plan and urged its adoption by corporations generally.

The 37½ cents dividend approximates $90,500 on Belden's 241,547 shares of outstanding stock, indicating more than $9,000 of the amount is being converted into war bonds or stamps.

FIRST WAR RISK INSURANCE CUTS IN MONTHS MADE

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—The first reductions in cargo war risk insurance rates in months were made today by marine underwriters who credited "an increasing improvement in the convoy system" and inferred a sharp drop in submarine sinkings.

A general cut of $5 per $100 on such insurance was ordered for cargoes moving over most of the important trade routes traveled by United States ships. Premiums had run as high as $25 and $30 per $100 at the height of the enemy submarine activity.

SEC Approves Bond Issue for Utility War Expansion

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission approved today a proposed 5 million dollar bond issue of the Potomac Electric Power company to finance its war expansion program.

PRICE CEILINGS BEING PREPARED FOR LIVE HOGS

OPA Says Cattle Will Also Be Curbed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—Definite plans have been made to impose a price ceiling on live hogs and similar action on cattle is contemplated, J. K. Galbraith, deputy administrator of the Office of Price administration, announced today.

J. K. Galbraith.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard recently agreed to live stock ceiling prices after first opposing them when proposed by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

Must Get Wickard O. K.

Galbraith has been conferring with representatives of live stock producers and told them that preparation of the ceiling prices would be worked out with the producers and upon completion will be submitted to Wickard for his approval.

He told the producers that forthcoming ceiling revisions will eliminate inequalities betwen regions and different classes of buyers.

Galbraith said also that vigorous steps are being taken to enforce the grading provisions of the beef regulation which are designed to insure that the spread between the lower and higher grades of beef will approximate the relationships prevailing during the base period in March. He assured beef cattle producers that the OPA will take no steps which will have the effect of discouraging normal feeding and marketing of live stock.

Pledges No "Surprises."

"While feeders must exercise normal caution and avoid paying high prices for feeders," he said. "The working out of ceilings will be undertaken in close consultation with producers and with a full and complete recognition of the market relationships that are involved. Wherever possible advance announcements of impending action will be made so that producers can make necessary adjustments. Producers may depend that anything in the nature of surprise action will be avoided.

"The strong demand for beef cattle that is in prospect means that the market will be more rather than less stable as compared with other years. Feeders who buy carefully may look forward to the coming year with confidence."

HOG PRICES RISE

Hogs sold steady to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher yesterday at the Chicago stockyards, as small receipts and heavy demand for pork outweighed the prospect of ceiling prices on live stock.

The average price for hogs advanced 5 cents to $14.55, the first change in this figure for six trading sessions. This was the highest since July 21 and only 5 cents under the 1942 high.

Announcing the Results of the

BELDEN WAR BOND-OR-CASH DIVIDEND PLAN

ON August 3rd the directors of Belden Manufacturing Company declared a cash dividend of 37½c per share, payable September 1st to stock of record August 17th.

At the same time the Belden War Bond-or-Cash Dividend Plan was announced to Belden stockholders. This plan gave our stockholders the option of receiving their dividends either in United States War Bonds or Stamps or in cash.

To facilitate such war bond purchases the dividend was set at a figure which gave stockholders a return from each 50-share unit exactly equal to the purchase price of a $25.00 (maturity value) bond. The Plan merited the following statement from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr.:

"The salary allotment plan has met with widespread acceptance and we hope that the new method for reaching stockholder income meets with equally favorable public approval."

The above offer closed August 25th and final results of the Plan can now be announced:—

Belden stockholders subscribed for a total of 10.6 per cent of the dividend payment in United States War Bonds and Stamps. These results demonstrate that corporation dividends . . . as well as salaries and wages . . . can be diverted systematically to the purchase of War bonds, if a convenient means of conversion is provided. And, to the extent that the Belden Plan stimulates the buying of war bonds through voluntary subscription, it makes compulsory bond buying unnecessary. The patriotic spirit with which Belden stockholders responded to the Plan is indicated not only by the substantial subscription for war bonds but by their written comments, one of which follows in part:

"I think this is a splendid idea! Please continue to give us this privilege."

It has been estimated that similar plans, if generally adopted, could increase war bond sales by as much as $500,000,000 a year.

TAX, WAR NEWS GENERATE BROAD DROP IN STOCKS

Light Selling Prevents Large Losses.

New York, Aug. 26 (AP).—Russia's threatened loss of Stalingrad was the weightiest of several factors which today depressed the stock market further from its recent recovery. Most leaders had losses of fractions to a point or more, and only 76 of the 687 issues traded managed to advance.

Other bearish developments included the treasury's plans for heavier taxes on corporations and the National War Labor board's award of a retroactive wage increase to employés of five United States Steel subsidiaries.

Selling Never Large.

The market decline generated little speed because selling never attained large volume. Several "pivotal" issues showed fair resistance in early trading, but later the tone softened all along the line.

A drop of 0.4 of a point in the Associated Press average of 60 stocks pulled the index down to 36.5, compared with last week's high of 37.2.

A few wide declines were occasioned by special developments, such as the omission of dividends on the $6 and $7 preferred stocks of Electric Power and Light. Both issues dropped 2⅛.

The market was not noticeably stirred by President Roosevelt's announcement of plans for stabilizing wages and farm prices.

CHICAGO PRICES DROP.

Prices were generally lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. In a turnover of 14,000 shares, 59 issues were lower, 17 advanced, and 15 closed unchanged. Fuller Manufacturing, the most active issue, advanced ⅛. Chicago corporation, common and preferred, Swift International, and Libby were fractionally lower. In the last half hour, Borg-Warner gained ¼ from the New York close.

LOWER DIVIDEND RATE CONTINUED BY ILLINOIS BELL

Directors of the Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday declared a dividend of $1.75 a share, the same amount as was distributed three months ago, when the quarterly rate was cut from the $2 level maintained for several years.

PRIMARY GRAIN MOVEMENT.

GRAIN PRICES SAG UNDER THREAT OF INFLATION CURBS

Canada Reported Large Corn Buyer.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Grain prices sagged yesterday in the wake of President Roosevelt's promise of a plan to control farm prices, but elevator interests disclosed that for the first time in many months there was some export demand in the market. They revealed that sales of corn to Canadian buyers in the last few days were in excess of 200,000 bushels and said a larger business was in the making.

Wheat futures on the Board of Trade declined ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel, with the September delivery closing at $1.17⅛. Corn futures were off ½ to ⅝ cent. Oats closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Rye was down 1⅛ to 1¼ cents. Soy beans dropped ¼ to 1½ cents. All rye futures established new lows for the current crop.

Sales Under Strict Control.

A boatload of corn containing 78,200 bushels was reported loaded by Chicago elevators for export to Canada. The grain men said elevators have been shipping corn to Dominion buyers under strict government controls for about a week. Some observers believed the grain was going to Canadian distillers.

While estimates as to the amount varied considerably, market authorities indicated that more than 100,000 bushels of spring wheat has been sold by northwestern shippers to buyers in this market.

Interest in Spring Wheat Gains.

Dealers indicated that most elevators were bidding actively for the spring wheat.

Altho the President's anti-inflation controls are expected to have little effect on grain prices because all are selling well below parity levels, grain interests charged that continuous administration "threats" are endangering the agricultural production outlook. They added that if hog prices are brought under control and grains are permitted to rise, the favorable hog feeding ratio may disappear and pork production decline.

OLD TYPEWRITER SUPPLY FOR RENT REPORTED AMPLE

Term Return Rule Boon for Small Dealer.

Despite the fact that all rented standard model typewriters manufactured since Jan. 1, 1935, were ordered returned to rental agencies by Sept. 15, to be made available to the government and the armed forces, there will be a sufficient supply of older machines for rental, typewriter dealers agreed yesterday.

Robert C. Goldblatt.

Robert C. Goldblatt, president of the Chicago Typewriter Dealers' association, said the order would prove to be a boon for smaller dealers, many of whom have a large supply of older typewriters.

Sees Shift of Business.

Heretofore, he said, much of the rental business was done by manufacturers, who dealt only in the newer machines. Much of this business now will go to those with older machines.

One of the hardships expected to result from the order is in the overhauling and repair of machines. The regulations provide that no new portable or any standard size typewriter made since 1935 may be rented, leased, or loaned.

This means that a customer sending a machine for repairs to a manufacturer or dealer who does not have older machines available to lend must get along without a replacement while his is being repaired.

Many in Precarious Position.

Since the freezing of typewriters, said Goldblatt, who heads the Star Typewriter company, many of the smaller concerns have been in a precarious position because of the fact that the demand for newer machines gave most of the rental business to the manufacturers. The new regulation will give many small concerns the financial lift needed to permit them to stay in business, he predicted.

The government's need for additional typewriters, reported at 500,000 machines, is reflected in the recent warning by the procurement division of the War Production board that unless business houses sell the government 25 per cent of their supply, unless vitally needed, the government will requisition them, will pay only half price, and the firms will be forced to sue for the other half.

BUTTER FUTURES HOLDERS SELL TO REALIZE PROFITS

Speculators who had accumulated large paper profits in the spectacular rise of butter prices the last few weeks converted those profits yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange on reports that President Roosevelt is preparing to unfold a new administration plan to keep wages and farm commodity prices in bounds. Both butter and egg futures fell as much as ½ cent at one time.

Butter futures closed .35 to .40 cent a pound lower, the November delivery ending at 41.75 cents.

Egg futures showed no rallying power, brokers said, and the market closed .25 to .50 cent a dozen lower with October at 35.05 cents.

Potato futures, in new high ground for the season Tuesday, were pulled down by profit taking and hedge selling during the fore part of the session. Idaho russets, the delivery variety, rose to $4.15 a hundred pounds in the wholesale market, up 10 cents from the preceding day.

POWER OUTPUT FOR WEEK SETS ALL-TIME MARK

Use of electric power was the largest in the history of the nation last week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. Output was 3,673,717,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 3,654,795,000 the preceding week and 3,230,750,000 for the corresponding period last year.

The week's output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies was 158,844,000 kilowatt hours, an increase over both the 154,550,000 of the preceding week and the 144,114,000 output a year ago.

The Federal Power commission also announced an all-time July output record of 15,762,924,000 kilowatt hours, an average of 541,681,000 kilowatt hours. This represented an increase of 1.9 above bchhOiP etaoin shrdlu cfw per cent above June and 11.9 per cent over July, 1941.

People and Events

The Army-Navy "E" award for excellence in war production will be raised above Western Electric's Hawthorne Works at 2:45 p. m. today during a ceremony attended by the company's several thousand workers.

Donald Royce, vice president and manager of the Blyth & Co. Chicago office, has been named supervisor of sales production for the firm in southern California with headquarters in Los Angeles. He will be succeeded in Chicago by Alfred S. Wiltberger, who has been in charge of wholesale activities in the middle west.

NEGRO BUSINESS GIVEN STIMULUS UNDER WAR ROLE

League Told of Many Firms' Contracts.

Negro business has a definite part in the war effort, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, told 500 delegates to the annual convention of the National Negro Business league in Du Sable High school yesterday.

A number of Negro companies have obtained war contracts, Dr. Patterson said. He listed a parachute firm in California financed by Rochester, radio and film star, a clothing firm in Kansas City, and a tool manufacturing plant in New York in which Lester Granger of the National Urban league has an interest.

Provides Many Jobs.

A 4 million dollar air base just completed at Tuskegee, Ala., employed more than 1,900 Negroes of all skills, he said. The Negro engineering firm of Alexander & Repass is constructing a million dollar bridge in the District of Columbia.

Dr. Patterson asserted that Negro enterprises in areas of large cantonments have experienced increased business, and that the war construction program has expanded wages with a resulting stimulus to Negro business in general.

Walker Addresses Meeting.

Dr. J. E. Walker, Memphis, Tenn., president of the league, spoke last night.

The convention of the organization, founded in 1900 by Booker T. Washington, will continue thru tomorrow. Delegates include insurance men, bankers, dairy men, grocers, laundry operators, contractors, and brokers.

Welch, whose world-wide survey of aircraft production in 1936 disclosed the strength at that time of the axis air powers. JULY STEEL LOSS FROM SCRAP PUT AT 500,000 TONS

America's steel production in July could have been larger by 500,000 tons if scrap or other metallics had been available for the manufacture of this essential war material, Iron Age estimated yesterday. It said there are indications that Great Britain will start exporting scrap to the United States.

Supplies are said to be satisfactory for practically all British mills in Britain. Large amounts of scrap were sent to England under lend-lease, making a dent in American supplies.

July's steel operating rate was estimated at 94.5 per cent of capacity on a basis of the new capacity figures, whereas with a sufficient amount of raw materials the rate might well be at a higher than 102.5 per cent of capacity, Iron Age said.

F. S. James Insurance Firm Observes 70th Anniversary

The insurance firm of Fred S. James & Co. observed its 70th anniversary yesterday by dedicating a new 5½ ton clock, suspended over the northeast corner of La Salle and Madison streets. The clock was set in motion by George W. Blossom Jr., president of the firm, at 1 North La Salle street.

REVENUES SOAR, BUT GREYHOUND PROFIT DECLINES

Taxes, Higher Expenses Offset Gains.

The Greyhound corporation, transcontinental bus operator with executive offices in Chicago, reported yesterday that its net income in the six months ended June 30 was substantially lower, despite a 66 per cent gain in operating revenue over last year. Increased taxes and expenses largely absorbed profit which normally would accrue from the additional volume of traffic, the corporation said.

The six month profit was $2,245,420, or 77 cents a common share, compared with $2,708,964, or 95 cents a share, a year ago.

12½ Million Tax Provision.

Reflecting the increase in bus travel caused by the war and rubber conservation measures, operating revenues totaled $52,062,291, against $31,361,470.

The company provided for $12,570,548 for taxes, compared with $1,995,333 a year earlier. Tax provisions this year included $9,652,900 for federal excess profits taxes. No similar provision was made a year ago because of legislative uncertainties, the company said, but $2,303,833 was provided for the entire year.

Truax-Traer Coal company, Chicago, reported consolidated net profit of $112,495, equal to 24 cents a share, for the quarter ended July 31.

COPPER PRODUCER.

Will you please provide a report on Consolidated Coppermines corporation. Has the company been able to increase production to meet war time demand?—S. E.

Answer: This company owns a large low grade copper deposit near Ely, Nev. Output is treated at the adjoining smelter and concentrator of Kennecott Copper corporation. Ore from Consolidated Coppermines property contains a relatively high amount of gold and silver, aiding the company in keeping production costs down.

Production of copper increased from 25,880,706 pounds in 1937 to 53,702,798 pounds in 1941, and gold and silver output rose substantially. A record of recent financial operations follows:

	Copper sales.	Net income.	Dividends.
1941	$6,389,531	$1,034,312	$0.75
1940	6,040,207	812,194	0.50
1939	4,299,142	903,025	0.30
1938	3,938,294	324,918	0.25
1937	2,269,078	503,139	0.12½

A 10 cent dividend has been paid this year.

The company was incorporated in Delaware in 1922 as successor to Consolidated Coppermines company. Sole capitalization at the end of 1941 was 1,590,596 shares of $5 par common outstanding. The stock is listed on the New York Stock exchange and ranged from 4⅞ to 8⅛ last year.

EXTRA DIVIDEND.

Did the American Laundry Machinery company recently declare an extra dividend on the common stock?—J. M.

CHARLIE, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE WAR NEWS?

I HATE TO BREAK UP THIS LITTLE VISIT, BUT YOU KNOW, CHARLIE, WE'VE GOT TO GET THOSE POLES CUT UP INTO FENCE POSTS.

Clark Gable Joins Up

Chicago Daily Tribune
Thursday, August 27, 1942

Clark Gable and Hedy Lamarr in a romantic scene from the motion picture "Boom Town." Gable now is a corporal at the officers' candidate school of the army air forces at Miami Beach, Fla.

With Vivien Leigh in "Gone With the Wind." In this picture Gable portrayed the blockade runner, Rhett Butler, who did not join up with the Confederate army until the Civil war was nearly over. He has acted differently in real life.

Gable receiving orders from Master Sergeant N. E. Bayless to report to the Miami Beach army school shortly after having been sworn in at Los Angeles as a private. The Tribune color picture of General MacArthur shows in the background.

With his late wife, Carole Lombard, on their California ranch. Miss Lombard, a star in her own right, was killed in an airplane accident Jan. 16, after completing a war bond selling campaign.
